

University Cafeteria Serves From Nine to Ten Hundred Persons Daily

"Twenty-two and eight-tenth cents is the average price spent for a meal," declared Mrs. Louise S. Vining, manager of the Temple Cafeteria of the University of Nebraska. "Professors eat more than students, and take a longer time to make their choice of foods. In some cases, due to limited incomes, students tend to eat so little as to be undernourished. This is more particularly true of girls."

This series of somewhat startling facts were delivered during a few moments of interview granted by this extremely busy lady who has been in the service of the university for fourteen years. The first nine of these years were spent at the College of Agriculture, where she instituted the cafeteria there, and the last five have been spent at the campus cafeteria.

Upon being asked, Mrs. Vining drew up the following menu as a suggestion for a student on a limited income:

Meat substitute (macaroni or rice)	$.08
Bread and butter	.03
Milk	.05
Ice cream	.05
Total	$.21

She added that in her opinion the bread and butter, milk, and ice cream were the most nourishing, as well as, relatively cheap foods.

Mr. Hall, a local hardware man and an old friend of Mrs. Vining, interrupted at about this point to say that as they were both getting old now he would like to hand a "bouquet" by saying that she was the "most lovable, most placid, and wittiest" woman that he ever knew.

"The cafeteria serves from nine to ten hundred persons daily and during the summer term serves as high as 1700," stated the business lady after Mr. Hall had departed. I asked the reason for the increased volume during the summer term. She explained it by the fact that most of these students are making their way through school, and that fraternity houses and most boarding houses are closed.

"Do customers often leave articles behind?"

A desk drawer was pulled open for an answer. It was full of keys, dories, and miscellaneous articles.

"The article left behind most commonly is the dorine. Pocket books and meal tickets are also lost. However, the meal tickets are nearly always recovered," she explained.

"I work from ten to seven for six days a week and Sundays, but it's my own fault," was the reply to another query. She did not say why it was "her fault," but it is suspected that it was interest in her work which caused her to have such long hours. Indeed, feeding the youth of the school as well as their instructors, might be an enthralling task.

The Temple Cafeteria employs thirty-two persons, eighteen of whom are students. It is operated on a basis whereby the university will "break even."

In her concluding remarks, Mrs. Vining said, "I attempt to make this cafeteria a place where students can have good, wholesome food at a low cost. The purpose of the existence of the school cafeteria is to supply a place to eat and service for the students."

AT THE THEATERS

The bachelor whose penchant is musical comedy; the matinee miss with a fondness for good-looking leading men, and the staid married folks who patronize the outstanding hits of each season all have an inning during the engagement of "The Love Test" at the Playhouse theater, beginning October 10 and lasting throughout the week.

This play of laughs and heart throbs appeals to all classes to a degree that has seldom been attained in the history of the theater. It can be compared with "Lightnin'" for straight-to-the-heart wholesomeness; with "Merton of The Movies" for clean, refreshing comedy or with "Ben Hur" for an uplifting touch of the religious.

For the tired business man there is the "fly" comedy of the nimble witted crook, and the breezy chorus girl; for the matinee girl there is the young and handsome Tom Hudson, who returns to his home town to claim the sweetheart of his boyhood, and for those of more serious bent, the Christian influence of golden-hearted mother Hudson, a really old-fashioned mother, will hold a mellowing appeal.

The stage has never known a cleaner play than "The Love Test." In its three acts there is not a line or situation to being unneatness to the man who has brought his wife, sister or young daughter. Throughout its action it breathes an atmosphere of youth and happiness, blended with good, old-fashioned honesty.

Seventy-six million bushels of wheat were produced in Nebraska this year, the crop amounting to almost twice as much as the average during the past five years. This unusual crop, so much better than that of neighboring states, makes Nebraska the "bread basket" of the country.

EXCHANGES

The University of California at Los Angeles has abolished the immemorial hazing custom. The freshmen, instead of being subjected to hazing this year, will be made welcome to the campus by the rally committee, and will be aided in every way in fitting themselves into their new environment. It is estimated that there will be about 2300 freshmen at U. C. L. A. this year.

Manuscripts, letters, and original editions of Stevenson, Tennyson, and Dickens will be on exhibition in the Widener Memorial Library at Harvard. First editions of Tennyson's "Poem of Two Brothers" and his "Holy Grail" are to be shown. To represent Dickens there is a copy of the first edition of "Bleak House."

Oberlin, Ohio.—(IP)—Wishing to give his team experience with the new rules, Coach Paul MacEachron divided his Oberlin squad into two teams, hired a regular conference official for referee, and staged a regular game. The players declared they learned as much as they would have in regular intercollegiate affair.

New York.—(IP)—Although his name is withheld, it was learned here this week that a prominent professor of the University of Chicago, whose health was ruined by his close academic work, spent the summer in this city as a taxi driver. He left this week for his university classes much improved in health, taxi officials declared.

A tentative plan for the formation of a second generation club of Kansas University sons and daughters of former students was announced recently by Fred Ellsworth, secretary of the Alumni association. Every student whose mother or father at any time attended K. U. will be invited to become a member.

Ten commandments for the freshmen of the College of the City of

New York have been instituted by the Student Council there. These commandments consist of such "dos" and "don'ts" as this, "Thou shalt wear black socks," and this "Thou shalt not wear mustaches."

Cambridge, Mass.—(IP)—"Don't believe everything you hear" was the essence of the address given here by Dr. Lowell, president of Harvard to the incoming students of the university. He argued for common sense in connection with traditions.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology School of Chemical Engineering Practice

Individual and practical training at five industrial plants are important features of the Graduate Course in Chemical Engineering Practice. Field work is carried out at Bangor, Me.; Boston, Mass., Buffalo, N. Y., and Bayonne, N. J. in plants producing sulphite and soda pulp, paper, caustic soda, chlorine, heavy acids and salts, sugar, coke, gas, steel, petroleum and other chemical products.

The more important operations of Chemical Engineering, as typified by the above processes, are studied systematically by tests and experiments on actual plant apparatus, thus fixing in the student's mind the principles of Chemical Engineering and correlating these principles with practice.

The work is non-remunerative and independent of plant control, the whole attention of the students being directed to study and experimentation.

Registration is limited, as students study and experiment in small groups and receive individual instruction by resident members of the Institute's Faculty.

Admission requires adequate preparation in chemistry and engineering. Able students can complete the requirements for the Master of Science degree in one and a half years.
