The Man Who Won The War

The gentleman shown here is none other than Lieutenant Commander John Philip Sousa, 72-year-old "march king" who will appear with his famous band at the Coliseum in two performances November 1.

One sees Sousa as he is today, but such was not always Sousa. The famous musician did not look this way before he won the World War. You've never heard the story?

Well, then if you must know, it was Mr. Sousa's whiskers that precipitated the great conflict. We have the word of Mr. Sousa for that. It was this way: prior to the war Mr. Sousa was the proud possessor of one of the finest sets of whiskers in the world. Equipped with them, he made several expeditions abroad and in all the courts of Europe the whiskers and their proprietor were greeted with acclaim. It was that way in Germany.

Sousa Meets the Kaiser
"The first time I met up with the Kaiser," Mr. Sousa says, "was while

I was afoot in 'Unter der Linden.' The Kaiser was in the royal barouche. I saluted him in my most military manner, and he returned the salute. I noticed that he got the full effect of my whiskers.

"The second time I encountered the Kaiser he again saluted me, but this time there seemed to be less enthusiasm in the gesture. I noticed, too, that he turned slightly green when he eyed my whiskers. I began to detect a distinct aversion in the Kaiser's attitude. On my last visit before the war, the Kaiser was frankly hostile. When I came into his presence, he merely glared at me. This time he turned completely green and the secret was out. The Kaiser was jealous of my whiskers. The war broke out soon after."

Kaiser's Jealousy is Apparent
Various authorities whom Mr. Sousa consulted are agreed that the change in the Kaiser's attitude towards Mr. Sousa was the result of

Over Ten Thousand Homecoming Seals Have Been Sold To Downtown Firms

LUNCHEON IS ABANDONED

More than ten thousand Homecoming Stamps have been sold to downtown firms by the Associated Women Students Board committee in charge of the sale, up to Tuesday noon, according to the report made by Grace Elizabeth Evans, chairman. The sale will open on the campus, Monday October 24.

Stamps will be on sale at Long's Book Store and at the various sorority and fraternity houses. A freshman woman from each sorority has been chosen to take charge of the sale in her respective house and the stamps will be delivered to the fraternity houses by Monday.

New Luncheon Plan Proposed.
A letter has been sent out to the presidents of the four class honoraries, Mystic Fish, Xi Delta, Silver Serpent and Valkyrie suggesting that the organizations sponsor a luncheon or any similar affair, to take the place of the Cornhusker Luncheon which will not be held this year because of the impossibility of accommodating the number of women that desire to attend such an affair.

The letter is as follows: "Since the traditional annual Girls' Cornhusker Luncheon has been abandoned, the Associated Women Students Board feels that some similar affairs should take the place of the luncheon.

The Board therefore suggests that each of the class honoraries give a luncheon for all women of their respective classes. This may be given at Ellen Smith Hall or elsewhere on any convenient date.

Remember that the Associated Women's Student Board stands ready to help you and cooperate with you in your various activities. Please feel free to use this help. Our office hours are from 3 to 5 o'clock on Tuesday and Wednesday, in the Associated Women Students room in Ellen Smith Hall."

HARE AND HOUND RUN IS SUCCESS

Third Chase Is Best One Yet Says "Jimmy" Lewis; Blind Trail Causes Trouble

ONE HUNDRED COMPETE

Janulewicz, Phi Kappa, and Grammen, Kappa Sigma, in the third hare and hound chase last evening, won the right to be the hares in the next chase. They succeeded in finding the two scent bags.

The race was the most successful yet in the matter of giving the boys a good workout, according to Coach Jimmy Lewis. The course, as it was originally laid out, was about two miles in length but most of the runners covered considerably more ground than the two miles. A group of small boys had been playing the game, and had added some trail of their own, which was followed by some of the runners.

The race was also the most successful in respect to the number competing. Over one hundred men were out for the race. Due to the mixup in finding the trail, the usual method of scoring was not used. One point was given to every man competing, making the scoring as fair as was possible.

These schools, under the auspices of the Board of Education, are located at Longfellow, Park, Hayward, Bancroft, Whittier and Saratoga.

"The German Russian people are found in the greatest numbers," stated Miss Pertle. "They are thrifty, splendid people who work in the beet fields. Italians and Greeks are also found in great numbers there."
