More than two hundred and fifty legislators and faculty members of the University gathered at a banquet as guests of the University at the student activities building on the College of Agriculture campus last night.

Acting Chancellor Burnett presided over the after-dinner program. After several selections by the University Glee Club directed by Herman Decker, he told of some of the needs of the University. He stressed the need of the equipment for the new hospital of the College of Medicine at Omaha, showing that its service reached every county in the state in its work of caring for those who were not financially able to receive proper medical aid.

Appeals to Legislature
He introduced Regent W. P. Warner who appealed to the legislators for their confidence. "We want your confidence," he said, "If you do not understand what we are doing in the University, we want you to ask us and find out."

Keynote of Program
The keynote of the whole program was that of presenting the value of the University of Nebraska to the state of Nebraska. Acting Chancellor Burnett in his remarks, stated that the University of Nebraska's growth in a biennium was equal to the enrollment of the largest college in the state. He assured the law-makers that the University would be as efficient as it was possible to make it and asked that they consider the service that was being rendered by the University in reaching every phase on

VOLD ANNOUNCED AS CO-EDITOR OF BOOK

Quasi Contracts is Chapter Written By Professor Vold; Text Includes 25 Writers

Professor Lauriz Vold, of the University of Nebraska Law School, is announced as co-author of a law text edited by Henry Winthrop Ballantine, of the University of California School of Jurisprudence. The name of the book is "Problems in Law with Solutions."

Its aim is to give law students the material for a careful review of the fundamental principles of most of the topics covered by law school and bar examinations. Although written in the form of a "question and answer" book, it is not a quizzer as is usually understood. The questions are such as will challenge the thinking powers of the student and test his ability to apply his knowledge of legal principles to specific facts.

The chapter written by Professor Vold is Quasi Contracts. Twenty-five other prominent instructors in the leading law schools have aided in the preparation of the volume. The questions and answers present some of the latest developments of the law in the thirty-four fields represented. The book is published by the West Publishing Company, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Miss Brooks, a graduate of Hamlin College, and at present engaged in graduate work in Chicago, will interview university women who are considering entering the domestic field of church work.

PHI SIGS CONTINUE WINNING STREAK

Leaders Defeat Phi Gams in 19-to-4 Game; Sig Eps Take Close Bout From Pi K A

Monday's results
Class A
Sigma Phi Epsilon 16, Pi Kappa Alpha 12.
Phi Sigma Kappa 19, Phi Gamma Delta 4.
Kappa Sigma 2, Acacia 0 (forfeit)

No Games Today
Phi Sigma Kappa added one more game to its untarnished record in the Greek basketball tourney by trouncing Phi Gamma Delta 19 to 4. Sigma Phi Epsilon took an interesting contest from Pi Kappa Alpha. The Acacia five failed to make an appearance on the court and Kappa Sigma took the game by forfeit.

From the beginning of the Sig Epsilon Kappa battle the result was in doubt. Pi Kappa Alpha showed a lot of power in its offense that was generally unsuspected and the first half ended in its favor four to two. The Sig Eps started the second period in fine style, sinking a field goal in the first minute, but still the opponents held on. Near the end of the game, Hecht started a one-man rally, flipping in three successive goals in well under a minute.

Sig Eps Forge Ahead
This did not stop the scoring of the Pi Kappa men, but it did put the Sig Eps far enough ahead that they could not be overtaken. Hecht and Kahler showed best for the winners, Miller was off form and did not connect with the hoop throughout the contest. Gohde, as usual, was the leader for the Pi Kappa Alpha, but Whelan covered the floor well and Lepicier did some good defensive work.

PICTURES MUST BE IN TOMORROW

"All Copy in to Printer by March 15" is Cornhusker Slogan; Office is Moved

Tomorrow will be the last day that pictures for the fraternity and sorority sections of the 1927 Cornhusker will be accepted. It is absolutely necessary that these sections be completed at once and sent to the engraver.

The slogan of "All copy in to the printer by March 15" has been adopted by both the business and editorial staffs. At the present rate of progress it seems very probable that all copy will be completed by that date.

Practically all of the organization pictures have been sent to the engraver and a large number of cuts have been returned. With the class sections already completed and the organization, fraternity, and sorority sections rapidly nearing completion, the staff feels that the work is progressing as well as could be expected.

Appearance of Robin Puts Ill Prophecy of Groundhog to Rout

Pack away your heavies, put the fur coat in storage, don the spring hat and oil up the lawn mower. Spring is here! The groundhog may well curl up in shame and hide his face, for the first robin of 1927 was sighted Sunday morning by Mrs. Morse, 911 South 13th Street.

The harbinger of warm weather was seen perched in a tree on the Alpha Delta Pi lawn, 501 South 12th Street apparently enjoying the heavy snowfall.

Grammann, chairman of the University convocations. The speaker will also address the Chamber of Commerce at a noonday luncheon following the convocation. The subject of his talk will be "On the Road to Prosperity."

Sir Paish who is making a tour through the United States addressed the Chicago Association of Commerce February 9 and is engaged to speak at Pasadena, California, February 16. It was through Dean LeRossignol's efforts that Sir Paish was induced to stop at Lincoln on his way to Pasadena.

Considered Leading Economist

At the outbreak of the world war Sir Paish was sent to Washington as representative of the British treasury on an official mission. Sir Paish is considered the leading economist of England and has occupied many positions of important governmental responsibility including: acting in the capacity of adviser to the Chancellor of the Exchequer and the British Treasury on Financial and Economic Questions during the years of 1914 to 1916.

He is also well known as an author of distinction. One of his recent publications is "Promoter of Banker's Manifesto" a discussion on the trade relations of Europe. Sir Paish was also editor of the London Statist, an interesting paper on economy and investments, and is considered the best authority on American investments.

FLING SPEAKS AT FORUM WEDNESDAY

Topic on International Relationships Is Third of Series on Modern Problems

Dr. F. M. Fling, professor of European history, will speak on "Our Place in World Civilization" before the World Forum at the Grand Hotel Wednesday noon. This will be the third lecture in a series on important modern problems presented at the Forum in recent weeks.

The Nicaraguan question and the future of the capitalistic system were discussed by Frederick Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, and Dean J. E. LeRossignol of the College of Business Administration, respectively, last week and the week before.

Dr. Fling is considered by many as one of the ablest speakers on the faculty. He has long been a student of foreign affairs and international relations. At the close of the war he was present at Versailles during the meetings of the Peace Conference. He returned a firm believer in American membership in the League of Nations.

Since that time he has been a sincere advocate of America's assuming a position of responsibility and cooperation in international affairs rather than one of comparative isolation. He will discuss the position the United States holds and should hold in world society today, in his Wednesday lecture at World Forum. This is the first opportunity students have had recently to hear Dr. Fling's presentation of this subject outside of the classroom.

Hicks Give Lectures On American History

Professor John D. Hicks, chairman of the department of History, has been speaking before the History Department of the Women's Club every other Monday this year. The speeches given at these meetings have all been on some phase of "American History."

Annual Event to be Broadcast from KFAB; Includes Six Hours of Entertainment by Faculty Members and Student Groups.

At 8:05 P. M. tonight, thousands of Cornhusker hearts will be stirred with the pleasant thoughts of past memories when the old historic University bell, with its chimes, will open the annual charter day program, which will be broadcast from the University Broadcasting Studio through KFAB. At regular intervals the old bell will ring out to old graduates who will remember of being called to chapel by the staccato stroke of the memorable bell.

There are those who have not had the privilege of being called to chapel by this time-worn bell, held in reverence by many a loyal Cornhusker. They will never realize the traditional feeling attached to it by the early grads, but even they will to some extent appreciate the significance of the sentiment expressed by its measured gong as it chimes out tonight.

Many Groups Listen
Groups and gatherings of loyal Cornhuskers, scattered throughout the states, will reiterate old and pleasant reminiscences filled with the famous Cornhusker spirit which has fired many a Nebraska team to victory.

Harold F. Holtz, Secretary of the Alumni Association, stated, "Forty organized clubs will celebrate in twenty different states in honor of Charter Day." Mr. Holtz has received communications from several alumni organizations stating that they are fully prepared to celebrate this holiday.

CORNHUSKER MOVES TO NEW LOCATION

Daily Nebraskan Business Office Placed in Former Quarters Of Annual Staff

Alternations in the location of the Cornhusker offices and the business department of the Daily Nebraskan were made Monday afternoon, and today the two staffs are established in their new quarters. The Cornhusker office which has shared the room adjoining the Daily Nebraskan office on the north jointly with the Awgwan, is being moved to basement room Number 1 of University Hall, and the Business department of the Daily Nebraskan will vacate its office in the west stand of the stadium and take up new headquarters in the space vacated by the Cornhusker desks.

These innovations will bring about more favorable working conditions for both staffs. The new Cornhusker office is larger, has a convenient campus entrance and will be comfortably equipped for the convenience of the staff in carrying on its work. It is isolated from the incessant hammering of Daily Nebraskan typewriters.

Change in Distribution
The 1927 Cornhusker will be distributed from the new office in the spring instead of from the basement room of the Administration building. This will facilitate distribution of the year book greatly by doing away with much of the congestion that always results from the scramble to get the new Cornhusker. The new office is accessible from the lower corridor of U Hall or from the campus entrance at the south side of U Hall immediately to the right of the entrance steps. A bulletin board will be erected outside to take care of important announcements.

The change of the business department of the Daily Nebraskan from the stadium office to the location formerly held by the Cornhusker will concentrate the activities of the Nebraskan and bring that department into a more convenient campus location. The Awgwan will remain at its old stand, sharing the room adjoining the Daily Nebraskan office with the business end.

Dales Connected With University Since 1871; One of First Alumni

Lincoln, Febr.—When the University of Nebraska observes its fifty-eighth birthday on February 15 there will be no other alumnus, perhaps, who will look with greater pride on the achievements of the institution than Judge J. S. Dales of Lincoln, secretary of the board of regents, who has been connected with the University in one capacity or another since its beginning in 1871.

Judge Dales, who is now seventy-five years of age, entered the University as an upperclassman when it opened in September 1871. With Judge William Snell, now of Seattle, he shared the honor of receiving the first two degrees granted by the University. Both of these men were graduated in 1873 and were the first class sent out by the University.

After graduation he studied law in an attorney's office and two years later returned to take a master's degree which was awarded him in 1876. This honor was his alone, since he was the first student to be given a graduate degree.

Appointed Secretary in 1875
In 1875 he was appointed secretary of the board of regents of the University and in fifty-two years since then he has missed but two meetings of this group. During the first ten years of his secretaryship he practiced law in Lincoln, but in '85 the work became too heavy to do after office hours and on the advice of the board he gave up his law practice and devoted his entire time to handling the regents' business.

NEBRASKA WINS 27-20 GAME FROM MISSOURI

Displays Short-Pass System That Sifts Through Missouri Defense

SMAHA MAKES TEN POINTS

Cornhusker Captain is Star; Missouri Threatens With Second-Half Rally

By Jack Elliott
Displaying a fast brand of basket ball and a short passing game, the Nebraska basketball team took the long end of the 27 to 22 score from the Missouri Tigers in the Coliseum last night. Captain Clark Smaha was the outstanding star of the evening, snagging five counters from the field for high point man of the evening.

The game started off with a flying start, Ted Page, the lanky Husker pivot-man getting the tip-off from Channon and the ball going up and down the court, with neither team able to score. Then the ball reached the hands of Clark Smaha who sunk it through the netting with a perfect one-hand shot. After five minutes of fast playing Bacchus, Tiger forward evened the count at 2 to 2. Then the Missouri forward got through for another putting the Mizou five in the lead, but the Missouri lead was short lived for the Nebraska captain made another shot, the most sensational shot, of the game to even the count.

Nebraska Missing Shots

The Nebraska five were missing many shots after taking the ball through the Tiger defense and down under the goal. The Husker five would work the ball down the floor only to miss a short shot under the basket. But the Husker defense was functioning perfectly with Holm and Anderson keeping the Tigers taking their shots at long range. The Missouri five tried several passes that were the length of the floor, but the Nebraska guards would break up every play that the Tigers would launch.

After 12 minutes of playing in the opening period the score still stood at a tie 4 to 4, when Page broke through for a set-up under the basket, breaking the tie and putting the Nebraskans in the lead for the rest of the game. "Jug" Brown was sent in to relieve Klepser and the Nebraska forward started a rampage of baskets that soon took the Cornhusker five up to a safe lead. Repeatedly the Nebraskans would break through the Bengal defense and give the ball to "Jug" for a basket. The first half ended with the Missouri five trailing 11 to 7.

Stronger in Second Half

The second half opened with the Nebraska five coming back stronger than before, and with a fast and smooth working machine soon had the count piled up to 20 to 10 before the Tiger five could start hitting the basket.

Starting late in the second half, the team from Missouri started a rally that almost proved disastrous to the Nebraska five. In an attempt to cut the lead of the Husker five, the boys of Coach Edwards were successful and closed the gap from 20 to 10 to 20 to 17. Bacchus, Yunker and Channon were hitting the basket with uncanny regularity in the second period.

But the Tiger rally was cut short after they had run the score up to 23 to 21. Nebraska took time out and Coach Black sent in Kenneth Othmer for Brown and Tom Elliott for Page, who had been taken from the game on personals. The Cornhusker five tightened and stopped the deluge of baskets that the Mizou five were sinking through the hoop.

With but four minutes to play and the score standing 23 to 22, the crowd who by this time was on its feet in a fratic uproar rose as one and called for a basket. Holm, Cornhusker guard who had been playing
