

Chancellor Andrews Is Instrumental

 agriculture campus, among them, agricultural hall, the home economics building, and the plant industry building. On the city campus were added Bruce laboratory and the Mechanical Engineering building.
 Doctor Andrews was an economist of note, and wrote rather freely on economic subjects, and was particularly interested in the money question, which had come into being with the free silver campaigns of the eighteen-eighties. So great was his interest in economics and sociology, that he continued to teach while he served as chancellor at the university.

Known As Educator
 Previous to his chancellorship of the university, Doctor Andrews was the superintendent of the Chicago schools. He was nationally known as an educator, having held professorships in economics and finance at Brown and Cornell.

Doctor Andrews was born in New England, and was educated to be a Baptist minister. The Civil war, in which he served as second lieutenant with the Union forces, interrupted his ministerial career. He lost an eye, and received a hip wound, in the battle of Petersburg. After the war, he was ordained into the ministry and served as a pastor for one year at Beverly, Massachusetts. He gave up the ministry, however, and took up education, in which work he became nationally known.

Ill Health
 His career at the University of Nebraska was a very successful one. He resigned as chancellor because of ill health after eight years of service. The late Prof. M. M. Fogg, a graduate of Brown university, was a close friend of Doctor Andrews.

HUSKERS WORK FOR KANSAS TILT

 braskans will be carrying Saturday does not mean everything in this day of football.

Husker Wall Tough
 The Kansas backs will find it a tough proposition if they try to go through the scarlet forward wall. Coach "Bunny" Oakes has drilled his Husker line for seven weeks on the art of keeping the opposing backs on the other side of the wall and from the summary of the games played this season the Husker line coach has succeeded.

The annual Homecoming battle will mark the thirty-sixth time Nebraska has met Kansas. In 1892 the two elevenes got together for a football game and the Jayhawk eleven came out victorious with a 12 to 0 score. Since then only nine games have been won by Kansas while Nebraska tucked away twenty-two of them and the remaining two were tie games. A total of 463 points were rolled up by the Cornhusker eleven during the years while Kansas collected 204.

Nebraska Has Edge
 Taking a look at the past it seems that the football history gives Nebraska the edge on the Kansas Jayhawk. After 35 years of football battle the Kansas eleven is still behind the Huskers in the scoring column about 260 points. In 1916 Kansas won its last game against Nebraska in the pigskin pastime. In 1920 and 1923 tie games were played.

Coach Cappon has four men in his backfield who can hold down the punting department in a very satisfactory manner and his backfield four can handle the aerial attack with any one of the four on the passing end. From all indications it looks as if the Jayhawk eleven will try the passing game against Nebraska. Art Lawrence, sophomore back who saved the day for Kansas in the Drake game may not start but will probably figure in the game before the referee's gun makes the game history.

Tied For Second Place
 Nebraska and Kansas are now tied for second place in the Missouri Valley football race and the game Saturday will decide who will go into second place in the Valley flag race alone. Kansas has been victorious over Drake and Grinnell and lost to the Kansas Aggies. The Washington-Kansas game was a 21 to 21 tie. Nebraska's record is Grinnell, Iowa State and one defeat at the hands of Missouri.

CLASS STUDIES MARKETING

Home Economics Class in Food Economics Begins Marketing Work

Classes in home economics 140, food economics, are beginning a unit on the subject of marketing. The text being used is "Food Buying and our Markets" by Monroe and Stratton. In addition to work in the text, several laboratory periods are devoted to a study of grades and brands of canned foods.

The acquired data is compiled on cards. Some attention is also devoted to a study of relative economy of different grades of several classes of foods, such as oranges, prunes, potatoes and such. Each student is also required to take a problem for individual investigation on which class reports are made.

JUDGING TEAM PRACTICES

Meat Team of Girls Will Work in Omaha Before G. Show

Members of the home economics department of the college of agriculture who were selected to represent the college in a meat judging competition will go to Omaha Friday for work in the coolers of one of the large packing plants there. The meat judging competition will be a new feature of the American Royal Live stock show at Kansas City this year.

This will be the first contest of its kind ever held, according to Professor Loeffel, coach of the team. Teams of men competed in several of the big meat judging shows last year, but it will be a new kind of competition for the girls. Nebraska, Colorado, Missouri, Oklahoma, and Kansas are already entered at the royal show and there is a possibility of one or two more coming in.

COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT

Y. M. C. A. Freshman Group to Consider College and Religion

"Does College Strengthen or Weaken Religious Faith?" is the topic which has been chosen for discussion for the freshmen council tonight at 7 o'clock in the Temple.

Both the Wednesday and Thursday night groups will meet tonight for discussion. After the regular meeting tonight, a discussion will be held to determine the part that the freshmen council shall play in the Y. M. C. A. activities. A program of activities for the semester will be drawn up and voted upon.

The freshmen council dinner which was postponed will be given soon. The freshmen council is composed of freshmen boys, led by upperclassmen, who meet weekly at the Temple and conduct informal discussions on various subjects. The topic to be discussed tonight is one of a series under the title of "Jesus, his life in relation to the university student."

Vermillion, S. D., Nov. 2.—Something new in college training in public speaking has been recently inaugurated at the University of South Dakota, as an extra curricular activity. Student radio announcers are being developed under the direction of L. S. V. Judson, assistant professor in public speaking and coach of debate.

The embryo radio "mike" men are taking turns in having charge of the programs broadcast twice weekly over the university radio station KUSD. According to Mr. Judson, director of the KUSD studio, this is the first attempt to open the field of radio broadcasting to undergraduate students in universities.

SUICIDE CAUSED BY OFFICIALS, CHARGED

Statement Made by Dr. McKeever Demanding Investigation of Kansas Dean's Death

Charges by Dr. W. A. McKeever that mistreatment by the so-called "higherups" in the University of Kansas, caused the suicide of Dean P. F. Walker of the university school of engineering, demand investigation, says Mr. O. Jolliffe, Kansas representative.

Jolliffe, who is also a prominent oil man and farmer, asserted in a letter to the governor that the charges were so serious that they should be either disproved, or, if true, a cleanup should be instituted. His letter made plain that the investigation should be open to the public and none of the facts brought out should be concealed from the public eye. He wishes to allow no chance to say that it was not thorough. The statement referred to, made by Dr. McKeever, says that many of the most learned men of the university are constantly in terror of the higher authorities. It alleges that Walker's death was the effect of this constant fear which fills the atmosphere around the buildings on Mt. Oread, the hill where the main university buildings are located.
