

BOWLING TOURNEY INTO SEMI-FINALS

Next to Last Round Will Start Thursday Evening at Saratoga Alleys

The semi-finals of the annual interfraternity elimination bowling tournament will begin Thursday evening at 7 o'clock at the Saratoga Alleys. The teams competing will be: Xi Psi Phi, Sigma Phi Epsilon and the Kappa Sigma; also the winner of the game between the Phi Kappas and the Delta Tau Deltas which will be played some time this week. The only time that the alleys will be open is on Monday and Tuesday afternoon. The time can be decided between the two fraternities. This game will conclude the second round of the tournament.

The score of the Phi Kappa Phi and the Delta Tau Delta on Monday evening, follows:

Heavy Track Schedule Is 1927 Outlook

Thirteen meets are scheduled for Coach Schulte and his Cornhusker track and field men this season. The 1927 Nebraska schedule not only includes a larger number of meets than ever before but offers the most varied schedule ever arranged here.

The Husker schedule is one that would delight any track coach, athlete, or fan. With only nine lettermen, Coach Schulte and his assistants, Jimmy Lewis and Choppy Rhodes, are confronted with the task of building almost an entire squad with green material. They are swinging to the task with the best schedule of recent years and also a series of numeral and tri-color meets to attract new men to the stadium.

A clash with the combined strength of the Nebraska College Conference teams on the stadium indoor track February 12 opened the season; it was the first indoor meet ever held here. Three foreign indoor meets will fill up the early part of the season: the annual K. C. A. A. indoor games at Kansas City, February 19; the annual Illinois indoor relays at Urbana, February 26; and the Missouri Valley conference meet at Des Moines with Drake as hosts. Nebraska has won the indoor championship for the last two years.

Big Trip Planned The outdoor schedule opens with the California trip, on which the Huskers will tangle in three meets: a triangular meet with Denver University and Colorado Agricultural College, at Denver, April 2; the University of New Mexico, at Albuquerque, April 4; and a big intersectional dual meet with the University of California, at Berkeley, April 9.

The relay season opens up the latter part of April. Nebraska will take part in the Kansas Relays at Lawrence, April 23 and in the Drake Relays at Des Moines, April 29-30.

The big outdoor event of the season is the annual valley meet which will again be held on the stadium track. All nine of the valley teams will participate in this meet. At last year's meet, which was won by Nebraska, one world's record was broken, one equalled, and six valley records were broken.

The dual schedule is not as extensive as it has been some years. However, the Cornhuskers will meet the two Kansas schools in a triangular meet at Manhattan, May 7. Drake will meet the Huskers in a dual meet at the stadium, May 13.

IN THE VALLEY

By JACK ELLIOTT

The Nebraska basketball team is still one of the big contenders for the Valley cage title. With a victory over the Oklahoma Sooners Friday night, the Huskers made it plain that they were in the race and were going to make it tough for other conference teams. The Cornhusker quintet still has a hard schedule ahead, with the rejuvenated Kansas Jayhawkers coming to Lincoln for a conference battle this Saturday and a road trip into Iowa for games with Ames and Drake next week.

Clark Smaha and Ted Page were closely watched in the Sooner-Husker clash Friday, and still the two Nebraskans managed to slip through for five each from the field, tying for high honors. The tall Cornhusker was "hot" and on two occasions caught the Oklahoma guards napping in the second half and slipped through baskets without any difficulty. Clark Smaha, the Nebraska scoring ace, was sinking some of the hair-raising variety, dropping them through the netting with one hand and from the position of a contortionist.

Cornhusker fans who came to the game with the expectation of seeing a battle of giants were not disappointed in the least. Vic Holt, Goliath from Soonerland, was everything and more than fans expected. The tall Sooner center gave Page a real battle from the opening whistle to the final gun, and was getting the tip-off in the opening stanza about three-fourths of the time. But in the second half the Nebraska center came back and took the tip from the Oklahoma pivot-man every time.

Kansas University, Nebraska's foe for Saturday night, had an easy time taking their game from Grinnell Friday night, winning 36 to 16. The entire Jayhawk team was hitting the rim with Peterson, rangy Kansas center, leading the scorers with four from the field and two free ones.

Drake, another foe remaining on the Husker schedule, took a non-conference game from Iowa State Friday night, 23 to 20. Both Ames and Drake meet the Nebraskans on their home court next week in conference battles.

Kenneth Othmer was sent in to relieve "Jug", whose nose was broken in a collision with Page. Ken was going "hot" with his tip-in shots, collecting three of the said variety and a pair from the gift line. The trio, Page, Smaha, and Othmer, which looked plenty neat on the floor in the second half, should give the strong Jayhawk five some tough going in the game on the Coliseum floor this Saturday.

Every, the Aggie captain, was doing some of the best basket shooting in the Aggie-Nebraska game that fans have witnessed for some time. Nine baskets and two free throws was the diminutive forward's contribution to the score of the Stillwater quintet. Twenty points out of 27 is a pretty good record for one evening's performance.

The Oklahoma Sooners went down to defeat at the hands of the Kansas Farmers last night 29 to 19. This makes four defeats for the Sooners and considerably weakens their chances at the title flag. While the Oklahoma Sooners were losing to the Kaggies, the Scarlet and Cream basketball team were increasing their percentage in the Valley standing to the amount of a second place rating in the conference cage race.

Three more hurdles yet remain for the Cornhuskers to clear, and should they make all three, their chance for a 1927 Valley championship title will look good. Kansas is the first foe for the men of Charley Black to win from, and the Kansas team, now in second place, has one of the strongest aggregations in the conference and is the same team that the Huskers met at Lawrence. They have overcome their early season slump and are tucking away victories under their belts in real championship manner.

"Andy" and Phil were playing great games at the guard positions last night, and in the second half it was a rare occasion for an Aggie forward to get in for a short shot. In the second stanza, the Oilers were resorting to numerous long shots, but were unable to hit the rim and the two Husker guards were returning the ball down the court in great fashion. It will be the task of these two stellar Nebraska guards to keep the Jayhawk forwards smothered in the game Saturday.

PHI SIGS TAKE CHAMPIONSHIP IN GREEK MEET

The Sig Eps. At the half the Phi Sigs led 11 to 7. The second half started out with the Phi Sigs apparently icing the game by soon stretching their lead to thirteen points while the Sig Eps could accumulate but one field goal. Grace and Lewandowski did the greater share of the scoring during this spree. With but four minutes to play, the Sig Eps started a rally that looked to carry them within winning distance. In the last minute the score stood 21 to 24 when Grace took the heart out of the Sig Ep attack by scoring one of those baskets that we read about, a beautiful under-the-basket attempt.

Phi Sigs Deserving There is no doubt in the minds of the followers of the tournament but that the Phi Sigs well deserved their second successive championship. Though they have played many close games their superior defense and an offense of Grace and Lewandowski has out-classed any other on the tournament courts.

Acacia took an interesting contest from Pi Kappa Alpha 15 to 14. Storm and Whalen led the attacks of the two teams, each scoring five points. In the remaining class A game of the morning, the Kappa Sig five won over the Phi Gamma Delta team, 16 to 4. Owens and Kronkright were high scorers though every member of the Kappa Sig five found the basket at least once.
