Applicants must have been graduated with a degree from a college or university of recognized standing. They must have completed 118 semester hours credit with courses in mathematics through trigonometry and analytics, in astronomy, and in either French or German. Senior students in such institutions will be admitted to the examination subject to their furnishing proof of graduation during the existence of the eligible register resulting from this examination.

Competitors will be rated on mathematics including algebra, geometry, trigonometry, plane analytics, calculus, and mechanics; astronomy and related physics; and practical computations including the use of logarithms. Applicants who have had two full years of college work may substitute for each lacking completion of the college course one year of experience in astronomic work either as computer or observator.

The examination is to fill vacancies in the Naval Observatory and Nautical Almanac office, Navy Department, and vacancies occurring in positions requiring similar qualifications. A probationary period of six months is required; advancement after that depends upon individual efficiency, increased usefulness, and the occurrence of vacancies in higher positions.

Full information and application blanks may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or the secretary of the board of U. S. civil service examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city. The date for assembling of competitors will be stated on their admission cards, and will be about ten days after the close of receipt of applications.

SIX IOWA FARMERS MEET FOR DEBATE
Forensic Championship to be Settled On Subject of Taxation at Iowa State Thursday

Ames, Iowa, March 8.—Special: Six Iowa farmers, three from Polk County and three from Muscatine County, will meet here at Iowa State College Thursday night in a forensic debate to determine the farmers' debate championship of the state. The debate will be broadcast from station WOI at 7:30.

Of the six farmers who are scheduled to speak, five have previously competed for state championship debating honors. The Polk debaters, Henry and Carl Heidman, and Marjion Steddom, all of Granger, made up the team which was runner-up for the state championship two years ago. Newton Lang of Wilton, and Cloyce Downer of Letts, members of the Muscatine team, were on the championship team from that county a year ago. The third member of the Muscatine team this year is Ray Downer of Muscatine.

The Polk team Thursday night will argue that "the basis of taxation for state revenue should be income rather than property," while the Muscatine team will oppose such a plan.

Nearly 100 communities this year in Iowa have debated the income tax question, leading up to this state championship debate Thursday night. The state farmers debate is under the direction of the state farmers' debate council, which is composed this year of S. E. Bass, Boone; Gale McLean, Muscatine; W. H. Mallin, Tama; and W. H. Stacy, Ames.

FRESHMEN BIG PROBLEM
Wisconsin Authorities Hope to Give First Year Students Better Start

Methods of giving freshmen the right start in university life were the main feature of the report of the Board of Visitors to the University of Wisconsin Regents at their joint meeting last week.

From partial analysis of data on 500 students who withdrew or were dropped from the university during 1925-26, and from a review of efforts of other universities to reduce the scholastic mortality rate, the Board of Visitors came to the conclusion that "it is evident that the university needs more than ever capable advisers of freshmen after they have reached the institution."

To provide such advice and counsel to incoming freshmen, the board suggested a "contact officer" who shall visit high schools of the state and counsel with seniors who are planning to attend the university, their parents, and teachers.

Recommendations for the strengthening of the School of Education, and for studying the problem of making summer school attendance meet the resident requirements for first degrees also were made.

The Visitors commended the plans of President Frank for a central records office and for the Experimental college.

SIX HIGHS IN SOONER MEET
High School Grapplers Will See Oklahoma and Iowa State in Match Thursday

Norman, Okla., March 8.—(special)—Entrants in the annual state high school wrestling meet at the University of Oklahoma will have an opportunity to see the Sooner wrestling team in action Thursday afternoon when they meet the Iowa State grapplers in the armory here.

More than fifteen teams, including four of the six that won points last year, are entered in the meet, which will take place Friday and Saturday. Cushing high school, champions last year; Tulsa, which finished second; and Perry and Norman, other point winners have sent in entry lists.

Other teams expected to be here for the meet are Weatherford, Brinkham, Carnegie, Guthrie, Stroud, Stillwater, Tuttle, Hobart, Durant, Afton, and Edmond.

Frank Briscoe's Perry masters, who were the sensation of the meet last year, winning the first two places and a tie for a first and but with three entrants, will enter the meet this year with seven.

Assommodations for the wrestlers are being arranged and they will be housed at the various fraternity houses on the campus. An added attraction for the visitors will be the Missouri-Oklahoma basketball game to be played here Saturday night.

Nebraskan Reporter Talks To Grid Coach

appear on the Memorial Stadium field in September. Captain "Jug" Brown will call the signals on the '27 team, with Bronson or Lewandowski ready to relieve him.

"Red" Ray and Munn look good prospects for tackle positions. The guard posts are both filled by last year men, but the center position is the weak hole in the forward wall that the Husker coach is working on before the spring workouts are terminated. James will be back next fall, but he is the only center, there being no reserves to take his place. The back field positions are well taken care of and the Nebraska coaching staff is not finding any trouble with such men as "Blue" Howell, smashing Cornhusker fullback of 1926 back in the moleskins for the spring practice, "Jug" Brown, captain of the 1927 Nebraskans at quarter with Bronson to alternate at quarter or half. Presnell, Oelrich and Marrow at half and two good halves from the freshman team, "Bud" McBride or Elkins to alternate.

Only fourteen days of practice are available for the Huskers this fall before the opening game of the season with the Ames Cyclones at Lincoln on October 1. With such a short practice, the Nebraska coach is working at top speed to develop the squad during the spring. The schedule for Nebraska this autumn is as follows:

- October 1—Iowa State at Lincoln.
 - October 8—Missouri at Columbia.
 - October 15—Grinnell at Lincoln.
 - October 22—Syracuse at Lincoln.
 - November 5—Kansas at Lincoln.
 - November 12—Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.
 - November 19—Kansas Aggies at Manhattan.
 - November 24—New York University at Lincoln.

Journalism Students Given Pointers On Writing by Paul Zimmerman

Paul Zimmerman, '26, former University of Nebraska track star and a member of The Daily Nebraskan staff, talked on "Sport Writing on the Country Paper" before members of the Journalism 82 class, yesterday morning. Mr. Zimmerman is now night sport editor on the Lincoln State Journal.

Mr. Zimmerman, in opening his talk, explained the need for a more personal touch in country journalism sport stories than is exhibited in like stories in city newspapers. "Readers of small town papers are frequently personal friends of members of their athletic teams and they demand a personal touch to the stories for that reason. Very often a story which would be adequate for a city newspaper would be entirely inadequate in a country newspaper because of its lack of the personal element."

The speaker emphasized fair-play and accuracy in dealing with sports writing. "Small town sports writers often spoil an otherwise good story by inability to appreciate the prowess of both teams. In this respect country journalism does not differ from metropolitan sports writing; fair play and accuracy are essential for any sports story, no matter where it is to be published or who its readers are to be."

The fact that names make up an important part of every small town sports story was also stressed. He cautioned the journalism students as to the accuracy of names saying, "Incorrect names in a story are worse than no names at all and the reader who detects such errors in names is immediately willing to discredit the whole story."

Mr. Zimmerman was asked to talk to the journalism class in order to give the beginning writers some ideas of what their duties would be in reporting games in the coming state basketball tournament. He outlined the different methods used in scoring games and pointed out some of the difficulties that reporters will encounter in sports writing.

Talks of eating at the Central CAFE

Dinner—"When Do We Eat?"
A contributor to The Daily Nebraskan not long since prefaced his (or her) complaint with the very pertinent inquiry, "When Do We Eat?"

It appears that a number of students who are employed part time as assistants or instructors are paid in State warrants which are discounted at the banks at rates varying somewhat inversely to the amount of the warrant, the little fellows bearing the heaviest burden relatively.

It would seem that the adverb in the question quoted is not exact. "How Much Do We Eat?" would more nearly fit the facts. For if you go to the Central Cafe at 1325 P Street, you may eat at any time, night or day.

Of course, if your State warrant be discounted 3 per cent, then the answer to the amended question might be: "We can't eat more than 97 per cent."

It is deplorable that any servant of the State, or anyone else who renders service, should be paid in depreciated dollars—in dollars worth 97 or 98 or 99 cents in the market; but this is only a passing phenomenon and will be corrected in no great length of time.

However, the prices for food at the Central Cafe are so reasonable—when you consider the quality of the food and the service—that the discount on your State warrant can be recouped by eating there. Why not try it?
