EXPECT NEARLY THOUSAND AT FRAT BANQUET

Greeks Meet in Annual Dinner At Scottish Rite Temple Tonight

FORMER REGENT TO TALK

Scholarship Plaques Will Be Awarded To Fifteen High National Fraternities

The fourth annual interfraternity banquet will be held tonight at the Scottish Rite Temple. Most fraternities have voted to close their tables and an attendance of between eight hundred and nine hundred is expected, according to William S. Trumbull, chairman of the committee.

Mr. E. S. Waterbury, general manager of the Armour Packing company, of Omaha, will be the principal speaker. He is a former University of Nebraska Regent and comes to address the students most highly recommended. Mr. Waterbury has traveled extensively and recently returned from a European trip on which he spent several months in Russia.

Avery Toastmaster

Chancellor Avery will act as toastmaster and the toast list will be cut short to three speakers in order to do away with dragging effect of the banquet in former years.

Following the banquet the presentation of scholarship plaques will be made by Prof. R. J. Pool, present chairman of the Interfraternity Council. These scholarship plaques are awarded the fifteen national fraternities having the highest scholastic averages for the two preceding semesters. This scholarship idea was introduced several years ago by Prof. R. D. Scott, former chairman of the Council.

Special music has been engaged to play during the serving of the banquet and decorations are under way at the present time.

The invocation will be delivered by an old Nebraska alumnus, Dr. Francis W. Russell, '90, now pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Lincoln.

Summer School Class Starts June 8; Registration Is Limited To Fifty

The University of Nebraska Botany courses for the summer session will begin in Estes Park, Colorado, June 8, closing July 14. The work will be under the immediate personal supervision of Dr. Raymond J. Pool, chairman of the department of botany. Dr. Pool has conducted classes for several summers in the mountains and he is familiar with the conditions and materials available for such work in Colorado.

The courses will be of particular value to teachers of botany, biology, and nature study in public schools and colleges, as well as to college students who wish to supplement their training and broaden their acquaintance with the field. Natural resources will be utilized with particular reference to flowering plants, forests, etc.

Camp Olympus, where the students stay, is well equipped and situated in a beautiful spot. Class rooms and living quarters are included in the camp. The registration is limited to fifty.

Attempts To Stop Production of 'The Red Cockatoo' Tonight Futile

Business Manager Erickson of University Players Asserts Prize Play To Be Given Despite Attempts To Bring Pressure To Suppress It

"All Too True," Says Engberg
Because of rumors regarding "The Red Cockatoo" The Daily Nebraskan interviewed Executive Dean Engberg Wednesday evening. He declared: "As it is impossible for me to attend the production of 'The Red Cockatoo' tonight because of several previous engagements, I called for a copy of the play to see what the authors had accomplished. I found that it was unfortunately all too true. It is an excellent description of modern jazz life. Vice, first seen, is abhorred, then endured, and finally embraced. It might be well for all to see 'The Red Cockatoo' in order to know what not to do."

The sensational publicity which has been given "The Red Cockatoo," Nebraska's prize play, was decried yesterday by many prominent campus personages, and investigations were threatened by various groups.

Al Erickson, business manager of the University Players, replied with the statement that: "There have been threats that because of the nature of 'The Red Cockatoo' pressure will be brought by certain well meaning but misguided persons, to prevent the staging of the play this evening. Although the authors of 'The Red Cockatoo' does call a spade a spade, she is going to get a hearing. The theater is booked, the tickets are sold, the rehearsals are completed, and any attempt to stop the performance will be met with proper and effective police protection."

Rumors that the play was based on a personal experience, were discredited by the authors, Miss Ruth Moore, and the president of Delta Delta Delta sorority, Miss Frances McChesney. Miss Moore is a member of Delta Delta Delta.

SECOND GENERATION STUDENTS SOUGHT

Alumni Association Asks All Whose Parents Attended This School To Report

The Nebraska Alumni Association is very anxious to get in touch with all second-generation students. By "second-generation" students is meant any student whose father or mother or both had at any time attended the University of Nebraska. Any student whose parents were never enrolled in the school but whose grandparents at some time attended, are also called second-generation students. All those falling under this class will be invited to attend the alumni banquet held Saturday noon of the Round-up and will also take part in other events of the week.

It is believed that there are a large number of second-generation students in school and the alumni association urges every one to turn in his name to the alumni headquarters as soon as possible.

Huge Granite 'War Club' Puzzles Collectors of Old Indian Relics

A huge "war club" of gray granite, over a foot long and six inches wide, and weighing sixteen pounds, is one of the most interesting relics in the museum of the Nebraska State Historical Society. A number of similar relics have been found in eastern Iowa and somewhat smaller ones in Nebraska. The use to which the primitive Indian put these great clubs is being made a subject of scientific inquiry.

To suppose that these were used as an implement of slaughter is preposterous, for, according to Mr. E. E. Blackman, curator of the Society museum, a man who could effectively wield such a club in the heat of battle must have been twelve feet high and must have weighed half a ton. Since nowhere have the skeletal remains of such huge people been found the theory that these are war clubs for use in battle must be abandoned.

Archaeologists are inclined to classify such implements as "ceremonials," and offer a plausible reason for their existence by explaining the probable ceremony which they were fashioned to celebrate. This particular one, although certainly old and weather-beaten, shows no nicks or batter from hard usage, and was probably guarded carefully as a sacred emblem.

KATHERINE COSTINE
The leading role in "The Red Cockatoo", prize Nebraska play to be presented in The Temple this evening, will be taken by Katherine Costine.

APRIL BLUE PRINT ISSUED

Articles by Alumni Featured in Current Number of Engineers Publication

REPORT ON INSPECTION

The April number of the Nebraska Blue Print was issued Wednesday. The issue contains many articles of interest by both alumni and students.

An article by Geo. N. Carter, E. E. '13, Director of Water Resources, State of Idaho, describes how the water of the Snake River has been made to aid the farm lands in Idaho. Mr. Carter also tells of the work which still remains to be accomplished before this river will be made to yield power and farm products to its valley.

"To Chicago and Back Via the Fords" by H. B. Kinsinger, M. E., '26, tells of the narrow escapes and harrowing experiences of a party of eight which drove to Chicago through the mud and snow for the engineering inspection trip the first part of April.

"Hall of Fame"
Some inside facts relative to the use of oil as fuel are told in an article by Wm. Schneider, M. E., '26, entitled "The Truth About Oil Burning."

The department called the "Hall of Fame" has a story of Ray Plamer Teale, agricultural economist of the United States Department of Agriculture. Mr. Teale graduated with an A. B. degree in 1887 and gained his M. A. in 1899. Soon after his graduation he accepted the position with the United States Department of Agriculture and was assigned to the irrigation investigation of that department with which he has been connected ever since.

A list of qualities said to be desirable in instructors is given in the Dean's Corner.

CORN COBS WILL INITIATE FRIDAY

Seventeen New Members Will Be Taken Into Husker Pep Organization

The second semester initiation of Corn Cobs will be held at the University Club Friday evening. The initiation ceremony will precede the annual banquet of the pep organization, starting at 5:30. Seventeen members elected to the organization last fall will be taken in at this time and plans for the coming school year will be made following the banquet, which will start at 6 o'clock.

It is possible that a delegate will be elected to represent the local chapter of Pi Epsilon Pi at the Missouri Valley convention, which is to be held at Kansas University this week-end. The representative elected will leave Friday night for Lawrence.

Plans will also be made for several activities to be conducted by the Corn Cobs during Alumni Week which includes a novel stunt presentation at the Field House alumni night.

'University Colosseum' Probable New Name To Be Given Field House

The University Colosseum will be the probable name of the Field House, which is now nearing completion. The new name as yet is tentative, but has been approved by Chancellor Avery as the official name to be submitted for the University publications. Final approval, however, will be made by the Board of Regents before the name becomes official.

The new name was chosen as a result of a contest held by the Nebraska Alumni association for naming the new building. Accordingly, the association offered the alumni an inducement to help choose a name—a life membership in the alumni association is to be given the alumnus who submitted the name, provided it is accepted by the University authorities. The name was chosen with the fact in mind that the new structure is not a gymnasium, but a student center, where student and University functions can be held and large numbers accommodated.

Carnival in Field House Will Be New Feature of Alumni Round-up

Cadets Commended for Work During Inspection

The undersigned desires to express to all members of the cadet regiment his appreciation of the splendid spirit shown and effort made during the War Department inspection, May 7, 1926. Each one strove to do his best even under adverse weather conditions. It is this determination on the part of each one that will bring us success. We hope that the showing you made will keep the institution in the class of distinguished colleges.

Student Employment Discussed by Trumbull in Radio Address

Student employment was discussed in an address given by William S. Trumbull, employment secretary of the University Y. M. C. A., through the University broadcasting studio Wednesday. He told how the problem of employment was greater for first year men than for others and that here the large part of the work of the employment bureau of the University came to bear. He remarked that students must shoulder responsibility and show some dependability before they would be considered for jobs.

His address follows: "Many and diverse comments have gone out through the State concerning student employment at the University of Nebraska. It has been the object of much speculation and it is something that interests probably fifty per cent or more of the men students entering the University, interests them vitally for on it depends whether some of them remain in school or are forced to return home. The employment situation is of front rank in any community, and the university problem is not unique in this respect.

Situation Good Here
"At Nebraska I believe the employment situation, considering the number of other schools located in Lincoln, is exceptionally good. To my

Committee of Students and Graduates Co-Operating on Affairs; Sorority and Fraternity Representatives To Compete for Prize

An indoor carnival, to be held at the Field House the evening of Friday, May 28, is a new feature of the Cornhusker Round-up to be tried out this year.

The entire Field House is to be used for the event. Half of the floor space will be occupied by the "streets of Cairo". Booths of all sorts, burlesques, and stunts galore are being arranged for entertainment. Properties from the Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha will be imported for the evening and will be added to those made especially for the carnival.

Good music will be provided for those who wish to dance. The University Band will play from 7:30 until 9 o'clock. A popular dance orchestra will play the rest of the evening.

There will be stunts by faculty, students, and alumni.

DRAKE EASY FOR HUSKER TRACK TEAM

Nebraska Takes Measure of Iowans in Wednesday Meet, 92 to 38

SLOW TRACK BOTHERS

Locke Runs His Slowest Century of The Year; Westoupal, Drafted, Wins Javelin

The Husker track and field squad had little difficulty defeating Drake in the stadium yesterday afternoon, running up a score of 92 1-3 to 38 2-3. The track was slow from the recent rains. Although the meet as a whole was a walk-away, the Drake team furnished some keen competition in several events that brought the crowd to their feet.

Locke ran his slowest 100 in competition of the year, making it in 10.1. He had a light breeze against him and got away to a poor start. He pulled out a little better in the 220 but his best performance was running as anchor man on the relay team.

Davenport, Wyatt, and Dailey loafed along behind the Drake runners in accordance with instructions from Schulte. Dailey gave Locke the stick with an even start, and before the curve was reached the fleet North Platter had put a good distance between himself and the Drake anchor man. Coming into the last straightaway far ahead, he eased down and joggled in the last yards, having slowed almost to a walk at the finish and then succeeded in running it in fifty and a half seconds.

Drake Sets Record in 880

Van Lanningham of Drake set a new stadium track record for the 880 when he beat out Roberts by a scant margin, covering the distance in 1 minute, 57.6 seconds.

Both the hurdle races were close enough to keep the crowd on its feet. In the high hurdles, Ed Weir and the Drake star, Simpson, came down the track neck and neck, with Weir winning in 15.4 seconds, fast time considering the track and the weather.

In the low hurdles, Simpson fell on the second one. But another Drake man, Penquite, ran even with Weir down the final stretch and beat him out at the finish. Penquite collapsed just over the finish line.

Quarter Is Close

As expected the 440 was a good race. Tolles of Drake who won the quarter in the Iowa State-Drake dual meet last week took the lead with
