Fifteenth-Century Latin Manuscript Included in Fitzpatrick's Collection

Thomas J. Fitzpatrick, curator of the herbarium of the University and in charge of the Bessey Hall library, has a large collection of very rare books. Among these is a Latin manuscript, written in the fifteenth century, by Jacob A. Voragne and entitled "Vitae Sanctorum" or "Lives of the Saints." Voragne, the author was Archbishop of Genoa about 1399. This original manuscript is a large volume, written on high grade paper and bound with a thick leather cover. The pages have even side-margins, with the lines very carefully and evenly ruled off and with the same number on each page. Large initial letters illuminated in red begin the story of each saint. There are six hundred pages in the book.

Mr. Fitzpatrick also has a printed copy of "Vitae Sanctorum," which was printed March 15, 1500. This book was once owned by the Duke of Sussex, and has his bookplate in the front. It is printed in very black-face type, with the date in the back at the close of the book, as is usual in some of the oldest books. The large initials are set in very ornate blocks.

Has Book Printed by Caxton
Another rare book is a reproduction of the "Golden Legend" which Caxton printed in English from a French translation of "Vitae Sanctorum." It abounds with most extravagant and romantic fictions and legends, and was as popular in its day as Bunyan's "Pilgrim Progress" was in a later day. This is profusely illustrated with large wood cuts which portray scenes depicted in the legends.

A very interesting book is a Bible with Concordance which was printed in 1527. It is of fine print Gothic letters, with the title printed in red and black within woodcut borders. It is illustrated with numerous woodcut initials and pictures, many of which are very crudely colored. Some leaves are frayed at the edges, and some stained and wormed through-out, but it is very well preserved, for such an old book. It is bound in old, boarded stamped vellum, with the remains of the clasps with which it closed originally.

Books From Jefferson's Library
A few of the other very interesting books and manuscripts, is a collection of books from a library which Thomas Jefferson gathered together in his later life; a manuscript order-book used during the War of 1812, in which the signature of William Harrison, who later became President of the United States, appears, and a manuscript diary of a soldier in the Revolutionary War, with entries from 1779 to 1784.

Every day he asks a question from different students picked at random on the campus.

Today's question: What building on the campus do you like the best?
Gretchen Anderson, A. S., '29, Fremont.

"Social Science building is my choice, because every body seems to be studying."

Mildred Fredrickson, A. S., '27, Grand Island.

"The Social Science building appeals the most to me because it is the newest building, and it does not seem to have the horrible atmosphere that the other buildings have."

Emily Stech, T. C., '29, Lincoln.

"I like the Social Science building the best, because it is the most convenient for me on account of its position on the campus."

AG COLLEGE SEEKS BRANCH OF FORUM

Committee Discusses Possibility of World Forum Luncheons on Ag College Campus

A joint committee of the Ag college branch of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. met Thursday noon to consider the possibility of a branch of the World Forum discussions to be held for ag college students who find it inconvenient to attend the luncheons held at the Grand Hotel on Wednesday.

The committee is made up of: Lloyd Strombeck '28, Lincoln, chairman; Dorothy McCoy '30, Imperial, secretary; Mary I. Bailey '27, Council Bluffs, Iowa; Florence Brinton '27, Lincoln; Anton Frolik '28, De Witt; and J. Donald Bell '28, Bellwood. Mildred Unland '28, Arlington, Ag College Y. W. C. A. president, James Rosse '29, Maxwell, Ag College Y. M. C. A. chairman and C. D. Hayes general secretary of the University Y. M. C. A. were also present at the meeting.

It was the consensus of opinion that discussion groups for ag college would meet with the approval of the student body and acting upon this assumption, a committee was appointed from within the group to make arrangements for a luncheon to be held next Thursday. Tickets will be on sale the first part of this week.

A PEACH OF A PARTY

How many times have you said that, after a night of Gay Merry-making—Probably dozens of times, but have you ever stopped to consider what made it so much fun? If you have, you will probably remember that you were first impressed by the Clever Decorations. It looked like you were going to have a good time, but as the evening wore on, something seemed to be lacking. Every one seemed to be bored—terribly bored. And then all of a sudden, some one began throwing Serpentine and Confetti. You spied a fellow passing out Funny Hats, and raced after him to get yours. Next came the many colored Balloons, then the Squackers and Noise Makers—Every one and everything seemed to break loose at the same time, and after that "Oh Boy—What Fun!"

A little later in the evening came the final touch. Delicious Refreshments and Clever Favors for all.

Now the Party is a thing of the past—only the kindest of thoughts remain to recall to your memory now and then, the fact that it was a Peach of a Party.

A successful Party, depends to a large extent, upon the Favors and Decorations used. The Favors, Decorations and Amusement Features, play the most important part in accomplishing the much to be desired favorable comment.

"We create and Make the things that take in Party Favors." George Bros. 1213 N Street.—Adv.

Omaha university will be debated March 9 in a no-decision contest. On March 10, the team will go to Denver to meet Denver university. On March 11, Colorado university at Boulder will be debated in a conference contest.

High prices, small meals, poor service has caused a boycott on the college tea room by the faculty and students of Carleton College.

The Southern California Council is discussing the advisability of a Pacific Coast Conference of Inter-Fraternity Councils.
