Women's Intercollegiate Debate Included in Program at Wisconsin

A women's intercollegiate debate is included in the program of the forensic season at the University of Wisconsin which will open Nov. 30 with the freshman declamatory contest, and will include debates and oratorical contests which will give every student of the university an opportunity to try his ability at platform speaking.

Tryouts for the freshman declamatory contest were held Nov. 2. The winners will compete in the Nov. 30 event.

Joint debates between teams from university literary societies,—Athens and Hesperia, men's societies, and Castalia and Pythia, women's societies,—freshman-sophomore debate, four intercollegiate contests, an all-university oratorical contest, and a junior-senior extemporaneous debate in which contestants will speak without notes and with only 24 hours of preparation are included in the array of contests announced by the Forensic board.

One intercollegiate debate by women students will be a triangular contest, the second of its kind, for the state universities of Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Iowa. The winner of the all-university oratorical contest will represent Wisconsin in the Northern Oratorical League contest which will be held May 6 at the University of Iowa.

The forensic calendar for the year is as follows:

Nov. 30, freshmen declamatory; Dec. 15, sixtieth annual joint debate; Jan. 13, freshman-sophomore debate; Feb. 24, junior-senior extemporaneous debate; Mar. 10, men's intercollegiate debate; Mar. 21, men's intercollegiate debate; Mar. 31, all-university oratorical contest; Apr. 21, women's intercollegiate debate; May 6, Northern Oratorical League contest, University of Iowa.

Unofficial Report of Arts College Members On Sale at Bookstore

The unofficial report of the undergraduate committee on the College of Arts and Sciences, which is now on sale at Long's Book Store, is the work of a body of undergraduate students of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Late in the first semester of 1925-26 five students petitioned Dean James for permission to form a committee of juniors and seniors in that college to examine and criticize the college from the undergraduate point of view. This request was made because some of the students were interested in the problems of that particular college. Dean James laid the petition before the faculty group which declared that if the students would go ahead with their discussions on their own initiative, the faculty would lend a sympathetic ear to any report the students might have to make.

From twelve to twenty students attended the weekly meetings of the undergraduate committee, and the report was drawn up. This report embodies the more important findings and points of view of the committee. It was read before the faculty meeting at the Lincoln University Club.

Enrollment Grows Eight Times

Duke University, which received the $80,000,000 endowment from the late Mames B. Duke, has doubled its enrollment of women eight times. The earliest record of coeds at Duke, ten Trinity Colleges was three members of the class of '78. Last year there were 333 women students, this number being twenty-five percent of the total enrollment.

First University in Nebraska Founded By Old Settlers at Fontenelle in 1855

The original University of Nebraska was situated at Fontenelle by a group of colonists from Illinois according to Mrs. Clara S. Paine of the Nebraska Historical Society. Recently Governor McMullen and Mrs. Paine journeyed to Fontenelle to give addresses at the unveiling of a monument dedicated to the first college in Nebraska. This original University later passed into the hands of the Congregationalists who moved it to Crete where it is now known as Doane College.

Reference to historic notes, which Mrs. Paine has in the historic library, showed that on June 24, 1854, after the Kansas-Nebraska bill was passed, that a group of people in Quincy, Illinois organized the "Nebraska Colonization Company" with a purpose of founding the city of Nebraska and a colony in the Territory of Nebraska.

The first article proper of the constitution adopted by this company stated that "there shall be embraced within the Colony a Literary Institution, which shall be known as Nebraska University." The same article provided for a state house and a railroad to Fort Leavenworth or Saint Joseph. This shows that the college was thus an essential part of the colony. The purpose of the settlers was to found, at the outset, an institution which should grow with them.

In August a party of seven or eight men started to look for a location for their colony and college. On September 18, led by Logan Fontenelle, a half-breed chief of the Omaha tribe they located on the banks of the Elkhorn river. They staked off 25,000 acres and paid 100 dollars for the land, allowing 112 acres for the school. Here they laid the foundation for the first college in Nebraska on a view that was wonderful. Compare a view of a college on a hilltop with a landscape view that was charming, and embracing, looking over not only the Elkhorn river but also the Platte valley, with our campus view now. Now we have buildings on one side and railroad tracks on the other.

This group named the colony "Fontenelle" after the Indian chief.

On February 28, 1855 the Nebraska University began its legal existence and on July 29, a committee authorized the financial agent to erect a building costing not more than one thousand dollars. Later the Civil War caused the financial condition of the college to slide and a little later the Congregationalists took it over. The college building burned after it had run a while and the college was moved to Crete.

This college of one building cost one thousand dollars and had an attendance of between twenty and thirty students in comparison with our present University with its thousands of students and buildings costing many thousands of dollars.

4 H Club Sends Display Of Home Canned Goods To Chicago Exhibition

"The 4 H Canning exhibit is one of the best ones ever sent to Chicago," stated Miss Jessie Green of the extension department Monday, commenting on the home economics exhibit sent to Chicago to the Fifth National Boys and Girls Congress.

The exhibit consisted of a number of jars of canned food, (including meats) necessary to make a properly balanced supply of canned foods for a family of five, for a period of one week. The food was canned by the members of "We Can Can Canning Club" of Adams County, and the "Strong 4 H Canning Club", of Fillmore County. These cans are high ranking ones from the Nebraska State Fair. After they are returned from the Fifth National Boys and Girls Congress, they will be on exhibit in Boys and Girls club office in Agricultural Hall, College of Agriculture.

Married Man at College
 An interesting student at the University of Arkansas the last college year was A. H. Hermantz, who graduated in June. Mr. Hermantz is a married man with a wife and two children. To support himself through college and pay off a $1200.00 debt he established a home laundry and "washed his way through college."

Little stories about the
Central CAFE
 Historical

In our Foreword we promised to tell the readers of "The Daily Nebraskan" in short installments and by easy stages, the story of the rise of the Central Cafe to its present high esteem with the public.

We said then, and we say now, that it is a story of the success of an ideal.

Something like thirteen years ago a young man named D. H. Harris took over the management of the Central Hotel at 1325 P Street.

Although only a block and a half from the heart of Lincoln's business district, the Central then was apparently in an out-of-the-way part of the city. Across the street a few old, dying cottonwoods and a group of ramshackle dwellings made a far from attractive picture.

To comply with the Nebraska hotel law, a cafe was run in connection with the Central Hotel, but it was under separate management from the hotel.

This did not prove wholly satisfactory to Manager Harris, inasmuch as there were a number of changes in the cafe management and at times very far from satisfactory service, which tended to hurt the hotel.

MISS WILLIAMS IS VESPERS SPEAKER

Secretary of City Y. W. C. A. Well Prepared to Talk on China, Where She Has Been

Ethel Joy Williams, secretary of the city Y. W. C. A., will speak on "Students in Political Life in China" at Vespers today. Miss Williams has been a resident of China for several years, and is well informed on the problems confronting that country.

The music for the service will be a vocal solo by Miss Alice Etting, Miss Marjorie Sturdevant is in charge of the meeting.

"The vespers this week should be one of the most enjoyable of the year, since Miss Williams is thoroughly acquainted with Chinese customs and manners, and is able to present the life there in a very interesting way," declared Miss Erma Appleby, secretary of the University Y. W. C. A.

Best in any class
 To be absolutely truthful, we must admit a Wahl Pen will not get up and make your 8 o'clocks for you. It won't answer the roll call, or take notes all by itself.
 But it will go along with you to any class you have, and do a better writing job than any other fountain pen you've ever seen. Hour after hour, it will glide across the pages with an ease that rests your wrist and leaves your mind free to consider what you're writing.
 Its iridium-tipped point of solid gold will stand up to the action when the "prof." is talking fast and you just have to "jab 'em down," or it will roll the rounded out sentences when you're building a theme for somebody else to read.
 This most serviceable and handsome pen comes in a wide variety of materials and styles. In slim, symmetrical cylinders of solid gold or sterling silver, gold-filled or silver-filled, or in red, black, or mottled rubber. For point, you can choose exactly the Wahl nib that suits your writing style: stiff or flexible, fine, medium, stub, oblique, or Wahl Standard Signature.
 And, oh, yes! A Wahlful of ink is a bookful of words, whether you're passing an exam or writing out your alibi. Fill up a new one at the Wahl Pen and Eversharp counter and see if it isn't so.
 $3 to $7 for the silver or rubber $6 and Northward for the gold
