AYLSWORTH TELLS OF SUPREME COURT

Political Science Professor Explains Workings of High Tribunal Of Nebraska

In his lecture over the radio Tuesday afternoon L. E. Aylsworth, Professor of Political Science told "Why We Now Have Three Supreme Courts in Nebraska" and why it takes two or three years to get a judgment on a case from the Supreme Court. "Several years ago," he said, "a youth of 16 years stumped from Omaha to Lincoln to find out why he didn't get any compensation for his lost leg. The answer was that the case was still on the docket with no chance of gaining a hearing for a year or more."

The Constitution of Nebraska provides that "every person shall have justice administered without denial or delay." Yet for years and years the Supreme Court of this state has been from two to four years behind in its work. We have been wrestling with the problem now for over 35 years and the Supreme Court is still behind a full two years.

Remedy Being Tried The remedy now being tried, he pointed out, is a modification of ones tried before. Every four or five years the problem has been tackled by the legislature or constitutional convention or some other body. In 1925 the legislature provided for six commissioners in two groups of three each to help the court to overcome the congestion of its docket. Now since July 1925 we have had three Supreme Courts attempting to speed up justice. Under this plan some headway has been made so that if progress can be continued at the same rate the docket will be up to schedule in four or five more years.

However all these attempted remedies are superficial cures which do not cut to the source of the problem and prevent the cause from operating. As long as cases continue to come in as they have in the past, the court will forever be trying to catch up. What is needed is some rule whereby the flow of cases to the docket will be limited and some method of hearing which will be speedier and simpler.

In the first place the right to appeal is too broad and unlimited. Every case can now be appealed to the court whether it is important or trivial. That every case has the right of appeal to the Supreme Court is a principle which was supposed to operate to the benefit of the poor man. This however is fallacious because it is the richer appellants that benefit by the long delays and costly counsel attendant upon appealing.

Time Wasted In the second place all the records of the lower courts are studied by the supreme court. This entails needless waste of time and effort because a brief or abstract would be far more efficient and just as complete and useful.

Lastly the fees charged are too small. While the cost to the State of the Supreme Court has multiplied six or seven times since the beginning of the century, the fees have remained the same. With these fees the state is insufficiently paid for its services and encouragement is lent to bring up petty and insignificant cases which are not worth a larger fee.

These basic cures will be more effective, Professor Aylsworth believes than the old superficial remedies. They have been tried by other states and have proved successful. However the public must be awakened to the need of these reform measures so that they will insist upon their adoption for the bar and the legislature have so far failed to do so.

of the treasurer to build the union building.

$200,000 for Memorial Stadium The total goal is $500,000, the first $300,000 going toward the construction of the union, the remaining $200,000 to be used for the completion of the Inman Memorial stadium and endowment of the alumni association. The eight sections of the concrete stadium as now completed have been built entirely from gifts of students and an initial donation from Mrs. E. M. Luman.

Features of the proposed union building, which is designed as a community center for the social life of students, faculty and alumni, include reading and recreation rooms for men and women, offices for Y. M. C. A., alumni association, student publications, co-operative book store, dining room, social hall, guest rooms for entertaining visitors and similar features.

Iowa Educator Denounces Practice Of Trick Examinations for Children

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 16.—School children who despair over rigid examinations covering relatively unimportant points and who are subjected to surprise examinations have the sympathy of Doctor Ernest Horn, professor of Education at the University of Iowa.

Doctor Horn went on record today as violently opposed to examinations of the trick variety, covering details on what the children ought not to be expected to learn.

The Iowa educator, who is much in demand as a speaker at teachers' meetings in all sections of the country, made the startling statement that points to be covered in examinations should be revealed to the pupils beforehand.

"It is the simple and logical thing to do," says Doctor Horn, "since an examination is supposed to cover the most important work the student has been over."

A chance for the pupil to learn things which will be asked in the test should certainly be afforded, Doctor Horn maintains. The child then will learn something which he might otherwise have missed and perhaps later never would have learned.

Only points fully covered during the term should be stressed in examinations and other questions were branded as unfair by the University of Iowa authority.

"I believe in examinations. Rigorous scholarship is impossible without them. Evidence of results accomplished are furnished by them and a strict accounting is necessary," declares Doctor Horn.

Wom-n's self-government rules at the University of Wisconsin require women students to be in their rooms before 10:30 on all evenings except Friday and Saturday, when 12:30 is the deadline.
