LOWDEN SPEAKS AT MEETING OF STATE BANKERS

Former Governor of Illinois Addresses Gathering at Ag Campus
1,000 DELEGATES HERE
Extensive Plans Made for Entertainment of Visitors

The convention of the Nebraska Bankers' Association opened yesterday with business sessions being held in the new students activities building at the college of agriculture campus of the University of Nebraska. Former Governor Lowden of Illinois was the principal speaker of the day. Last night a dance for members of the convention and University students was given in the University Coliseum.

This is the second big convention that has been held on the University campus within the past two weeks.

Over 2000 Attend Dance For Students and Bankers

University of Nebraska students were guests of the State Bankers' Association, last night in the Coliseum. Over two thousand students and bankers were present. The University band opened with several selections the three-part program which preceded the dancing. Thirty-two men from the Pershing Rifles, picked by Colonel F. F. Jewett, gave a short drill program. The drill was done silently except for the whistle of the captain telling them when to execute a new movement. The third part of the program was put on by Monte Munn and twenty-two men. The men represented two football teams going through slow-motion football, and Munn interpreted their movements to the crowd.

Dancing, with music furnished by a popular fifteen-piece, Lincoln orchestra filled the remainder of the evening until eleven o'clock.

noon, and two sessions, one in the morning and one in the afternoon, will be held there today. The banks and trust companies of Lincoln will give a luncheon for the visiting delegates at the college of agriculture this noon.

Women to be Guests at Tea

Entertainment provided for the bankers included a tea for the visiting women at the governor's mansion Thursday afternoon, the dance at the Coliseum, the luncheon today at the Agricultural college, a luncheon at the Lincoln Country Club at 1 o'clock Friday for visiting women which will be followed by a drive through the city, presentation of the play, "Seventh Heaven", by the Temple Stock Company of the University Friday evening at the Orpheum Theater, and a golf tournament at the Lincoln Country Club Saturday morning.

AWGWAN IS NOW ON SALE

War Number is Dedicated to "Mr. War" and R. O. T. C.; Students Contribute

The War Number of the Awgwan is now on sale. The issue is dedicated to "Mr. War" and the R. O. T. C. unit of the university.

The cover is by Torgny Knudsen. Two full page illustrations by Knudsen and Pablo Benes and numerous drawings make the War Number very attractive. Beulah Butler has contributed a short story, and "Alice in Bewilderland" is written by Ethelyn Ayers. Kwei Chen's name appears frequently under poems. Other contributors include Al McIntosh, Jack Elliott, James Wilson, Betty Fradenburg, Virginia Randall, Bess C. Dodson, M. Robson, Florence Seward, Evelyn Lunner and Lucas Fitch. Those students whose pens have unlivened the pages are Bob Burt, V. W. Carlsen, Geo. F. Koehnke, M. L. Parker, Henry Rosenstein, Allen Klein, Peter Coniglio, and Beulah Butler. The departments, "A Tub of Tea" by Claire Montresrey and "Talk About Books" edited by William Card again appear. Mr. Card has been assisted this month by several students.

Directory Will Go On Sale Monday Morning

Samples of the new Student and Faculty Directory are on display in the windows of the book stores and on the main bulletin board in the Social Science building. These directories will go on sale at 9 o'clock Monday morning in all the main buildings on both the Agricultural and University campus.

The book is bound in regular book fashion instead of the old saddle-stitch, and is printed on thick magazine paper between heavy scarlet covers. The price will be fifty cents.

GREEKS BEGIN TO DECORATE

Floodlights are Required in Decorations of Houses

A number of fraternities and sororities had started to decorate their homes Thursday but the majority are waiting until today to put their decorations in place. Everything must be finished by 7 o'clock tonight at which time the judges will make their decision on the winning houses. Floodlights will be required as part of the decorations. The judges will not consider houses not lighted up.

Homecoming is now celebrated at almost every university and college in the country, and most of them have taken up the custom of decorating in honor of their alumni. Nebraska was one of the first to take up this custom and since then the organizations have carried it on with a great deal of spirit. A few organizations do not decorate but it is the hope that this year every one will realize the spirit of the occasion and cooperate.

Expenditures are not Limited

No limit is set on the amount of money to be expended for decorations but this cost should be held down to a reasonable figure. The main idea is to have all the returning alumni feel that they are being welcomed.

A prize loving cup will be presented to the winning sorority at the Girls' Cornhusker Luncheon Saturday noon, by the president of the Innocents. The other loving cup will be given the fraternity which has the best decorations.

Mr. Kirsh of the Fine Arts Department, is chairman of the judging committee which will make the decision as to the winning houses. The Motor-Out Company, 1120 P street is furnishing a car for the judges.

Stock Judging Team Of Washington Visits Agricultural Campus

The Senior Livestock Judging Team of the Washington Agricultural College passed through Lincoln Wednesday on their way to the Royal American Livestock Show to be held at Kansas City.

The team spent their time while in Lincoln visiting the College of Agriculture campus and looking over the stock of the college.

The team left Lincoln Wednesday evening for Manhattan, Kansas, where they will visit the Kansas State Agricultural College before continuing on to Kansas City.

Kirschman Speaks to Bankers on Causes of Bond Price Variations

Movements in commodity prices, forces aside from those that influence the financial markets, and the operations of banking institutions, were given as the three most vital causes of movements in bond prices by Dr. J. E. Kirschman, professor of finance in the University, in an address on "Bond Prices," before the twenty-ninth convention of the Nebraska State Bankers Association in session at the College of Agriculture campus, Thursday afternoon.

Dr. Kirschman is the author of "Principles of Investment," one of the leading texts on investments in use in colleges and universities in the United States. In his address he outlined the causes for the differences in the prices of bonds as revealed on the board, gave four elements in a bond which determine its quality, and outlined the three important causes for movements in the prices of bonds. "First of all fundamental differences in price appear on account of differences in the quality of the bonds themselves," he said, pointing out the elements which make for quality in bonds, the first of which requires that "earnings or revenue must be ample and the greater the margin of safety the better the quality of the bond. Earnings must also be steady bond. Earnings must also be steady for the highest quality bonds, and the prospect for the future is the most

Wilson, Class of '96, Visits Campus Again

B. W. Wilson, a graduate of the University of Nebraska in 1896, now a New York lawyer, made his first visit to Lincoln in twenty years last Tuesday. Mr. Wilson has spent the greater part of his life in Mexico City, Mexico, but left there some ten years ago.

CARNIVAL DANCE PLANS PROGRESS

Special Invitation Extended To Alumni and Former Students

The Military Carnival Dance to be held Saturday evening in the Coliseum will be one of the features of the Homecoming Day festivities. A very special invitation is extended to all Alumni and former students who are in town for the day to come and help make the affair a "bang-up" success.

Dancing will be the chief entertainment feature, due to the fact that the "Wild West" setting that has distinguished the Military Carnival in former years has been frowned upon by the city police department. The music will be furnished by one of the prominent orchestras of the city.

Skit will be Presented

The Dramatic Club will stage a ten-minute skit as a part of the program that has been arranged. Herbert Morrison, manager of the skit, promises something new in the way of elaborate stage settings. Although the play is short the minutes are crowded with thrills and excitement. The cast includes Helen Aach, Kenneth Cook, and Keith Miller. Ruth Clendenen, president of the Club, is coaching the act.

The Pershing Rifles will repeat the series of drill maneuvers that they exhibited before the State Bankers' Convention.

Military Men Urged to Report

The work of the decorations committee will be interrupted by the Girls' Cornhusker Luncheon, which will be held in the Coliseum Saturday noon, but Arthur Breyer, chairman of the committee, promises that everything will be in readiness for the affair. All juniors and sophomores in the Military Department who can possibly do so are urged to report at the Coliseum Saturday to assist the decorations committee.

The advance sale of tickets, and the large number of inquiries that have been received from Alumni, indicate that a capacity crowd will be in attendance. Many members of the several sororities and fraternities that have planned parties for Saturday evening have expressed their intention to be present at the Military Carnival Dance at least part of the evening.

The price of admission is fifty cents per person, or a dollar a couple.

Nebraskan Will Be Published Saturday

The Daily Nebraskan will be published Saturday morning in addition to the regular five issues a week. The Saturday paper will be a special Homecoming edition.

All reporters on the Nebraskan are requested to work Friday afternoon in order that the Homecoming edition may be published, and also Saturday for the regular Sunday issue.

Daily Nebraskan Inquiring Reporter

Everyday he asks a question of different students picked at random on the campus.

Today's question: "What do you think of the Awgwan this year?"

Where Asked: In front of Memorial Hall. Marvin Hahit, Engineering, '28, University Place.

"The Awgwan is good every year." D. O. Jones, Teachers College, '30, Sterling, Nebraska.

"The first issue wasn't so good but that was because there was no school news." Addison Davis, Arts and Science, '28, Austin, Texas.

"Better in every way." Edna Fitzpatrick, Fine Arts, '29, Fremont.

"It's better, but I don't know why." Henry Jorgenson, Business Administration, '28, Lincoln.

"About the same as other years, but I think it will be better later." Norman Anderson, Business Administration, '28, Lincoln.

"The cartoons are better so the whole thing is better." Winslow Willis, Engineering, '27, Lincoln.

"Didn't like it last year so I haven't read it this year." Ed. Foster, Engineering '28, Omaha.

"A lot better, contains more news."

CHAMPIONSHIP AT STAKE IN SATURDAY TILT

Kaggies, Masters of Aerial Game, are Next on Husker Schedule

RIVALS LOSE ONE GAME
Bachman Eleven Win Five of Six Contests; Defeated By Marquette

Perhaps the greatest forward passing team in American football today will be seen in action Saturday at Nebraska Memorial Stadium when the Kansas Aggies attempt to prove that they have first claim on the 1926 Missouri Valley Conference championship.

Not only are the Kaggies masters of the aerial game but they also possess a driving attack, and have the material with which to uphold their end of a punting duel.

In six games this season, the Bachman eleven has conquered five of its opponents. Texas, Creighton, Kansas, Oklahoma, victors over Missouri, and Arkansas have tasted defeat at the hands of the Kaggies. Marquette scored a 14 to 0 victory over an over-confident Kaggie team in a game at Milwaukee last Saturday, but Nebraska cannot hope to have this psychological advantage this week.

Kaggies are Determined
The defeat by Marquette makes the Bachman team more dangerous rather than less formidable. Stinging from that defeat, the Kaggies will give everything they have to defeat Nebraska. For years, Coach Bachman has preached the doctrine, "Nebraska must fall," and the 1926 Wildcats are ready to give everything they have to aid their coach in realizing his ambition.

Both teams are expected to be in prime condition for the Saturday struggle. The Kansas Aggies saved themselves in the Marquette game for the express purpose of being able to present their strongest front in the Husker conflict.

Nebraska Resting Two Weeks
Nebraska has enjoyed a rest since a week ago last Saturday, and the injuries from which Howell, Brown, Marrow, Raish, Lee, and McMullen were suffering are almost healed up. Oehlrich, the Columbus boy who has been showing great plugging and defensive ability during the past few weeks, may not be up to his standard due to an injured hip, but the rest of the squad should be ready for the contest.

The Kaggies are one of three undefeated teams in the Valley to date. If they win the Nebraska struggle, they have only the Iowa Staters to down to file their claim for the Valley bunting. Grinnell, although tied by Iowa State, is still undefeated, as also is Oklahoma Aggies.

Oklahoma has scored three Valley victories, and has Kansas and Oklahoma Aggies yet to play. Should the Sooners, therefore, win the remaining two games, Grinnell lose to the Oklahoma Aggies, and Nebraska beat the Kaggies, the Valley title would be shared by both the Huskers and the Sooners. But that is only a possibility. Nebraska beats the Bachmanites, and that job will be plenty tough for the 1926 Huskers.

Queen Marie is Lincoln Visitor

Several Thousand Glimpse Her Royal Highness and Princess Ileana

(By Archibald Eddy.)
Lincoln was treated to a glimpse of a real queen Thursday morning. The train bearing Her Royal Highness Queen Marie of Roumania, across Nebraska, en route to Kansas City, stopped in the city for fourteen minutes, while several thousand people crowded around the observation platform where she was standing. Many university students were there too.

The Queen stepped out on the platform a few moments after the train stopped, and was greeted with cheers and the waving of hands by the crowd. She was followed by the Princess Ileana, who was carrying a camera with which she took pictures of those gathered to view them.

Queen is Presented with Bouquet
Mayor Frank C. Zehrung presented her Highness with a bouquet of huge, red and white chrysanthemums, Nebraska colors, in a four foot wicker stand. She accepted them with a gracious and vivacious smile, and replied to the Mayor's invitation to visit the city by saying, "I am so sorry, I should have liked to so much, but we have so little time that we cannot do many of the things we would like to."

The crowd might also have seen a prince. But Prince Nicholas did not make his appearance. The Queen explained his absence by saying, "He is not yet up. He is lazy this morning."

Princess Ileana received even more of an ovation than the Queen, when she was introduced to the crowd by Mayor Zehrung. She smiled and waved.

Greets Gen. Pershing's Sisters
The Queen reached over the railing and shook hands with several standing near. Among those, thus honored were Mrs. D. M. Butler and Miss Mae Pershing, sisters of General Pershing.

In greeting them, she said, "Oh, you are the sisters of General Pershing. I am so glad to meet you. I should like so much to go out to your home and to see your wonderful State Capitol, I have heard so much about it."

Queen Marie was exceedingly busy during her brief stay in Lincoln. She was besieged with questions by those near her, answering as many as possible. Each word and gesture was expressive of the charming personality which has been the most noted thing about her visit to this country and which will probably be the one thing remembered about her and her visit here, by those who saw her, long after the other details have been forgotten.

The train arrived fifteen minutes before it was scheduled and several thousand people were pouring into the yards as the train left, at 10:48 o'clock. Their impression of Her Royal Highness was limited to a glimpse of her, standing on the rear platform with the princess waving goodbye, as the train rolled out of the station.

Nebraska Spirit Wins

Let's go, gang! We'll show the Kaggies and the scoffers what a Nebraska team can do when it has real Nebraska fight behind it! We can and we will beat the Kaggies if you are in the Coliseum tonight to bring back some of the pep and fire that made the Huskers famous! This is one of the season's big games and a Missouri Valley title may be decided by it. Get out and help the team to twist the Wildcat's tail! Come to the rally tonight! Let's Go!

STUDENTS TAKE PART IN PARADE

Cadet Band, R. O. T. C. Men Join in March on Armistice Day

The cadet band and the thirteen companies of the R. O. T. C. unit of the University participated in the longest and most elaborate Armistice Day parade ever staged in Lincoln, Thursday afternoon. The cadet regiment joined the other units of the parade at Seventeenth and O Streets. O and N Streets were thronged with people as the parade proceeded, and at times the crowd pressed into the streets so thickly that the platoons had difficulty in maintaining their formations.

Adjutant General Paul, marshal of the day, led the parade, followed by members of the various veterans' organizations, the Red Cross, American Legion men, the Forty and Eight naval reserves, the Nebraska National Guard, and the University cadet regiment.

Following the R. O. T. C. unit came the Lincoln High School Band, Boy Scout Troops, and a procession of 1,500 school children who presented a pageant illustrating the history of the nation. A "Lest We Forget" float was a very fitting feature of the parade.

Sponsors Precede Cadets
Representatives of the Women's Athletic Association carried the University's Service Flag. The sponsors of the cadet regiment marched at the head of the column of cadets.

NOVEMBER ISSUE COUNTRYMAN OUT

Ag College Magazine Includes First Of Series of Articles On Farmers Fair

The November issue of the Cornhusker Countryman has been distributed. Interesting articles and interviews have resulted from the efforts of the Agricultural College students. "What's the Matter with Our Farmers' Fair," by Emil G. Glasser, is the first of a series of four articles on the Farmers' Fair, in which the criticisms and ideas of faculty and students will be given. "In the Foreground" is the title of a department which reviews the events in the lives of noted men and women on the agricultural campus. The first article is on Dean E. A. Burnett and is written by James Rosse.

Other articles are written by Mary Runnels, Hale Sinnett, Harold Frost, Alice Kline, K. G. Anderson, "Cy" Winkler, Arthur M. Hauke, Paul R. Jenkins, E. L. Reichart and E. N. Hansen.

A section entitled "Our Freshman Contributors" gives the four best themes written by Ag Freshman students of English.

McMillan Talks to Ag College Y. W.
The Agricultural College Y. W. C. A. held their regular meeting on Tuesday. At this meeting the Reverend McMillan gave a talk to the girls on "Tolerance."

Girls' Cornhusker Luncheon to be Chief Event in Honor of Alumnae

Outstanding among events during Homecoming in honor of the returning alumnae will be the Girls' Cornhusker Luncheon, held Saturday noon in the Coliseum.

For the past fifteen years, excepting 1925, the Girls' Cornhusker Luncheon has been a special and prominent part of the activities of Homecoming. This year the luncheon will be held for the first time in the Coliseum.

A luncheon has been planned this year which will surpass all former affairs. For the first time adequate space has been secured and no limit on the attendance is set. The tables which will be decorated in scarlet and cream, under the direction of Lucille Refshauge, are being arranged to form an "N" and "U". Clever favors in the same colors will be given. In entering the girls are asked first to go to the balcony in order that everyone may take their places at the same time.

Places are being reserved for the guests of honor, Dean Amanda Heppner, Miss Elsie Ford Piper, Mrs. E. W. Lantz and Miss Erma Appleby for the active alumnae members of Mortarboard, the members of the Associated Women Students Board and for the chairmen of the committees for the luncheon. A picture of the entire group will be taken before the luncheon.

HOMECOMING GRID RALLY IS TONIGHT

Husker Spirit to be Revived Preceding Battle With Kansas Aggies

SHORT MORNING RALLIES
Tassels and Corn Cobs to Canvass Fraternity, and Sorority Houses

Nebraska's annual Homecoming football rally will be held tonight starting at 7:15 o'clock in the University Coliseum and an appeal is made to every loyal Cornhusker to be present to revive Husker spirit for the traditional Kansas Aggie battle. The renowned Nebraska spirit has already been in evidence on the campus in the form of an impromptu rally started Thursday evening. Rallies will be conducted between classes today with the University band playing in front of Social Science at 10 and 11 o'clock. The week's slogan, "Kaggies Kant", is being brought to life.

The Friday night rally will be preceded by house to house visits by both men's and women's pep organizations, the Tassels visiting fraternity houses starting at 5 o'clock and the Corn Cobs canvassing the sorority houses with a novelty band starting at the same hour. Fraternal organizations have all been requested to serve the dinner meal early tonight in order that the groups, including Lincoln members, may be present at starting time.

Eleven Shots to be Fired
Thirty minutes preceding the gathering another reminder of Nebraska's grid meeting in the form of eleven one-pound shell explosions will be fired. The eleven shots spell "Kaggies Kant."

The most capable Nebraska rally speakers have been placed on the speakers' list for the Kaggie rally. The list includes Monte Munn, former Cornhusker who is visiting in Lincoln between eastern sporting contracts, John "Choppy" Rhodes, member of last year's squad and freshman coach, Captain Lonnie Steiner, Coach E. E. Bearg, and Coach Henry F. Schulte. The entire Nebraska squad will be present on the platform during the display of supporting enthusiasm.

Prof. Quick and his Varsity band will be on hand as well as the Varsity cheer leading trio, Nick Amos, Chick Dox and Ernie Weymuller.

The Kansas Aggie game is the final Missouri Valley conference mix on the 1926 schedule and is the last Valley game in which several Huskers will play.
