

Thanksgiving Recess Heartily Endorsed

 President of Junior Class
 Robert Davenport, president of the junior class: "I think that it is the opinion of the majority of students that school should be dismissed Friday. There are very few who would not welcome the chance to spend a few days with their parents."
 Ralph Bergsten, business manager of the Cornhusker: "I would approve very much any action of the University Senate in dismissing classes on the Friday following Thanksgiving."

Macklin C. Thomas, editor of the Awgan: "I know for myself that I would like to spend a few days at home during Thanksgiving and I am sure that it is the opinion of the majority of the students of the university."

Morton's Statement
 Simpson Morton, business manager of The Daily Nebraskan: "I am entirely in favor of an extra holiday on the day following Thanksgiving."

Louis Turner, business manager of The Awgan: "There are no objections on my part for the dismissal of school on the day after Thanksgiving and I would welcome the opportunity for a red day rest at this time of the year."

Kenneth W. Cook, business manager of the Glee Club: "For the students who live a considerable distance from the university and do not get to go home except at the Christmas recess, the granting of the Friday after Thanksgiving would be very welcome. As long as the time is to be made up at a later date I can see no objections to it."

Fraternity Approves
 John A. Boyer, major in the R. O. T. C. and first lieutenant of Scabbard and Blade, speaking for the members of Phi Delta Theta: "We would all welcome a holiday on the Friday following Thanksgiving and I am sure there would be little objection about making up the day later in the year."

V. Royce West, chairman of University Night: "I favor heartily any movement to bring about a holiday on the Friday following Thanksgiving. I think the general opinion of the student body is to the same effect."

FRESHMAN WEEK
 (Ohio State Lantern)

Recognition is at last being given the problems that face freshmen as they enter Ohio State or any other college or university.

A committee appointed to investigate the proposed Freshman Week recommends the trial of the plan after it has been brought before the faculty and approved by that group. The question seems to be whether or not the faculty will approve the scheme since it is bound to cut the vacation of at least some of the professors a week short.

In all, three separate plans for Freshman Week varying only in intensity, are submitted by the committee. The first is a minimum program that provides for freshmen to come to the campus early for the regular physical, psychological, and other examinations. A director would be required by this plan and expense would be kept at a minimum.

The second plan embodies all the features of the first and in addition would provide for additional supervisors and special lectures to the new students in groups of four hundred to five hundred.

The last of the suggested programs would be the same as the first except for additional supervisors and the division of the entire freshman class into groups varying between thirty and fifty for instruction and guidance in the ways of the University.

All of these plans are admirable and each would be satisfactory. The third is to be preferred before the second and the second before the first only because the groups under one supervisor would be smaller and the attention given to each individual freshman greater. As a practical choice, the best plan that can be afforded should be adopted.

Surely there can be no doubt but what some such plan is needed. Under the present scheme of things the freshmen and other new students are collected from all points in the country and some outside of it and are unceremoniously dumped on the campus in a mad heap. A surprisingly large number of these people never have been away from home before and they very frankly do not know what it is all about.

Most of them are in a strange city among strangers. They are faced with problems that they never knew existed. They are forced to buy their own food and clothing, select their own rooms, handle their own finances, and make their own decisions. Is it any wonder that some of them act bewildered for a while?

The purpose of the proposed Freshman Week is to bring the frosh to the campus early enough so they can get acclimated before classes start and so they can get a general

W. A. A. Picnic Plans Are Nearly Complete

Plans for the annual Woman's Athletic Association picnic to be held a week from this coming Saturday are well under way. Miss Helen Clark, social chairman, reports that much enthusiasm is being shown among the newly entering University women, as well as among the members of W. A. A.

A poster has been placed on the W. A. A. bulletin board for the signatures of those planning to go on the picnic. The picnic group will meet on the Armory steps at 2 o'clock October 23, dressed in knickerbockers or sport costume. Blossom Benz will assist the social chairman. Picnic lunch is to be served by W. A. A. members.
