Trumbull Discusses Student Employment

A small number to be sure. Some were disappointed in not finding work immediately, others had to leave for the same reason. These circumstances are inevitable and altogether natural. With so large an influx of students looking for work within the short period of two weeks there is bound to be a surplus of men for the job available. This surplus continues for the first few months. As the year progresses students, working themselves into different positions, are gradually absorbed. "The employment situation in the fall might well be compared with a heavy rainfall. In the case of the latter the ground is unable to absorb it all and some of it runs off. Likewise, the down-pour of students desiring work in the fall is so heavy that some of them are certain not to be absorbed. But the student who comes here with a good reserve of available cash and does not let that fact slow up his efforts to get a job will invariably pull through the year and be successful in getting work. For this reason I advocate that the prospective working student create as large a cash reserve as he can before coming to Lincoln so that he can survive the first. He will be here ready to grasp the opportunity when it appears.

Hardest For Freshmen
"The first year man has, of course, the hardest time in getting located. First of all he is unacquainted with his new environment; he is forced to go through a mental readjustment. Secondly, he has usually no connections in Lincoln where he can get advice or be directed to a possible opening. Thirdly, Juniors and Seniors in school, older men with more experience, offer stiff competition for men just out of high school. The older men oftentimes hold their job from year to year, perhaps throughout the time they are in college.

"I would say that the first year for men in college is their test year. If they survive that one they can survive the remaining years required by their course. The hard thing to do is to get established, to get a job. Once they do get one they will have little difficulty in getting others if they do their work properly. That is where we come in. We consider that our most important function is not to run up a large amount earned nor to exceed all others in the number of positions filled, but to take the new and inexperienced students who need to earn all or part of their expenses and help them get started right, and to equip them so that they may obtain the greatest possible returns for their services.

Cannot Guarantee Jobs
"We cannot guarantee men jobs, nor can we set any date at which time we will get them. We always tell men to come in as often as they feel inclined to, between classes, going to or from classes, a dozen times a day if they want to. Calls come in from employers at all hours of the day and the employer invariably wants someone right away.
"Speaking generally, I believe that the practical experience that students have before coming to the University is on the increase. This sometimes results from necessity of working while in high school. Often this experience is gained for the express purpose of helping them through college. Regardless of the reason, it is a good thing for one who contemplates working his way through college to get all the practical experience he can before he tries it.
"I would like to stress the fact that students must cultivate and exercise dependability. Student workers must, of necessity, do their work at odd hours during the day when they do not have classes. This means that jobs are not always finished the same day they are begun. What the working student should do is to go back of his own volition and finish it up. Once you have begun a job make or offer to make necessary arrange-

"N" Men
Every "N" man must be at the Army at 8 o'clock Sunday morning for the picnic. Those with available cars report to the Athletic office before Saturday, Secretary, N Club.

N. E. S.
Business meeting of Nebraska Engineering Society in M. E. 206 at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

Art Club
Art Club will elect officers for the coming year at a regular meeting to be held in the art gallery at 6 o'clock today.

Palladian
There will be no meeting of the Palladian Society this Friday. The annual Crete picnic of the society will be held Saturday, May 15.

Student Must Be Responsible
"It is up to the student worker to prove that he is reliable and that he can take responsibility and shoulder it. Once this is proven the other disadvantages will vanish. Ability to shoulder and carry responsibility is what employers everywhere seek in their employees. The continuance of our service depends upon the students showing that they are men of that calibre. One student who proves himself unworthy can do more harm to the working student body as a whole than the good done by ten men, who work conscientiously.
"A man managing a business has to look entirely at the business side of the proposition. His overhead must be sufficiently small to allow him to meet competition and yet realize a profit. He cannot, therefore, afford to be very philanthropic, which means that a student to meet the competition for jobs, is going to have to live on the goods.
Inefficiency Rare
"We never recommend a student for a position unless we feel that he is qualified to do the work in a satisfactory manner. Cases of inefficiency and unreliability among students have been few. Whenever we find a student who is not efficient in one kind of work we try to find something else that he can do more efficiently, and if a student does not care enough for the work to be reliable we drop him from our lists.
"I must not pass without a word of appreciation to those who so kindly lend their aid to this office. To the Lions Club of Lincoln we owe no small debt of gratitude and thanks. Every fall these men, who have more business of their own than they can take care of, devote an entire afternoon in making a thorough canvass of the whole downtown business district, endeavoring to locate all possible openings for students. This gives our fall drive for employment an impetus it could hardly otherwise obtain. The Daily Nebraskan, our school paper, and the Lincoln Star and Journal have always extended to us any aid we have asked. I can also frankly say that I can not ask for better co-operation from individuals than is given me by the people of the city of Lincoln. They have always proven themselves mindful of the fact that a large number of students are dependent on the work they are able to get to put them through school. I sincerely hope that I will be able to continue to merit their approval and support which is essential to the life of this office."

EARLY ENTRIES FOR VALLEY MEET FILED
Grinnell and Oklahoma Lists Received
By Athletic Director
H. D. Gish
With the annual Missouri Valley track and field meet which is to be held in the Nebraska Memorial stadium Friday and Saturday, May 21 and 22, still more than a week away, two schools have already filed their entry lists with Athletic Director H. D. Gish.
The first schools to send in their entries were Grinnell and Oklahoma. Included in the Oklahoma entries will be Cox, holder of the Valley javelin record. All the entries are expected to be in by the middle of next week.
If the rains are over, the stadium track should be in the finest shape and ready for a string of record breakers. All the dope points to an unusually fast meet this year. With Locke, Conger, Kimpfort, Wirsig, Lancaster, Stephens, Richerson, Var Lanningham, Steele, and a host of other stars entered, Nebraska sport fans are assured of some real races.

NEW COURSE IN HOME EC

Four-Year Combination of Home Economics and Liberal Arts Planned

WIDENS WOMEN'S FIELD

A new course for home economics students will be offered in the Colleges of Agriculture next fall, known as a Liberal Course in Home Economics. This course has home economics as a foundation and will permit specialization in other work such as history, languages, music, sociology, or physical education.
The course is designed to meet the needs of those students who wish a broad cultural education in home economics and the liberal arts. The course will not only prepare for the vocation of homemaking, but it will prepare women for a number of other vocations such as: clothing designers, specialized teachers in foods and nutrition, managers of tea rooms, textile buyers, and extension specialists. These are only a few of the numerous positions open to home economics graduates.
The following is a list of the requirements for each of the four years in the Liberal Course in Home Economics in the College of Agriculture:

Freshman Program.
First: Take group 1.
Second: Take any one or two of group 2.

Attempt To Suppress 'The Red Cockatoo'

Cockatoo' and we are solidly behind Miss Moore in her movement to expose the weaknesses of the present social system," said Miss McChesney. "Miss Moore regrets that rumors have arisen that the play is a personal experience of an embittered sorority sister. Miss Moore has always been an active and loyal Tri Delta and we are proud that the committee selected her play. I believe that every sorority girl should see the play."

Dr. Louise Pound, when interviewed by a representative of The Nebraskan, said: "I heard Miss Moore read 'The Red Cockatoo' before the Coffee Kettle Club of Lincoln at a meeting at the Lincoln Country Club. The ladies liked the play very much indeed they were deeply impressed with it, as she read it. They thought it literary, charming, and subtle. Nor did they interpret it as violent propaganda of any type."

Innocents Refuse Endorsement
A request from the sponsors of the play that the Innocents pass a resolution urging the students to attend was read at the meeting of the society Tuesday evening, but no action was taken.

Robert Craig, president of Kosmet Klub, declared, however, that he believed plays by students deserved the support and encouragement of all persons interested in theatrical work. He said that the one object of Kosmet Klub was the encouragement of student play-writing, and that all efforts in this direction should be heartily endorsed.

Herbert Yenne, who is directing the rehearsals, refused to comment on the play.

store by Wednesday evening, and the management was confident that the play will be greeted by a full house. The Temple will seat 620 persons, and it will probably be possible to obtain tickets at the door yet this evening.

The audience, according to present indications, will be composed almost entirely of University students. Lincoln people, who ordinarily comprise a large part of the audience at University plays, have not been solicited to buy tickets, it being the policy of the management to bring the play before the eyes of the students. The Interfraternity banquet at the Scottish Rite Temple tonight will be over in time for the fraternity men to see the show. It is urged that all men planning to attend the banquet be on time, in order that the banquet may start promptly at 6 o'clock.

Arrest Yale Law Student
A Yale law student was the first one arrested as the result of New Haven's drive for the enforcement of the "jaywalking" law.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology School of Chemical Engineering Practice

INDIVIDUAL and practical training at five industrial plants are important features of the Graduate Course in Chemical Engineering Practice. Field work is carried out at Bangor, Me.; Boston, Mass., and Buffalo, N. Y.; in plants producing sulphite and soda pulp, paper, caustic soda, chlorine, heavy acids and salts, sugar, coke, gas, steel and other chemical products.

The more important operations of Chemical Engineering, as typified by the above processes, are studied systematically by tests and experiments on actual plant apparatus, thus fixing in the student's mind the principles of Chemical Engineering and correlating these principles with practice.

The work is non-remunerative and independent of plant control, the whole attention of the students being directed to study and experimentation.

Registration is limited, as students study and experiment in small groups and receive individual instruction.

Admission requires adequate preparation in chemistry and engineering. Able students can complete the requirements for the Master of Science degree in one and a half years.

$360 REWARD Plus Two Months of Sales Training

FOR eight weeks during July and August we offer you an opportunity to put class room theories to the test—to acquire under trained salesmen a business experience that will be invaluable later on—and last, but not least, a chance to bring the emaciated bankroll to its former robust state.

This summer as in previous years, Woman's World—a magazine entering 1,325,000 homes monthly—invents ambitious college men to enter its subscription sales organization, to work shoulder to shoulder with seasoned veterans, to learn the thrill that comes with getting a prospect's name on the dotted line and to reap the cash rewards that industry and ability invariably bring.

The work is dignified, intensely interesting and keeps you out in the open. No other branch of modern business offers such large or such quick returns as does the sales department. This is a real opportunity and we will help you make the grade.

A letter or postcard will bring you full details without obligation, together with a booklet of letters from other college men in our employ. Write promptly, please, as units are now being filled.
