Arnold Oehrich, Bobby Stephens, Glenn Fresnell and Frank Dailey, three of Nebraska's best ball-luggers and plungers who will probably start the game Saturday in Nebraska Memorial Stadium when the Huskers lock horns with the Ames Cyclones.

Kansas vs. Drake

LIGHT WORKOUT TRIMS HUSKERS FOR AMES TILT

Bearg Taking no Chances with Warriors; McMullen Back in Lineup

Making sure that no men will be on the sidelines Saturday because of practice injuries, Coach Bearg limited yesterday's practice to dummy scrimmage. Stress was placed on the forward pass and the kicking game.

The Husker squad that will meet Ames Saturday afternoon will probably have Sprague and Lawson at the ends, Ashburn and Stiner at tackles, Whitmore and McMullen at guards, Grow at center, Stephens at quarter, Fresnell and Dailey at the halves, and Oehrich at fullback. This is the combination that has been used most of the week and looks like the best bet for the Saturday contest.

Lloyd Grow has seen service at center in previous games of the season, but this week he will start a game for the first time. McMullen whose injuries have kept him out of the Missouri and Kansas games, will be back in his regular position at guard.

The other injured players, Jug Brown, Blue Howell, Wally Marrow, Clarence Raish, and Frank Mielenz, and back in suit but will probably not see action against the Iowa State crew as Coach Bearg is taking no chances of having his squad handicapped with injuries when they tackle the formidable Kaggie team from Manhattan November 13.

N. Y. U. STILL UNDEFEATED

Chick Meehan Pushes Gridmen Hard in Scrimmage For Fordham Game

New York, Oct. 28.—It was scrimmage, scrimmage, scrimmage for the unconquered New York University eleven this week in preparation for one of the hardest contests on its schedule, against Fordham in the Yankee Stadium next Saturday afternoon. Head Coach "Chick" Meehan realizes that his Violets must produce a vastly improved game over their Rutgers showing in order to cope with the seasoned Maroon team.

For the second time this year, Meehan had his entire squad out for Monday scrimmage this week. The 30-0 triumph over Rutgers failed to earn the Heights players a respite, for they showed many flaws in that game, and these must be remedied during the next few days. For that reason it is expected N. Y. U. will have another scrimmage today, and the usual Wednesday mixup.

The Maroon conquered the Violet machine last year 26-6, and this is one of the two defeats suffered last season by N. Y. U. that Meehan is especially desirous of wiping out.

Cabaret, dinner, football game and circus parade will be included on the program of the Fall Home-Coming Day, Saturday November 13, at the University of Cincinnati.

Iowa State Not Touted Easy By Husker Coaches

The notion held by football fans that the Nebraska Cornhuskers will have easy sailing when they meet the Iowa State football eleven at Lincoln Saturday is scoffed at by Cornhusker athletic officials.

Last Saturday, the Cyclones held the strong Missouri Tiger team to a 7 to 3 score, and thereby took rank as one of the strong teams of the Valley. The week previous, the Ames team outplayed Grinnell in every department of the game in a tie game played on the Pioneer home field.

Coach Workman of Iowa State, himself a former Ohio State star football player and Simpson college coach, has brought the Cyclones up rapidly. Starting with an entirely green squad, he has developed his men until he has a fighting bunch of footballers who know the game and play it every minute.

KAGGIES POINT TO ARKANSAS BATTLE

Undeclared So Far, Kansas Aggies Prepare for Hard Game with Southern Aggregation

Manhattan, Kansas, Oct. 28.—With last Saturday's terrific battle with Oklahoma University, in which the Kansas Aggies snatched away victory after tasting a little of the bitterness of defeat in the first half, not forgotten but gradually dimming in the player's minds, Coach Bachman's grid warriors are preparing for the coming clash with Arkansas university here tomorrow.

All-victorious so far this season, but fully realizing the strength of Coach Francis Schmidt's eleven, which was beaten by Oklahoma by one touchdown, the Wildcats are confident but lack all of the so-called over-confidence which might have been the cause of the trend of the first half in last week's scrimmage. Arkansas is equally as strong if not a stronger opponent than Oklahoma in spite of the 14 to 7 score which resulted from the Sooner-Razorback game, although the former made the most yardage.

Arkansas has played five games, winning from Arkansas teachers' college, Mississippi university, Hendrix college, and Centenary, and losing to Oklahoma by a single touchdown made from a fumble. On the other hand, the purple men have won from Texas, Creighton, Kansas and Oklahoma universities.

In weight the opposing lines will be fairly evenly matched with the Aggies' average between the wings about five pounds to the good. Comparatively the Razorbacks have a very light backfield but this quartet is reputed to be shifty and not at all lacking in speed.

The Honor System has been unofficially dropped at an institution at Southern California.

New York Backfield Men Called "Four Centaurs"

The "Four Horsemen of Notre Dame" have been replaced by the "Four Centaurs" of New York University. "Chick" Meehan's backfield, consisting of Capt. Frank Briante, Jack Connor, Kenneth Strong and Archie Roberts are riding roughshod over all Violet opposition this season, and experts are comparing them very favorably to Knute Rockne's quartette.

Briante is one of the finest plunging backs in the country; Strong is the longest punter in the game today, and can hit the line, as well as receive and throw passes, as can Connor, who is considered one of the "smartest" quarterbacks on any college gridiron. Roberts is a shifty running back and an expert pass catcher. This combination will show their wares again next Saturday against Fordham in the Yankee Stadium.

Grantland Rice, who originated the "Four Horsemen" was the first to tack the "Four Centaurs" on the New York University backfield.

K. U. Daily Comments On Nebraska's Ability

The University Daily Kansan's comment on the game last Saturday was about that one characteristic which Nebraska teams always seem to possess; and that is the ability to discover weakness in an opponent and hammer it until a touchdown is made. When Nebraska found that yardage could be made on off-tackle plunges, that one hole was hit and pounded at until the big red team scored. Nebraska has played this way for 20 years.
