Introducing Another Member of the "Campus Chatter"
family: Miss Suzie Soze

Suzie! As she "seams", so is she!

Now Suzie has a passion for making the most of papa's money, as well as for GETTING the most of it.
—Hence she has discovered — that scissors may be used with profit other than for clipping coupons; and that a needle properly propelled, may point the way to a larger and better wardrobe.

ONE OTHER THING (and this the most important) has our Suzie doped out: That the art of Making One's Clothes becomes as simple as a lesson in Creative Listening when materials are assembled at:

MAYER BROS. CO.

From the Pattern — to the last button, there is everything to satisfy the urge of the collegiate modiste in Mayer Bros. FABRIC SECTIONS and adjoining departments.

CONSIDER, SAYS SUZIE: MAYER BROS. EXCELLA PATTERNS:
"So simple a child can use them" with a Fashion Quarterly that costs but an ultimate nickel.
MAYER BROS. FABRICS:
54 inch Flannels, $2.95
54 inch Kasba in bois de rose, blue, natural, green, tan, and other shades, $4.50
Heavy printed crepe, $2.98
Striped and plain silk broad-cloths and pongees, $1.95
Dashing foulards, $1.69
Chiffon, gorgeously printed, $3.95
Flat crepe in a rainbow of sport tints, $2.48
Lingerie Fabrics!
Voiles!
Rayons!

It Remains, Then — but to dash down to Mayer Bros. Co., consult Suzie Soze — purchase a few yards of this and that together with the necessary trifles — ply the trusty needle and your fashion wits — and PRESTO!!!! A dazzling summer wardrobe will be yours, and one that is — oh, so very easy on the allowance!

man is a very good demonstrator."

Whitman's method is called "The Le Grange Method of Reduction of Dislocations."

Whitman has a sister, to whom he sends a souvenir gift from each University he visits. From Nebraska he sent a stuffed, cloth elephant, in red and white.

"I make no charge for my cures, although I am often given money," the doctor stated. He draws a pension from the Canadian government, having served his native country in the World War.

Whitman charges a fee of twenty-five cents, however, for those who attend his demonstrations.

Whitman will remain in Lincoln until May 2.
