VARIOUS CHANGES MADE

Classic Department Has New Staff; Tefft Comes To Law College

Appointment of Dr. T. J. Thompson as dean of student affairs, a post taking the place of the position of dean of men, held last year by Prof. G. R. Doctor Thompson comes to the dean's office from the chemistry department. He has been active in administrative work on the campus for several years, having been chairman of the assignment committee and of the student publications board.

Resignations of Professors Rice and Harwood of the Classics department last spring resulted in practically a new department this year. Clarence G. Lowe has been appointed associate professor of classics and acting chairman of the department. C. A. Forbes has been appointed an instructor replacing Mr. Harwood.

There were 20 lettermen on the field for practice last night and around these men, who hold the edge of experience in battle, Coach Bearg and his staff will quickly mould the Cornhusker eleven to battle the Iowa State Cyclones at Lincoln on October 1. R.O.T.C. REGAINS BLUE STAR RATE

New High Point Total Scored With a 90.73 Out of A Possible 100

ALL FAVORABLE REPORTS

Nebraska's Cadet Corp regained the blue star rating granted by the War Department at the annual inspection held last May. In addition a new high point total was scored, the cadets obtaining 90.73 marks out of a possible hundred.

Colonel F. F. Jewett, commenting on the honor, believed it well earned as the men worked wholeheartedly and the cadet officers spent many hours of over-time drilling the companies.

Returning Greeks Find Many New Homes Waiting for them

Many sororities and fraternities have already occupied their new homes which have been erected since last spring. The new houses have greatly added to the appearance of the fraternity district, new ideas in architecture having been developed. The general idea of segregating the fraternities has been followed, sororities being situated on the east side of Sixteenth street and on the west side between R and S street; and the fraternities on the west side of Sixteenth between S street and Vine and also on R street.

The new homes include Gamma Phi Beta, Delta Zeta, Alpha Phi and Sigma Nu, which is not yet completed. Delta Chi is rapidly completing the rebuilding of an old mansion on 1421 H street. The Alpha Delta Phi has occupied the old Alpha Phi house which has undergone a painting and several other improvements. The Theta Phi Alphas are now situated in the old Gamma Phi Beta residence. The Phi Omega Psi has moved into the home formerly occupied by the Alpha Sigma Phi who are now residing in the former Phi Alpha Delta house. The Alpha Sigma Phi, however, will soon start building on a lot across the street south from their present location.

The homes all form the same general appearance with the exception of the Delta Zeta house, which is a combination of grey stone and stucco at half timber. The Sigma Nu house will also be of different style, typifying the Truscan architecture. The interior of the new homes follow practically the same arrangement with the dining room and chapter room on the second floor. Dormitories will also characterize the homes.

Station A Transferred To the Temple Building

A change of considerable interest to Nebraska students this summer was the transferring of the Station A postoffice from the College Book store to its new location in the southwest corner of the Temple building. The new quarters are roomy, and being directly adjacent to the campus, will give students better service this year than formerly.

Included in the equipment of the new office is a writing desk, two windows to accommodate the student trade.

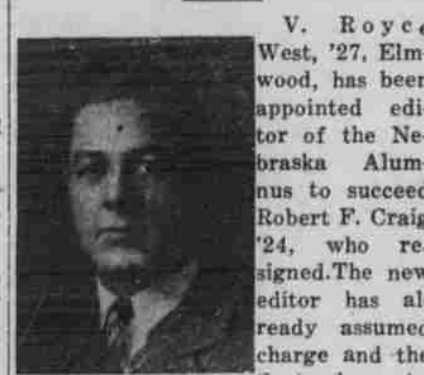

Cornhusker Cheering Section to be Formed

A real Cornhusker cheering section—for years the hope of those promoting Nebraska spirit—will be a reality this season. The clever stunts, systematic drills, and distinguishing ensignia planned for this section promises to make it the outstanding, coveted, and enjoyable group in the stadium.

Tickets for this section, which have been limited to a stated number of men, will be sold in advance of the other student tickets to a group selected according to a plan which will be stated in detail in the next issue of the Daily Nebraskan.

V. Royce West, '27, Elmwood, has been appointed editor of the Nebraska Alumnus to succeed Robert F. Craig, '24, who resigned. The new editor has already assumed charge and the September issue has been published under his supervision.

One of the features of the new Alumnus is a frontispiece with pictures of the new student houses. The feature article is "Arts Course Leads to A. B. With Distinction," written by C. H. Oldfather. Announcements of changes in the university faculty are contained in another section. Gregg McBride, well-known sports writer has written a football forecast and another story features "Chief" Elkins, victory in the National Decathlon.

The Book Shelf is a review of the new books published by Nebraska authors. In addition are the usual departments of alumni notes, notices of births, deaths and marriages.

Roll-Collar Uniforms Replace Stiff Collar Uniforms for R.O.T.C. Men

Roll-collar uniforms are this year destined to replace the tall, stiff collar uniform worn heretofore by both attaches and cadets of the R. O. T. C. A white shirt collar and black tie will complete the new style uniform. Frank A. Kidwell, storekeeper for the military department, has had 1,600 coats retailored so the stiff collars are transformed into roll collars. "A more comfortable uniform" is the first reason for the change, but now that it has been done military officers believe the appearance of a university company will be improved 50 per cent.

Changes have also been made in the student officer's uniforms. These will be made in regulation army color, olive drab, instead of blue as heretofore.

Three new military instructors have been appointed to Nebraska's camp at Fort Leavenworth.

Engineering Freshmen Visit Two Campuses

Places of interest, on both the downtown and agricultural campuses, were visited last Wednesday, by two hundred and fifty freshmen students in the College of Engineering.

Six large buses were chartered by the sight seeing party, to transport them from the city campus to the farm. Lunch was served the students at the agricultural college student activities building, during their visit there.
