FRATERNITIES DISCUSSED BY ROSBOROUGH

Nebraska Professor Tells Of Benefits Derived From Such Organizations

ADVOCATED DORMITORIES

Explains Working of This System
At Northwestern And
Other Eastern Schools

Stressing the benefits derived by the individual from fraternities and sororities, J. M. Rosborough, professor in the University School of Music and formerly a member of Beta Theta Pi at Northwestern University, advocated the development of a dormitory system which would give all students the advantages now offered by fraternities, in his address before the World Forum at the Grand Hotel Wednesday noon.

Mr. Rosborough discussed fraternities and sororities from his own personal standpoint, pointing out advantages he felt had been derived from membership. "The only thing I have against them," he declared, "is the fact that all students are not in fraternities."

"We must study how we can get all in or give them a similar life. I think every University will eventually have a system of dormitories which will give all students the opportunities now offered by fraternities." He then pointed an example of a step in this direction taken at Northwestern. There fraternity houses and dormitories are alternated down the street. Fraternity and non-fraternity men associate without distinction. Mr. Rosborough stated that this seemed an ideal plan.

For Fraternities

"I am enthusiastic for fraternities or for anything else that will bring to a boy what I got out of my fraternity," Mr. Rosborough asserted. Mr. Rosborough then pointed out the advantages due to the necessity of adapting one's desire so as to be able to live in intimate contact with others and the advantages of contact with the University and with other students after graduation.

He also called attention to the statements of deans of several universities that fraternities were an invaluable aid in working with the students, that they would be unable to accomplish any general improvement if they had to work through individuals entirely.

"The average fraternity has had a hard time finding itself," he declared. "I believe the time will come when we can get a democratic spirit between the fraternity and the non-fraternity man. Meanwhile, it is better to make use of the good features of the fraternity system than to uproot them."

Dormitories Offer Opportunity

"The hard feeling against fraternities is the fault of the fraternities themselves. They shouldn't allow it to exist. A dormitory system where the students would enjoy the same sort of life would help remove this feeling. We say that everything emanates from the home. The fraternity or dormitory offers the best opportunity for a home for students at the University."

Fine Fraternity

The Student Council of the Ohio University fined Sigma Delta Chi one hundred dollars because of the immoral nature of the last "Sour Owl."

Many Take Journalism

More than 1,500 students in the University of Wisconsin have taken work in journalism since its introduction in 1905 of the journalistic course.

Wisconsin Builds New Buildings

The new medical building at Wisconsin will cost $1,500,000. An addition to the chemistry building will also be made, which is to cost $390,000.

Dr. Hendricks Addresses Lincoln High Students

The history of man's use of mortar and cement from the days of the cave dwellers to the present and the chemistry of these substances were explained by Dr. E. Clifford Hendricks, associate professor of chemistry in the University, in an address before the Lincoln high school chemistry club Wednesday afternoon on "Man-Made Stones."

Mortar hardens because of the chemical reaction of the carbon dioxide of the air with the lime in the mortar, Dr. Hendricks explained. Plaster and other substances which contain gypsum harden because of the chemical effect of the water which is added. In both cases the final product is similar to natural limestone.

Dr. Hendricks illustrated his lecture with a number of experiments.

Prof. Bradford Discusses Service of Ag College to State in Radio Speech

What the Agricultural College really means to the state in terms of service was explained by Professor H. E. Bradford, Professor of Vocational Education, in his radio speech given over KFAB, Wednesday, November 10, as a part of the University Extension departments program. His subject "How the Agricultural College Serves the State" proved to be one of the most interesting speeches to the invisible hearers of the state.

Professor Bradford first mentioned the fact that the Agricultural college was the Agricultural college and not the "state farm" as it was formerly called and is still called by some. He continued by stating "You will agree with me, I believe, that every educational institution ought to give value received to the state which supports it. Of course, we cannot measure that value in money but we can estimate pretty accurately in terms of satisfaction. In the case of the Agricultural College we can even point out the money returns which the college has produced."

Professor Bradford stated that there were now five hundred students in the College, approximately half boys and half girls. This number does not include the high school or short courses. "Two hundred and fifty young men who are serious students of agriculture and its problems. Two hundred and fifty young women learning to be better home makers." "First of all some of these young men are going straight back to their home farms after graduation," says Professor Bradford. "Dad says that his boy is bringing to the home farm those new points in management and production which he has long wanted to acquire. The boy's knowledge coupled with his enthusiasm has meant the difference between profit and loss in many cases. What these boys mean to a great agricultural state can only be told by visiting their farm homes to see how they are carrying on."

Girls Active

"The other half of the student body, the girls, is also prepared to render a great service to the state. They are going out to be partners in (Continued on page three)

AGGIE ROOTERS HUSKER GUESTS

Invitation to Attend Military Carnival Extended To All
Kansas Followers

Nebraska hospitality is to be stressed this week-end more than any other this school year. The local chapter of Scabbard and Blade, in keeping with this spirit, wired the Scabbard and Blade chapter of the Kansas Agricultural college at Manhattan an invitation to the Military Carnival dance which is to be held Saturday evening at the university coliseum.

The Kaggie chapter of Scabbard and Blade is not planning on attending the game in a body but there will be various members who will come to the game that will find themselves at loss for a form of entertainment in the evening. To help entertain these strangers, the Military Department is sacrificing through the Military Carnival dance committee, the gate receipts of those members who will attend this party.

The Carnival is not held as a benefit nor to make money for any organization. The gate receipts will do no more than cover the expenses so elaborately have the plans been made to entertain the returned alumni and visiting students. The co-operation of the entire school has been assured through the various organizations and it is only by these means that the carnival can be given at the prices that it is.

The guests from Kansas were assured that stage were welcome as the Tassels are to act as bar maids and will be glad to dance with the visitors. No one need feel that he cannot attend because he will have to go unaccompanied. Entertainment is being provided for those who do not dance in order that all classes be well taken care of during the evening.

There will be a great number of visitors from Manhattan in the city that evening that will not know where to go for amusement. The party will be very informal although in no sense a mixer and all dances will be cut-ins after the first encore.

Plans have been made to accommodate the largest number of couples that have attended a university party this year and all can be assured that facilities will provide them with every form of entertainment available.

Iowa State Halfback Will Leave School With Eight Major Letters

Ames, Iowa, Nov. 10.—Special: Bob Fisher, Iowa State's right half, the only letter man in the Cyclone backfield, and captain of last year's baseball team, will leave Iowa State with eight letters when he graduates this year, only one less than it is possible to make at Iowa State. Bob is playing his third season in varsity football this fall. He has won three letters in baseball in '24, '25 and '26 and two in basketball in '24 and '25.

His failure to take part in basketball last year robbed him of the chance of tying the record of Jack Currie, Iowa State's only nine letter man, who graduated in 1922.

Fisher got his athletic start in Titonka, in Kossuth county where he played basketball and baseball. The school was too small to support a football team. Even though he had never played football prior to coming to Iowa State he soon learned the game well enough to make his major "A" in the grid campaigns of '24 and '25, and he will be in line for a letter this fall.

Fisher is at his best in off-tackle

Captain Stiner, Coach Bearg, Coach Schulte, Choppy Rhodes, and Monte Munn will give short talks. The University Band and the varsity cheer leaders will also be there to aid in firing the spirit of the rally crowd.

Sororities and fraternities have been requested to serve dinner early Friday night in order that everyone may be able to get to the Coliseum by 7:15, the starting time.

OLYMPICS ARE NOVEMBER 20

Freshmen-Sophomore Struggle
Morning of New York University Game

The annual Olympics contest will take place a week from this Saturday, the morning of the New York game, November 20, instead of this coming Saturday, as was mentioned in a Daily Nebraskan feature story yesterday.

Tryouts for the boxing, wrestling and track events must be called for by the presidents of the sophomore and freshman classes. Representatives in these events will be submitted to the Olympics committee not later than Thursday, November 18.

There will be three classes in boxing and wrestling, 135, 145 and 158 pounds. The track event will be a 440 yard relay, with two teams of four men competing. The best of the events this year will be much the same as last fall, with the exception of the shoe-race, which has been abolished. The Committee is planning other events to take the place of the shoe-race, which will be announced in a few days.

The Olympic committee is doing everything possible this year to make the sides more even. Although there are some events in which the entire classes will participate, other contests will give the Sophomores a chance to gain points without the large numbers that the Freshmen will have.

The Innocents and the Junior and Senior members of the "N" club compose the committee which will have charge of the annual tilt in which the Freshmen battle to doff the Green Caps.

Every day he asks a question of different students picked at random on the campus.

Today's Question: Do you think that a rally before a football game helps school spirit?

Asked at various places on the campus.

Roland A. Locke, Law, '27, North Platte.

"This is the season of the year when a university's prestige is measured by the record of its football team. Student spirit is the firm foundation upon which we build a football team with an enviable record. Each rally places an additional support in our foundation so that a triumphant team and a spirited student body fill their obligations to each other as well as to the school which makes possible their existence."

Ray Sabata, A. S., '30, Dwight.

"A rally before a football game certainly does improve school spirit and there ought to be more present at the rallies."

Vinton Lawson, A. S., '28, Omaha.

"A rally before a game has a big psychological effect on the student body and raises the morale of the team."

Donald Kelley, A. S., '29, Cook.

"If a rally fails to arouse school spirit there is something lacking in the student body."

Dorothy Craig, A. S., '30, Lincoln.

"Why sure, I think a rally helps school spirit; I like to go to rallies because they pep you up."

D. E. Rissler, A. S., '29, Crofton.

"I believe a rally does arouse the spirit of the student body, and it lets every one know that there is a game to be played."

Julia Rider, A. S., '29, Lincoln.

"A rally is the only way you can arouse school spirit at Nebraska."

Mildred Johnson, T. C., '30, Gandy.

"Every rally helps the school spirit and causes larger crowds to attend the games."
