

PLAYERS SCORE SUCCESS WITH COMEDY DRAMA

'The Easy Mark' Attracts Favorable Comment From Audience

FELTON IN LEADING ROLE

Betty Coolidge Stars in Feminine Lead; Ramsay Has Comedy Part

A winning combination of a lively comedy drama together with excellent portrayals of the University Players, made the first public performance of 'The Easy Mark,' given yesterday evening at the Temple theater, a decided success.

Comedy is Excellent

Old Amos, the veterinary, played by Ray Ramsay, was a comedy part, played to perfection; Jack Rank, as Charlie Hatfield, the hard-boiled, conceited influential citizen of the town, gave a convincing portrayal, as did Thad Cone and Howard Cottle in the roles of the two smooth scoundrels dealing in oil lands.

Other performances will be given this evening and Saturday evening together with matinees this afternoon, at 3:00 and one tomorrow at 2:30. Tickets are one dollar, and seventy-five cents, and may be purchased at the Ross P. Curtice Co.

Colored Lighting Effects Feature Decorations for Junior-Senior Prom

With the re-entry of the Junior-Senior Prom on March 18, after an absence of five years from the social calendar of the school, heretofore unused decorative ideas will be used in the Coliseum. A Lincoln professional decorator has been put in charge of the decorations and he expects to start work on the dance floor immediately after the state tourney.

According to the decorator's plans, not a white light will be used in the building. A multi-colored fountain in front of the stage, and another in the front entrance will lend effects that have not been brought out before in Coliseum decorations.

At a meeting of the sophomore class called by William Mentzer, newly elected president, the following officers were chosen: Joe Reeves, vice-president; Morton Lange, secretary; C. Paul Jeffers, treasurer.

No other business was brought up at the meeting which was attended by about fifty sophomores. The newly elected officers are urged to make arrangements for their picture in the Cornhusker at once.

Because the basket ball season will have ended before March 18, the date of the Junior-Senior Prom, the dance floor will be in the best condition of the year. All attempts are to be made to give it a high polish before the party so that there will be no complaints from the dancers, as there have been heretofore this year.

With the party only two weeks away, nearly all the plans have been made. Two orchestras, Tracy Brown and his Oklahomans from Omaha and Beck's from Lincoln have been selected to furnish the music. The entertainment committee reports a group of entertainers for the intermission. Tickets are now being sold in all (Continued on Page Three.)

'Bigger and better' was the slogan unanimously adopted by the cheerers of five hundred agriculture and home economics students in the Farmers' Fair Convocation held in the Student Activities building on the College of Agriculture campus yesterday morning.

L. L. Wilson '27, manager of the ninth annual Farmers' Fair gave the principal talk of the morning, outlining the mile posts by which the progress of Farmers' Fair could be measured.

The first marker was that of showing the people of the state the magnitude of the work of the College of Agriculture. This is to be done by the exhibits which are to be prepared by the departments on the campus. 'These will also show the type and character of the work done at the college,' he said.

Work on the Farmers' Fair would show the quality and character of the students and at the same time make them better acquainted with one another, he also stated. He felt that it would help to break down barriers which separated certain groups and unite the student body into a common purpose.

Responsibility of Students Another marker of progress was the way in which each student accepted responsibility. Mr. Wilson stressed the point that the various (Continued on Page Three.)

FACULTY SPEAKS TO COMMERCIAL CLUB

Dean LeRossignol, Dean Heppner, Professor Arndt Address Girls' Club Yesterday

Fifty-five women were present at the meeting of the Girls' Commercial Club held yesterday at noon, in Lincoln Chamber of Commerce Annex. This is the largest group of women members of the Chamber which has ever met there. Florence Benson, president, presided at the meeting.

Dean LeRossignol spoke a few words of encouragement to the women, telling them of the importance of blending practice with theory. He expressed the hope that their trips to the various industries would give them, not only a better understanding of what is required of a business woman, but would also apply some of their class-room knowledge to actual life, and thus enable them to become better equipped at school.

W. A. A. CHOOSE NEW OFFICERS

Helen Snavely Is Named New Head Of Women's Athletic Association; Others Elected

Election results: President—Hazel Snavely. Vice-president—Helen Morehead. Secretary—Helen Schlytern. Treasurer—Grace Modlin. Delegate—Marie Hermanek.

New Heads Active Hazel Snavely, '28, Lincoln, president-elect, has been dance manager on the W. A. A. Executive Board. She has been called upon to make posters for all W. A. A. publicity on the campus bulletin boards. The W. A. A. office owes its decorative scheme to her originality and the carrying out of it to her willingness to work.

Helen Morehead, '28, Lincoln, was the choice of the association for vice-president. She holds the position of volley ball manager which entitles her to a seat on the Executive Board.

Helen Schlytern, '28, Danneberg, was elected secretary in W. A. A. and she automatically acts in the same capacity for the W. A. A. Board. She was manager of the basketball season that just closed. She is also secretary of the Physical Education Club.

COUNCIL CUTS RUSH WEEK TO THREE DAYS

Interfraternity Group Sets Date at September 12-14; Will Lower Expense

AGAINST FRESHMAN WEEK

Turning Of Houses Over To Freshmen Would Cause Extra Expense

The Interfraternity Council, at a meeting held last night, voted down the proposed freshman week, so far as fraternities are concerned, but passed a resolution to cut rush week down to three days. Rush week will start Monday September 12 and will continue for three days. The University will have full charge of the Freshmen for three days so far as fraternities are concerned. It is understood that all fraternities who have 'rush dates' with Freshman at the present time will cancel all such dates and make new engagements in accordance with the resolution passed.

Reasons Against Freshman Week The reasons for voting out Freshman Week, in so far as it would necessitate turning the fraternity houses over to the Freshmen, were that it would put the fraternity men to extra expense in finding another place to stay during that time and that it would add the expense of cleaning the house again.

Since the fraternities have agreed to cut rush week down three days, it is up to the University to decide what they will do with the Freshmen during that time. It is expected that this will meet with the favor of the University authorities, and that they will provide for the entertainment of Freshmen during that period.

It was agreed that a full week, which has heretofore been the extent of rush week, was too long, and only led to extra expense on the part of fraternities and confusion for freshmen.

DISCUSS ORIENTAL PROBLEMS

Pan-Pacific Conference Will Include Talks by Foreign Students

Conditions and problems of Oriental nations will be discussed at a series of student meetings at the University of Nebraska Saturday and Sunday.

Students from Japan, China, Russia, and the Philippine islands who are now taking work in the University will take a prominent part in the 'Pan-Pacific conference.'

The conference is sponsored by the University Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A. and the Cosmopolitan club, an organization composed of foreign students.

Miss Reynolds Will Advise Senior Girls

Alice Reynolds of the National staff of the Y. W. C. A. will be in Lincoln on Monday and Tuesday of next week, giving Senior girls interested in her work, an opportunity to consult her. Miss Reynolds is very generously giving as much of her time as possible to these interviews, but the length of time she has in Lincoln will not permit her to meet as many as she would like. Appointments to meet Miss Reynolds should be made with Miss Appleby now.

There are many girls in the University who should be interested in this opportunity to discuss Y. W. C. A. work, according to Miss Appleby, for the nature of the various careers that can be discussed is varied enough to include them. Few positions would be open to girls other than college graduates, but there are a number of very attractive positions for capable young women in their first year out of college.

Reserve Work Discussed

Girl Reserve work attracts most workers new in the field. It affords an excellent opportunity to study and to help teen-age girls, to organize them into self-governing clubs, and to direct extra-curricular activities in a most satisfactory manner. The college graduate who wishes to perform a creditable community service can scarcely do better than to enter into Girl Reserve work.

Conditions of women in industry are still far from perfect. It is the aim of the Y. W. C. A. through its secretary for industrial work 'To create and promote a program which shall meet the needs of industrial young women in the community—and to insure cooperation in all efforts toward adequate industrial standards.' The field is large and the Y. W. C. A. can use many college women to cover it. Any who are interested in a career of social service should make appointments at once to consult with Miss Reynolds on Monday or Tuesday.

'Philobiblon' has been a favorite with master printers, and Mr. Doane will read from a personal copy of one of the celebrated editions. At the beginning of the hour he will chat about some books from his private library. August Molzer of the Molzer Violin School will play.

Honor System Discussed At World Forum

The discussion of the Honor System in the Ag College World Forum yesterday noon at the College of Agriculture campus resulted in a discussion of 'cheating' in college work. Prof. H. E. Bradford of the vocational education department led the discussion.

In summing up the discussion which had been continued from the last meeting of the Forum, Professor Bradford stated that he felt that the temptation to cheat should be taken away as much as possible and that too much responsibility should not be placed on the students.

He felt that the penalty for cheating or the opportunity to do it should not be too great so that a larger percent than common would 'crib.' He also rapped the careless, tactless teacher that states his questions poorly in an examination or who conducts his class in a disorderly manner.

In regard to the institution of the honor system in the college, Professor Bradford expressed himself in favor of it if the sentiment for it among the students was strong enough that the student group itself would take the responsibility for its working and not leave the responsibility on the teacher.

Speakers for the remainder of March have been secured, according to Lloyd Strombeck '28 who is chairman of the committee. Dr. John A. Rice of Tulsa, Oklahoma will speak at the Forum on Thursday of next week.

Cost of Living Decreases

The cost of living decreased last year in nearly every large city of the United States except Boston. As an abstract piece of statistics this is all right, but few buyers can recall being staggered by the amount they got for their money.

Physical Education Keeps Alive Spirit Says Chinese Missionary

'It is the practice of physical education that keeps alive the spirit that will some day help to emancipate the women and girls of China,' declares Miss Vera Barger, a Nebraska graduate, who is head of the recreational work of the Y. W. C. A. there. 'Some of my students are the pioneers who are already blazing the trail.'

Miss Barger, who was graduated from Nebraska in 1911, has left her work in China in charge of her assistant, a young Chinese girl whom she is training to take her place, and is now in the Philippines organizing recreational work there. This is an example of the policy of the Y. W. C. A. to use Chinese leadership as much as possible—to work with the Chinese rather than for them.

CYCLONES WIN 26-TO-24 GAME FROM HUSKERS

Never More Than Three Points Difference In Score; Nebraska Leads at Half

CLARK SMAHA IS INJURED

Page is High-Point Man With Ten Points; Game Is Fast and Rough

Ames, Iowa, March 3.—(Special to The Daily Nebraskan.)—In the fastest game that has been played at Ames this year Iowa State won from Nebraska 26 to 24. Both teams gave everything they had and with the exception of the first five minutes there was never more than three points difference in the score.

Smaha, flashy Husker forward was closely trailed the entire game, but in spite of this scored three times from the floor. Page, too, was covered, but managed to tip the ball in five times, four baskets being the result of the first half's work.

Smaha Injured Smaha was quite badly injured in the first half, but had his head bandaged and was again in the thick of the fight.

For the rejuvenated Iowa State team, Freddie Kling, running guard and candidate for all valley honors scored four times, Staver forward, three times, and Elliott and Lande twice each.

At the end of the half Nebraska lead 15 to 14. The game was unusually fast and rough, although but seven personals were called on the Cyclones and four on the Huskers.

Page Stars Smaha and Page were the individual stars of the game, with Kling of the Cyclones close behind.

Seldom during the game did the giant crowd out to witness the final game of the season have a chance to take their seats.

Brown of Iowa State who has stopped Byers of Kansas Aggies and Myers of Drake in easy fashion found the elusive Smaha harder picking. Both teams substituted freely, sending the same men back in the game after they had rested.

Box and Summary:

Lions Hold Banquet In Stadium; Watch Track Men Perform

Lincoln Lions banqueted Thursday noon in the east Stadium and then watched some of Coach Henry F. Schulte's track men perform with the veteran coach keeping the Lions well informed on what was going on.

A similar program was put on last year, with two purposes: to acquaint the club with the value of track and what it was, and to stimulate interest in the sport.

Weir, Krause, Keiss, and Trumble worked out over both high and low barriers for the Lions. Easter and Elkins did some sprint work and Elkins broad jumped and high jumped. Sneathen and Dexter ran a 660 in better than 1:29 time.

Physical Education Keeps Alive Spirit Says Chinese Missionary

The Grace Coppock memorial fund which was originally established to pay the salary of Miss Coppock, '05, who was national executive of the Y. W. C. A. in China, and since her death has gone to the support of Miss Barger's work as a memorial.

Vera Barger and Peking's physical director, Chang Mei Li, have been staging an intensive program in physical education and recreation which has brought together enthusiastic groups of all kinds, men, women, and children. The members' recreation class was particularly successful and now continues to function as a mother's club.

Athletics form the chief recreation of the Chinese, but eight of the twelve city associations have no committees. (Continued on Page Four.)
