against Cambridge. George Johnson, who will speak last for the Huskers, has been called "The Dean of Nebraska Debaters" by Professor White. Mr. Johnson debated for Superior while in high school when that school was at the peak of its forensic prowess. He made the varsity debate team first as a freshman in 1925, being one of the few freshmen who have ever made a Nebraska varsity debate team. He debated against the University of Iowa that year. Last year, he reappeared in forensics after a year's absence and represented Nebraska against Creighton and the University of South Dakota. He is serving his second year as president of Delta Sigma Rho, national forensic fraternity.

David A. Fellman, debated for Omaha Central high school, the last two years before coming to Nebraska. He was a member of the "Think-Shop" the first year and last year debated on the farm relief question for Nebraska. He debated in a split team debate at Grinnell and on the affirmative of the farm relief question against the University of Kansas and Kansas State agricultural college. He is a member of Delta Sigma Rho, national forensic fraternity.

Robert Baldwin will make his opening appearance as a Nebraska debater after taking his pre-law work at Maryville college, Tennessee. Mr. Baldwin won a place on the Nebraska team in competition with members of the teams from last year and the year before as well as substitutes from the squads of the last two years. Before going to college he debated at Hebron, Nebraska.

Former Governor Samuel McKelvie, now treasurer of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, will preside.
