Business Manager

MENTZER IS SELECTED
Mentzer to be Managing Editor; Coats, Thomas Are
On Business Staff

Archibald R. Eddy, '29, Lincoln, was elected editor of the University of Nebraska 1928 Cornhusker by the student publication board Thursday afternoon. The Cornhusker is the yearbook published annually by the students. W. F. Jones, '27, McCook, was editor of this year's book and Eddy was managing editor.

William O. Mentzer, jr., '29, Cheyenne, Wyo., was selected to be managing editor of the book next year. He was an assistant managing editor this year.

To be business manager of the Cornhusker next year the board elected Charles O. Bruce, jr., '29, Lincoln. He was an assistant business manager this year and is a member of the student council. Two assistant business managers, Elmer Coats, '30, North Platte, and Bruce H. Thomas, '28, Mound City, Mo., were appointed.

Announcement of the board meeting to make appointments to the A-gwan and the Daily Nebraskan will be made later.

FARM LOAN COURSE IS OFFERED TODAY

Instruction for Inspectors to Be Held Today and Saturday; Will Close with Banquet

A two-day short course for farm loan inspectors sponsored by the University of Nebraska and the Nebraska Mortgage Bankers association will be held Friday and Saturday at the university. While the course is primarily to aid inspectors in correctly evaluating farm properties in Nebraska, it is open to all who care to attend, according to Dr. G. E. Condra, director of the conservation and survey division of the university, who is in charge of the course. Over 75 attended a similar course last year.

Various phases of land evaluation, as determined by study of soil, production, and farm management, will be presented by Dr. Condra and professors of agronomy, botany, and rural economics. The sessions will close with a banquet at the college of agriculture Saturday evening. This dinner is the only part of the course for which any charge is to be made, Dr. Condra says.

Following is the complete program for the two days:

Friday, May 20
9:30 a. m., room 110, Nebraska hall, city campus.
"Soil Forming Materials of Nebraska," Dr. G. E. Condra, director, conservation and survey division of the University of Nebraska.
"Leading Soils of Southeastern Nebraska," F. A. Hayes of the United States bureau of soils.
"Land Values as Evidenced by Native Vegetation," Dr. J. E. Weaver of the department of botany.
Noon: luncheon at Lincoln chamber of commerce, Frank C. Tomson presiding.
2:00 p. m., Nebraska hall, city campus.
"Influences of Obnoxious Weeds on Land Values," Prof. P. H. Stewart, department of agronomy.
"Evidences of Soil Depletion," Prof. J. C. Russell, department of agronomy.
7:00 p. m., Nebraska hall, city campus.
"Land Appraisal Problems Confronting Us," Discussion conducted by W. A. Kelly, engineer appraiser, Federal Land Bank, Omaha.

Saturday, May 21
8:30 a. m., Field trip for demonstration. Dr. G. E. Condra in charge; Professors Durr, Filley, Keim, and Russell participating.
Noon, luncheon at Lincoln chamber of commerce.
2:00 p. m., Farm values determined by income.
"Relations of Farm Management" (Continued on Page Four.)

R.O.T.C. Men Needed to Usher at Meet Saturday

Twenty R. O. T. C. students in uniform are needed to usher at the finals of the Missouri Valley meet to be held here Saturday. Students wishing to usher must report to the Student Activities office before Friday.
Further directions will be given to those who report at the Activities office.

Dramatic Students Will Spend Summer With Chautauquas

Several of the students of the Dramatic department are going to spend their summer playing with chautauquas.
Harold Sumption shall be with the Associated Chautauqua, playing Pa Robinson in "Apple Sauce."
Cleo Slagle has contracted to play in an orchestra for the Associated.
Martha Bruning and Erva MacFarlane are to take part in a dance.
Jack Rank is playing a part with the Wismer players who are also with the Associated Chautauqua.

MUNGER SPEAKS AT CONVOCATION

English Court System Is Topic
Of District Judge in Talk
To Law Students

BRITISH LAW IS SPEEDY

Wish the main room of the Law College nearly filled to its capacity with interested students, Judge T. C. Munger, of the United States District Court, praised the English court system where justice is speedy and stable. He explained to the interested students why it is that the English system of law and courts is so highly respected and held in such esteem by the citizens of England and foreign countries in his convocation talk given at 10 o'clock Thursday morning on "Present Practices in the English Courts."

Why respect for their laws, courts, and representatives of justice is "ingrained" in the minds and hearts of the English people, was shown by Judge Munger as due to the manner in which the people look on their courts and representatives and in the manner of reverence in which they treat them.

Judges are not "Hard Boiled" In England, explained the speaker, the typical "hard boiled" American judge is not found. The judges of England are very polite, and the air of dignity surrounding them, their picturesque robes and wigs, create an atmosphere of reserve that is not easy to break through. Yet, every consideration is offered the defendant and the witness, examination by the lawyers is carried on in a very polite manner; lawyers when questioning witnesses are required to stand with the witness, and when the questioning is through, the witness is graciously thanked for his services. The judge is given the actual control of the case from the beginning, Mr. Munger told his audience. This is not the way in which it is handled in this country where the judge takes little part in the actual trying of the defendant, but merely judges the case and pronounces a sentence after the verdict is rendered by the jury. The English judges do not take advantage of this right, nor do they become despotic in their power.

Court Rooms are More Dignified "There is very little wit or humor in the English Courts," said Judge Munger, "but there is an attitude of good temper and courtesy that prevails in their court rooms that is more dignified and tends much more to respect than the other." Voices are never raised to a high pitch, neither does the argumentation become boisterous; all talking is carried on in a low pitched voice and in a conversational manner. When the voice is raised beyond normal, it becomes impossible to hear the speaker due to the manner in which their court rooms are constructed, as the echoes issuing from the domed ceiling and the walls makes the speakers (Continued on Page Four.)

'Greatest and Closest Valley Meet In History', is Schulte's Opinion

By V. J. Fitts
"The Missouri Valley track and field championships will be the greatest and closest in the history of the conference," said Coach Henry F. Schulte, Nebraska track mentor, rallying his forces for the final meets of the outdoor season.
"Oklahoma and Iowa State and Kansas are all going to be in the running, with the Sooners, of course, standing the best chance of winning," the Husker coach continued, as he scratched his head. What was most important, however, was the "Indian's" idea of how his own team was going to fare in the annual meet, and after much hesitation he presented his point of view, and in none too enthusiastic manner.
"This has been an off year in Nebraska for track," he pointed out, "with injuries trailing us all the way from the start until the present time. Then the bad weather held us back."
Three or Four Teams on Par "There are three or four teams in the Valley this year who stand about on par, and some had luck for 1927 and a lucky break for another will win or lose the meet for one or the other. That always happens in a close meet."
"We miss the great array of stars we had last season, but if we can manage to take enough seconds, thirds, and fourth places perhaps we can go through and retain the championship. If things go against us we may be forced to be content with a third, or maybe worse." But here Coach Schulte stopped. For the rest of a Nebraska track team taking worse than a second in a Missouri Valley classic seemed absurd even in his own pessimistic mind.
As a matter of fact, since Nebraska has been entering the meet with Schulte guiding the destinies of the team, there have been but two years that the Cornhuskers failed to collect a championship. It has been here seven years now. During that time only once has a Nebraska cinder crew bowed to a Valley opponent in a dual meet, but Coach Schulte doesn't think about these things when he is "doping" the probable outcome of a championship.

OUT FOR A RECORD

FRANK WIRSIG, Pole Vault

Wirsig now holds the Missouri Valley pole vault record at 12 feet 9-8 inches. He will be trying Saturday for a new record against stiffer competition than last year when he was forced to better the old Valley record to win. Saturday's Missouri Valley meet will be Wirsig's last collegiate competition for Nebraska.

STUDENT NEWSPAPER SERVICE PROPOSED

United Feature Syndicate Suggests International Idea; Students Urged to Contribute
Student are urged to take advantage of the opportunity to write which is afforded by the United Feature Syndicate of New York, an organization owned and operated by the United Press Associations, which proposes an International Newspaper Service by student writers here and abroad. Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalistic honorary, has received a communication concerning the proposal and is sponsoring it on this campus.

The purpose of this service is to give the younger generation a chance to express its attitude toward its world. Contributors on the campus will leave their contributions with Isabel O'Halloran in the News Service department of the school of Journalism. As this is to be a youthful undertaking exclusively, these articles will be judged by a board of students who will decide which ones merit publication, these to be sent to the syndicate. This is an especially good time of year to send in contributions because, due to the multitude of things which always crowd into the last few weeks of the school year, few articles are being handed in.

Only material which is good newspaper copy and is written on a subject of general interest will be accepted. Cartoons which tell a story or make a point are just as useful as articles and are solicited. Both articles and cartoons will be paid for, one third of the gross proceeds from the sale of the service to go to the student writers, being divided equally between the four or five contributors, whose articles have been accepted for publication, one third to defray editorial costs, and the syndicate to the receive the remaining third.

COLLEGIATE PLAYERS NAME NEW MEMBERS

Eleven Students are Elected to Honorary Dramatic Group;
Yenne is President
National Collegiate Players, honorary dramatic fraternity, made an announcement last night of the following new members:
Helen Aach, Lincoln; Joyce Adair, Sioux City, Ia.; Rose Cecil, Gering; Elizabeth Coolidge, Lead, So. Dak.; Nancy Forsman, Rapid City, So. Dak.; Eric Lungren, Omaha; Werner Mall, Clay Center, Kansas; Paul Pence, Wauwata; Cecil Schmitt, Madison; Elizabeth Tracy, Lincoln; Esther Zinicker, David City.
The National Collegiate Players was organized to affiliate closely with college groups which are working for the betterment of the drama in their own institutions and in America, to raise dramatic taste and standards, and to further dramatic activities.
Herbert Yenne is president of the Nebraska chapter which was organized in 1924; Viola Lousbrock, secretary, and Gladys Burling, treasurer. The organization includes Thad Cone, Harold Felton, Ralph Ireland, Ray Ramsay, Jack Rank, Edward Taylor, and Harold Sumption.
Miss H. Alice Howell and Prof. Paul H. Grumman are honorary members. Hart Jenks, a member and a graduate of Nebraska in 1924, is now playing with Walter Hampton on Broadway.

Students Open Campaign for Stadium in 1922

$90,000 Was Students' Share
In Raising Funds for New Memorial Structure

NEBRASKA WINS THREE VALLEY CHAMPIONSHIPS

XX
(Editor's Note)
This is the twentieth chapter of a historical resume of Nebraska athletics which has been compiled by a member of The Daily Nebraskan sports staff. A chapter of this account will appear in each issue of The Daily Nebraskan for the remainder of the school year.
By Jack Elliott
In the autumn of 1922 about one hundred Nebraska students working as a committee secured the cooperation of the student body to raise a sum of $90,000 as the students' share for the new Memorial stadium. With the call for pledges, the entire Nebraska student body, faculty, and alumni heard the call and advanced the necessary amount to build a fitting tribute to Nebraska's fallen heroes.
Coach Fred Dawson had been at Nebraska but two years and during those two years had turned out two of the best football teams Nebraska had ever seen and ranked as among the best in the country. The Athletic board made Dawson director of athletics in 1922. With the coming of Coach Dawson to the Husker school in the autumn of 1921 and Coach Schulte as head track coach and coach of linemen, Nebraska's coaching staff was considered the best in the Missouri Valley conference. Assisting these two coaches were Clarence Swanson, Owen Frank, Bill Day, and Farley Young.
New System Instituted
A new system was inaugurated at Nebraska this year, and that was the position of student managers to the athletic teams. A senior member was chosen from the junior managers and was awarded a letter at the end of the season. He was selected by the athletic board at the closing of each sport season.
Nebraska defeated every football team in the valley during the season of 1922 and lost but one game outside the conference and that to Syracuse by the score of 9 to 6. The decisive victory of the season and one of the greatest battles of the year was the Thanksgiving day game when Nebraska downed the Notre Dame eleven 14 to 6. This closed the season of seven victories and one defeat for Coach Dawson's team.
Dawson has Championship Team
For the second consecutive year Nebraska was awarded the championship of the Missouri Valley conference, and for the second consecutive year Coach Dawson had turned out a championship team. Although the Drake team went through the season without a defeat by a Valley team, football critics of the conference awarded the title to the Cornhusker eleven.

VALLEY TRACK STARS GATHER FOR ANNUAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

230 Athletes to Compete for Individual and School Honors;
Dopsters Place Oklahoma, Kansas University
And Nebraska as Favorites in Meet
PRELIMINARIES WILL BE HELD THIS AFTERNOON
Martin Will Run Exhibition Half-Mile in Attempt to Lower
World Record; Nine Marks Are in Danger of Being
Bettered; Close Races Predicted

By Munro Kezer
With four schools conceded above par chances of copping the title, chances for nine records to fall, and the track in fine condition, everything is in readiness for the opening of the twentieth annual Missouri Valley track and field championships in Nebraska Memorial Stadium at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Preliminaries in the sprints, middle distances, hurdles, and all field events will be held this afternoon. Finals in all events will be held Saturday afternoon starting at 2 o'clock. The weather man predicts showers for today but track fans are praying for the beautiful weather that has been so sadly lacking all spring.

VALLEY CHAMP

RAY CONGER, Middle Distances

Conger will take his last try for new valley records in the half-mile and mile at the stadium Saturday. The Iowa State distance star who has easily walked off with the middle distance runs in valley competition for several years same within 8-10 of a second of breaking the half mile record last year. He will be faced by stiff competition in Johnson of Nebraska, Sides of Oklahoma, and Epstein of Missouri.

HOUCK DISCUSSES FORENSIC ACTIVITIES

National President of Delta Sigma
Rho Explains Expansion Policy
Is on Chapter Tour
"Intercollegiate forensic activities are in the heyday of their existence," stated Stanley B. Houck, Minneapolis, national president of Delta Sigma Rho, intercollegiate forensic society, before the Nebraska chapter at a luncheon at the Grand Hotel, Thursday noon.
Mr. Houck explained the expansion and membership policies of Delta Sigma Rho. He pointed out that Delta Sigma Rho was one of the few organizations without any dead chapters. The first chapter was organized in 1906, the membership now totalling 63, located in the outstanding colleges and universities of the country.
In the afternoon Mr. Houck conferred with Professor White on national policies and on The Gavel Delta Sigma Rho publication, of which Professor White is now the editor.
Mr. Houck is visiting several of the chapters of the debate fraternity and on his tour he will supervise the installation of several far-western chapters. He left early last night.

W.A.A. to Vote Today on Scholarship Amendment

The Women's Athletic Association will vote on the scholarship amendment to their constitution from nine o'clock to four o'clock today. The W. A. A. store in the west hallway of the armory will be the voting place.
The amendment as recommended by the committee is to change the scholarship requirement for entrance into the Association from an average of 80 in fifteen hours to an average of 80 in twelve hours. All members are requested to take advantage of their voting privilege.

Alpha Kappa Psi Choses Officers for Next Year

Ralph S. Wagner, '28, Ithaca, was elected president of Alpha Kappa Psi, national honorary business administration fraternity, at the regular election of the fraternity, Tuesday evening in the Commercial club rooms.
Other officers elected for next year were: Enos Heller, '28, Hebron, vice-president; Harold Taylor, '29, Ord, secretary; Eldred Larson, '29, Oakland, treasurer; Edmund Pearson, '29, Davenport, master of rituals; Walter Siebolds, '28, Deshler, warden; and Harold Wirsig, '28, Sergeant, chaplain.

Schulte Voices Opinion Of Valley Meet Results

"It'll be Kansas or Oklahoma," he replied.
Despite the fact that the Cornhusker team is not as strong as last year's aggregation and that it has been handicapped by injuries and bad weather, fear of Coach Schulte is so deep-set in the minds of Valley coaches that they are all picking Nebraska as favorites to win.

VALLEY CHAMP

ALVA MARTIN, Middle Distances

Alva Martin, the "flying parson" from Otoe and former Northwestern star, will run an exhibition half-mile at the meet Saturday against Kimport, former Kansas Aggies star. Martin will attempt to set a new world's record, having approached world's record time on several occasions. He ran a sensational race on a slow, wet track at Chicago last year in the national collegiates which was timed in under world's record time. A re-measurement of the track showed it slightly short and spoiled his chance of setting up a new half-mile mark at the time.
Coach Henry F. Schulte's Cornhuskers are set to put up their best exhibition of the season in an attempt to retain the outdoor championship and regain undisputed track supremacy of the Valley, lost when they were nosed out at the Valley indoor meet by Oklahoma.

Athletic Tickets May Be Redeemed for Meet

According to John K. Selleck, manager for student activities, student athletic tickets will be redeemable for fifty cents on any ticket to the Missouri Valley track meet to be held in the Nebraska Memorial stadium Friday and Saturday, May 20 and 21.
Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock the preliminaries will be held and an admission of fifty cents will be charged. Saturday afternoon the meet will be held beginning at 2 o'clock. For the events held Saturday general admission will be one dollar and one dollar and a half will be charged for reserved seats.
Rebate on the student tickets to the meet will be given if the tickets are presented at Mr. Selleck's office in the Coliseum between now and Friday.
