SCHULTE TRACK EXPERTS LEAVE FOR DES MOINES

Nebraska Track Team To Be Seen in Action At Annual Drake Relays

BOBBY STEPHENS ABSENT

Cornhusker Broadjumper At Home With Injuries; Team Is Without a Trainer

Coach Schulte's tracksters left at 10 o'clock Thursday evening for Des Moines and the Drake Relays. Preliminaries in the special events and sprint relays will be held today with finals in all events set for Saturday.

Men making the trip were Wyatt, Davenport, Campbell, Dailey, Doty, Ashburn, Hurd, Durisch, Pospisil, Page, Wirsig, Chadderdon, Johnson, Janulewicz, McCartney, Sprague, Fleming, Krause, and Andrews. Captain Stephens is still unable to compete and because of the limit of nineteen men placed on the squad had to be left at home. The squad is also without the services of "Doc" McLean, trainer, who accompanied Locke to Philadelphia where he will compete in the Penn Relays tomorrow.

Husker Chances Poor

Husker chances for sweeping victories are practically nil. But the Nebraskans are conceded to have a good chance of placing well up in both the mile and four mile relays as well as several of the special events. Davenport, Campbell, Dailey, and Wyatt, make a mile relay quartet that will push any of them with an even break in the luck and baton passing.

The Huskers are practically sure to have a team in the four mile relay this week as McCartney is making the trip to run in case any of the other four are sick as was the case with Sprague last week. Sprague took a half in 2:07.8 last night and another one later in 2:10, both without pushing himself, so he should be in good shape again for Saturday. McCartney will run in one of the special distance runs if he is not needed in the four mile relay.

AG COLLEGE WORK SHOWN IN EXHIBITS

Educational Portion of Fair Opened From 1:30 to 11:30; In More Centralized Place

The educational exhibits of the 1927 Farmers' Fair are designed to give people an idea of the type of work carried on in the various departments of the College of Agriculture, according to a statement by the committee.

They will be opened at 1:30 o'clock and will continue until the last curtain at 11:30. For the convenience of Farmers' Fair visitors, they are more centralized this year than previously. The departments of Entomology, Horticulture, Poultry, Agronomy, Rural Economics, Soils, and Animal Pathology will display their exhibits on the first floor of the Student Activities building.

The Agricultural Engineering department are using their own building and will have an actual field demonstration of different types of machinery in the nearby field. They will also have an auto show in the basement.

The home economics exhibit, which includes the departments of Design, Foods, and Dietetics, Textiles, and Institutional Management will have their displays in the home economics building. The Institutional Management department is converting the cafeteria into a Chinese Tea Room, known as Peek Inn and plan to serve Chinese and American dishes from 4:00 to 7:00.

The Chemistry department is giving their exhibit and demonstrations in Experiment Station Hall where various typical experiments performed by the freshmen class will be set up.

The Child Care division of the home economics department are showing a movie during the demonstration period. Their nursery room and equipment will be on display in their room in the Agricultural Engineering building.

Honorable mention will be given to the three best exhibits. It is not the purpose of the Farmers' Fair Board, in making this decision, to say that certain committees have done better than others, but to stimulate interest for more efforts in putting up a good exhibit. The judges are as follows: George Jackson, of the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture; T. A. Leadley, managing editor of the Nebraska Farmer; Rose Schonka, supervisor of the home economics work in the Lincoln schools; and Mary Ellen Brown, head of the home demonstration work in the Extension department. The judges will start scoring the work at 1:30 p. m.

Home Economics Students Present "The Quest" At The Farmers' Fair

By Kate Goldstein

"The Quest," an allegorical dramatization depicting the enrichment of life that a home economics course offers to those who choose to take home economics, will be presented by the girls of the home economics department for the ninth annual Farmers' Fair tomorrow. It will be presented at 2:30 and at 6:30 in front of Davison's Fountain which is between the Home Economics building and Agricultural Hall.

With color and harmony as its underlying theme, the laws, the harmony, and the psychology of color will be brought out in the costumes and their composition. Life, the central figure, journeys with Progress

Although trials annoy Life, Ugliness is banished, Drudgery is overcome by Science and Inventions, and Malnutrition, the leader of Diseases, Discontent and Poverty, is controlled. Happiness comes with Beauty, Inventions, and Science to stay with Life, which played by Viola Hall of Bethany. It was written by Miss Edna Benson, professor of Home Economics of the University of Nebraska.

University Women May Attend Midnight Show

Dean Amanda Heppner has issued special permission to all University women to attend the midnight performance held at the Lincoln theater this evening for the benefit of the flood sufferers. Women must be in by 2:30.

The official Red Cross benefit show, to secure funds for relief of the flood sufferers, is at the Lincoln theater tonight, at a special midnight show beginning at 11:30. All the proceeds will go 100 per cent to the Red Cross, as all services are being donated.

At the Red Cross benefit show, held last fall, $963.50 was secured and the show was not as pretentious affair as is being offered at this performance. Gale Grubb, better known as "Gloomy Gus," of KFAB radio fame, is to be master of ceremonies.

A few of the numbers now lined up include: The Hotel Cornhusker orchestra, Clyde Davis directing, assisted by Harriet Cruise Kemmer, soprano; Chuck Wiles, playing xylophone and vibraphone; Leo Beck and his band; Lincoln theater orchestra, A. L. Bonner, conducting; Flavia Waters offering a Black Bottom exhibition; The Revelers Orchestra and entertainers with Gloomy and Eddie doing the real harmony stuff. The feature radio artists of radio station KFAB will also be present and provide the audience with their varied line of entertainment.

UNIVERSITY BAND TO HEAD FAIR PARADE

Fourteen Floats Will Make Up Procession Which Will Depict The Progress of Nebraska

The University band, under the leadership of Prof. Herbert Quick, will lead the 1927 parade. "The Pageant of Progress," so-called because the floats are designed to depict the central idea—Nebraska's progress, is well under construction, and two hundred students are doing their best to complete their floats for the "Big Parade." The parade will begin at 11:30 tomorrow morning, starting at the Ag campus.

Following is a list of the floats: In commemoration of the sixtieth anniversary of the admission of Nebraska to the Union, it is fitting that this Year's Fair parade depict some of the high points of the development of our state. The parade will be made up of 14 floats all constructed and designed to bring out these interesting events. Nebraska will be reviewed on the day of the Fair in the parade. Its progress from the time of the early Indians, shown in the first float. (Continued on Page Two.)

"Highland Bill," Pure Bred West Highland Steer, At Farmers' Fair

Highland Bill, the only pure bred West Highland steer in Nebraska, will be shown in the big livestock show and also in the livestock parade

PLAY WILL OPEN FINE ARTS WEEK

Tickets for Cyrano de Bergerac May Still Be Obtained; Shown Last Night

CARNIVAL ON SATURDAY

The drama "Cyrano de Bergerac" written by Rostand, is being given at the Temple theater at 2:30 and 8:20 o'clock today. It is produced entirely by the Dramatic club under the direction of Leon Connell. The tickets for the drama may still be secured for 50c.

Most of the program for "Fine Arts Week" has been of a more serious nature. But the carnival on Saturday will be different. It will be held in Morrill Hall on the second and third floors. All are invited to come and see the school of Fine Arts in their new quarters, free of charge.

A jazz orchestra will furnish music in Gallery A all evening for dancing. In Gallery 3 will be the booths selling all the things that go with a carnival, candy, popcorn, ice cream cones, fortune telling booths, hamburger, pink lemonade, peanuts, confetti, serpentine, balloons, and horns. These booths will be decorated in a manner that will please the artistic tastes of all.

Dancing acts will be given at various times by Hazel Snavely and others.

The play "In 1999" will be produced by the following cast: Herbert Yenne—Rolls. Elizabeth Tracy—Jean. Viola Loosbrock—Florence. The play tells the way things will be in 1999 if the social conditions continue going as they now are. The husband will stay in the home and do the sewing, taking care of the (Continued on Page Two.)

PAXSON TALKS THIS MORNING

Wisconsin Historian and Educator Will Speak at University Convocation Today

AUTHOR OF TEXT BOOKS

Dr. Frederick L. Paxson, well known historian and professor in the history department at the University of Wisconsin, will speak at convocation this morning at 11 o'clock in the Temple on "United States in the Battle of 1918."

Dr. Paxson will be the principal speaker at the annual State History Teachers' association meetings which will be held today and tomorrow at the University. He will speak on "The Bend of the Missouri" Friday evening at a subscription dinner to be held at the University Club, and on "The Perils of the Historian" at a business meeting in Social Science 201 at 9:30 Saturday morning. Both of these sessions will be open to all who are interested.

Was Active During War

Two books by Mr. Paxson are being used as text books in the University of Nebraska, which are "Recent History of the United States" and "A History of the American Frontier." He has been connected with the University of Wisconsin and has achieved a national reputation by his books and articles on recent and western history of America. During the World War he was a Major, historical branch, General Staff and had much to do with the compilation of the well known War Cyclopaedia and other Red, White, and Blue books.

JAKE IMIG ELECTED FOOTBALL MANAGER

Bernard Spencer and Marshal Keyes Chosen Junior Managers From Sophomore Aspirants

At a meeting of the Athletic Board yesterday afternoon, Jake Imig, '28, Seward, was chosen senior football manager for next year, and Bernard Spencer, '29, Talmage, and Marshal Keyes, '29, Holbrook, were elected junior managers. The senior manager will receive his letter and sweater in football at the close of the season next year.

Each major sport has its managerial system governed by the Athletic Board. At the opening of the season of the sport, a call is issued for sophomore candidates, who compete for the positions of junior managers in that sport the following year. The two junior managers are selected from the group of sophomore candidates soon after the close of the season.

The senior manager is selected by the Athletic Board from the two junior managers. The other junior manager is the alternate to the senior manager the following year, and in case the senior manager is disqualified, he becomes manager.

It is the duty of the senior manager to assist the coach of the sport in every way. He also has duties of his own, such as keeping attendance at practice of all candidates for the team, keeping an accurate record of all games in his sport, providing entertainment for visiting teams, and acting as general over-seer.

MAY BREAKFAST TO BE HELD ON SUNDAY

New Y. W. C. A. Staffs Will Be Introduced Then; Tickets on Sale in Ellen Smith Hall

The Y. W. C. A. May Morning breakfast at which the members of the staffs for 1927-28 will be introduced is to be held Sunday morning at 8 o'clock at Ellen Smith Hall. Tickets are thirty-five cents and are on sale at Miss Erma Appleby's office until Friday noon. The breakfast will close promptly at 9:30 to avoid conflict with other Sunday events.

Miss Erma Appleby, Y. W. C. A. secretary and Mrs. John P. Conning will speak. Cyrena Smith, retiring president of the organization, will lead the devotions; there will be group singing between courses.

The members of the staffs as recently announced by the chairman are as follows: Agricultural College Y. W. C. A.: Ruth Davis, president; Georgia Probert, Elizabeth Kamsay, Jessie Baldwin, Marjorie Brinton, Loverton, Mary Elizabeth Ball, Geraldine Louise Gunning, Elizabeth Ball, Geraldine Hawley, Mildred Unland, Margaret Fleming and Dorothy McCoy.

Office and Rooms: Audrey Deales, chairman; Dorothy Shiley, Grace Elizabeth Evans, Doris Segur, Dorothy Uptgrove, Betty Jones, Lucille Nash, Florence Zinner, Jessine Kent, Evelyn Collins and Evelyn Fralim. Finance: Hazel Sutton, chairman; Esther Garner, Gretchen Standeven, Vera Coupe, Evelyn Tate, Bernice Walsh, Berrett.

IN CHARGE OF FAIR

The work of the Farmers' Fair Board has been to supervise the entire presentation of this year's fair. This board was selected last spring from the junior class.

1000 TO ATTEND GREEK BANQUET

Committee Expects Largest Attendance for Event of Its Kind Here

PLAQUES TO BE GIVEN

Especially fine entertainment has been secured for the Interfraternity banquet May 4, according to members of the committee.

Wilbur Chenoweth, organist at the Lincoln theater and a pianist of considerable prominence, will present a two-piano act with Harold Turner, pianist for the Lincoln theater symphony orchestra. Turner is also well known and is one of the most accomplished pianists in the city.

Tickets for the banquet will be called in not later than Friday noon by Merle S. Jones, member of the committee in charge of tickets. Each fraternity has a special table at the banquet and it will be left up to the fraternities to fill them. The general plan is to put the cost of tickets on the house bills and issue a ticket to each member. Many of the fraternities have followed this procedure to guarantee 100 percent attendance.

Selection of the speaker has not been made, but the committee is seeking a man of national prominence; it is very likely that he will accept. The program will be short, according to Wendell Cameron, general chairman, and should end by 7:30.

Presentation of plaques to fraternities leading in scholarship will be one of the features of the evening. These will be presented by Prof. E. F. Schramm, chairman of the Interfraternity Council, who will preside. From early indications, committee members believe, the attendance should be about 1,000—the largest ever to attend this affair. Fraternities are showing an unusual interest, it is reported.

Annual Band Banquet Is Held Last Night

The R. O. T. C. band's annual banquet was held last night at the Grand Hotel at 6 o'clock. The banquet, which was sponsored by Alpha chapter of Gamma Lambda, men's national honorary band fraternity, has been a traditional affair in the band for a number of years; it is usually held every year shortly after the band resumes its spring drill.

Donald Campbell, president of Alpha chapter of Gamma Lambda, was master of ceremonies. Talks were given by Prof. William T. Quick, director of the band, Reuben Maaske, who has held the office of drum-major during the past year, and Charles Calhoun. Mr. Quick sketched the history of the band since he came to the University, told of the progress the organization has made, and the wide recognition it has gained in recent years.

The band made the football trip to Seattle with the team last fall, and is already planning on being able to travel to Pittsburgh when the Cornhuskers play there next year. The organization has about sixty-five men now, and is looking forward to an even larger membership next semester.

Co. G Wins First In Regimental Review

Company "G" was the winner in the regimental review held last night on the drill field at 5:00 P. M. The winning platoons were; Co. "G", First platoon and Co. "C", Second platoon. The winners were picked from the reviewing stand. This is the second regimental parade held this week to get the regiment in shape for its annual inspection, May 14 and 16.

Fair Management Invites All University Members

To the members of the faculty, the Board of Regents, and the student body of the University of Nebraska, the management of the Ninth Annual Farmers' Fair extends a most cordial welcome tomorrow afternoon and evening.

REGENT SPEAKS AT CONVOCATION

J. R. Webster, Omaha Attorney, Tells Experiences During His Schooling

WARNS FUTURE TEACHERS

"I think we must have obedience, we must teach our students to obey rules or our democracy will go down to anarchy and ruin," stated Regent J. R. Webster, Omaha attorney and a member of the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska, when he addressed a crowded house of students at a convocation yesterday morning in the Temple.

The convocation was enthusiastically started out with a "pep" rally. The audience sang University songs which were led by Dr. C. C. Weideman, instructor of principles of education.

Tells University Experiences

"It took me thirty-nine years to get through the university," the speaker stated shortly after he had been introduced by Mr. W. E. Sealock, dean of Teachers College. Mr. Webster had been in the university of Michigan only six months when he was granted a leave of absence and he went home to his mother who was ill. "I saved her life," he stated, "and that was more important than school." Mr. Webster has since been awarded the Bachelor of Arts degree from Michigan University, although he did not complete his work there.

"How many of you have the question in your mind of how much money you are going to get when you finish your course and start teaching school?" A few hands were raised in response to the speaker's question, but a listener could hear many of the students utter a decided "no." "The highest salary received by the best primitive teacher after years of experience was $300 and the average wage was only $150."

Primitive Schooling

"In primitive schools the teachers took the place of the parents and they seemed to think that licking and learning went together," the speaker said, "and I got more lickings than all the rest of the school put together. The studious children were placed in the back of the room on those days and I was always in the very front seat."

"In the school which he attended there was also a boy of excellent behaviour and one day the teacher moved this model boy up to the seat with Mr. Webster.

"I was sort of disgusted to have that goody, goody boy beside me," Mr. Webster said, "and in side of fifteen minutes we both got a licking. I sat and giggled to myself but that poor boy sobbed and sobbed."

The Home Economics Exhibits will Farmers' Fair is put on by the students of the College of Agriculture and is attracting national attention as being one of the biggest student stunts in America. The work is directed by a board of senior students in the college who are: Leonard Wilson, Lincoln, manager; Rufus Moore, Schuyler, treasurer; Florence Brinton, Lincoln, secretary; Don Ray, Wayne; Gladys Martin, Pawnee City; and Krissie Kingsley, Seward. They are assisted by a junior board made (Continued on Page Three.)

Air Glider Is A Feature of Farmers' Fair

An air-glider, new and unique in its operation, will make its first appearance in Lincoln on the midway at the Ninth Annual Farmers' Fair, Saturday, April 30. This air-glider, which was secured from the management of a local amusement park, will provide many thrills as it something entirely different from any ride that has ever been in Lincoln. The Midway opens at 1:30 p. m.

Millers' ponies have been secured, and will be on hand to furnish entertainment for the kiddies.

The 1927 Snorpheim will present as their feature attraction a Friday afternoon program in a small country school. The Snorpheim is composed of men students in Ag College who have yielded to the call of the footlights. Marion Stone, Nehawka, and Clifford Webster, Dalton, will present a very clever funny harp and harmonica duet. Besides this there will be recitations, song, and dance that will please the most fastidious.

Other members of the Snorpheim are: Harold Frost, Plainville; Henry Hild, Murray; Howard Clark, Chappell; Glenn Hedlund, Chappell; George Garrison, Union; and Howard Hardy, Fairbury.

The 1927 Follies are preparing various steps in both old fashioned and modern dancing. Much work is being done in costume designing that will aid much in the presentation of the acts. Members of this year's Follies are: Regina McDermott, Evelyn Lunner, Irene Welch, Marian Rose, Dorothy McCoy, Helen Christensen, Evelyn Mansfield, Leona Pate, Margaret Holling, Viola Hall, Lucille Redell, Corring MacPrang, Eleanor Berreson.

Snorpheim and Follies doors open at 4:00 p. m.
