Organizations' Funds Handled By One Office

Agent of Student Activities Keeps Books for Various Organizations

INCLUDES BUSINESS OF ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT

Editor's Note—This is the thirteenth of a series of articles which Mr. Kezer has written for The Daily Nebraskan on the development, ideals, and administration of the University.

(By Munro Kezer)

We have discussed two business offices of the University in the last two articles in covering the administrative offices of the University. Today we shall deal with a third, the agent of student activities, discussing also athletic administration, since the business management of University athletics is conducted from the same office as the control of financial affairs of student organizations.

The two positions, agent of student activities, and business manager of athletics are vested in one official, Mr. John K. Selleck. The office was organized to take care of the finances of student activities. Although it is rendering a very valuable service to the students in this function, the bulk of its work and care is now devoted to the business management of athletics.

Established to Check Funds

Previous to the establishment of the office, considerable difficulty was had by the University due to failure of student organizations to pay bills due Lincoln merchants. This was largely the result of poor bookkeeping and lack of proper responsibility. The office was established in order that the University might have a check on funds taken in for any given function and be assured that local merchants would be paid for the merchandise purchased.

Since then the functions of the office have been somewhat extended in the student activity field as well as making the agent of student activities business manager of athletics. All student organizations except social fraternities and sororities are now required to deposit their funds at the student activity office. The office has no control over how these organizations spend their money. It is concerned only with seeing that they have enough money to pay their bills.

Through this office, each student organization secures the advantages of an efficient bookkeeping system which protects the officers of the organization, the organization itself, the University, and the creditors of the organization.

Resembles Banking House

Whenever an organization has any funds, they are deposited at the student activities office just as they would be deposited at a bank. The organization receives a receipt for the money and the amount of the deposit is recorded to the credit of the organization in the student activity office.

KLUB PLAY TO BE GIVEN TWICE

Student Organizations Committee Authorizes "Dream Pirate" Matinee

TICKETS ON SALE MONDAY

The Kosmet Klub was given permission Friday afternoon by the Students Organizations Committee of the university to stage a matinee performance of the "Dream Pirate" Monday, December 13. Advance interest shown in the production this year, not only by students and faculty members of the university but also by Lincoln residents, convinced the Klub that one performance was not enough.

Monday morning at ten, tickets will be available at the box-office of the Orpheum theater. No tickets are to be reserved previous to this time, so that those who are early will naturally get the best seats. Organizations wishing to sit together may do so because one person can secure any number of tickets.

Conway Beaver and his augmented eighteen piece orchestra will play at both performances Monday. He presents the modern theater type of music, and has probably the only theater orchestra in the state which specializes in classical jazz.

Performance at Three O'clock

The afternoon showing will begin at three o'clock in order that high school students, and university students with two o'clocks may attend.

A performance will also be given Sunday, Dec. 12, at the State Penitentiary. Another state institution is to be visited Dec. 15.

Rehearsals are occupying every possible moment of the time until the opening of the road tour at Nebraska City Friday evening, Dec. 17. Prices for the Monday matinee are 75 cents and a dollar.

"The Students Part in Education," the keynote of the conference, was strongly emphasized in the remarks

Delegates Secure Convention for Nebraska

That the Student Council of the University of Nebraska is one of the leading organizations of its kind in the country is evidenced by the fact that the third annual conference of the International Federation of Student Councils will be held on the Nebraska campus during the first week in December, next year.

A telegram received at the Daily Nebraskan office early Sunday morning, from Glen Buck, one of the Nebraska delegates at the Ann Arbor convention, states that Nebraska was awarded the 1927 convention by a large majority over Leland Stanford, Ohio, Iowa, Cornell, and Mount Holyoke College.

made by President Henry MacCracken of Vassar College. "The study of the Liberal College," was the topic of the report made by Prof. Leon B. Richardson, of Dartmouth.

Social life, activities and fraternities were named by Mr. Richardson as three of the important handicaps under which the college labors. "No one expects or desires the college student to become a social recluse, but nevertheless it is a problem of the college to be on guard lest the intellectual purpose of the institution be completely submerged in the sea of social activity," Mr. Richardson pointed out.

Discusses Fraternity Life
"College fraternities," he said, "have never been free from attack, but the direction of the attack has often been at points at which they are not particularly vulnerable. The fraternity has gained in the college a place which it cannot lose. Aside from merely vested rights it does a

COLORED MINISTER TO ADDRESS FORUM

Rev. Harold M. Kingsley Will Speak On Problem of the Negro in the North

A discussion of the problems of the negro in the north will be presented at World Forum this Wednesday by Rev. Harold M. Kingsley, director of the Department of Negro Work in the North under the Congregational Church extension board.

Secretary Hayes of the University Y. M. C. A. who arranged for Rev. Kingsley's appearance says that he comes very highly recommended as a speaker with an intimate acquaintance with one of the new problems of the times. Rev. Kingsley is a Negro and may be expected to present the situation from a somewhat different attitude than is ordinarily heard here.

The problem of the negro in the north is a comparatively recent problem having arisen within the last decade. Race riots which were formerly confined to southern cities have occurred in recent years in cities as far north as Chicago, showing the growth of a negro problem in the North.

FORMAL SEASON IS OPENED WITH MILITARY POMP

Eighteenth Annual Military Ball Held in Coliseum Friday Evening

GRAND MARCH A SUCCESS

Presentation of Marie Bowden As Honorary Colonel Is Feature of Event

The University formal season was opened with military splendor Friday night at the eighteenth annual Military Ball held in the new University Coliseum. The presentation of Marie Bowden, '27, Lincoln, as Honorary Colonel was the feature event of the evening. The grand march which culminated in an archway of sabers under which marched the Honorary Colonel and the sponsors, followed the presentation of the Honorary Colonel.

The Honorary Colonel made her first appearance, after the lights in the Coliseum had been dimmed, standing under a light-flooded trellis on the stage. Cadet Colonel Judd Crocker presented a bouquet of roses to her and escorted her to the floor, preparatory to the grand march.

Officers in Grand March

The grand march, led by the Honorary Colonel and cadet colonel, was joined in by ever so many cadet officers, with his partner, marching to the music of Sousa's "The Stars and Stripes Forever".

All cadets wore the regulation blue uniform coats and white straight-cut trousers and black shoes. This uniform, combined with the myriad shades of dresses worn by their partners and the many formal black tuxedo suits, presented an impressive sight.

The Coliseum was decorated with imported Georgia Smlax, American flags, and lighted by Japanese lanterns. The corners of the ballroom were fitted with wicker chairs and davenport for the convenience of the chaperones and sponsors.

Unique programs covered in celluloid with a Cornhusker "N" inscribed upon the cover were given for favors.

Five Hundred Couples Attend

Over five hundred couples attended the function and many took advantage of the spectator offer by gaining admittance to the balcony. Members of the military department believe this was the first time in the history of the affair that the ballroom was large enough to accommodate all who wished to attend.

Music, furnished by Dornberger's Victor recording orchestra of Chicago, with the aid of a loud-speaker amplifying system, carried well into all parts of the Coliseum.
