Y.M.C.A. Will Operate Under New Unit Plan

Final confirmation of the plan for reorganization of the student Y. M. C. A. was given at the annual meeting of the national council held in Chicago recently, it was announced by C. D. Hayes, general secretary. Under the new organization, a student division is created at the University of Nebraska and 400 other colleges and universities of the country, which is a distinct national unit. The student division is still a part of the national Y. M. C. A., but is free to go ahead and develop its own policies and programs.

This reorganization will have an important effect on the Nebraska student organization, says Mr. Hayes. It is a distinctly democratic student movement, its policies being determined by a national council, meeting annually. This national council is composed of representatives of eight area councils throughout the country. Each local student association has a representative on the student council in its own area. English Critic Offers Praise Of Miss Pound

"American Speech," journal devoted to the English language, of which Louise Pound, is editor, is the subject of a twelve-page paper by J. H. G. Grattan of University college, London.

Mr. Grattan, in an article which appeared in the "Review of English Studies" for October says of "American Speech": "The facts and views set forth in this article are illustrated mainly from American sources. Especially valuable to the writer has been the new journal 'American Speech,' for which he would wish a wide circulation in this country also. While essentially the mouthpiece of scholars who have made a study of their own language, this valuable and most welcome periodical opens its columns to wider circles, and may thus serve to acquaint a European with general educated American opinion."

Nebraska Contributors Mentioned
Among the contributors from the University of Nebraska whom he cites approvingly are: Leta Stetter Hollingworth, author of "Vocabulary as a Symptom of Intellect," Olivia Pound on "Educational Jargon," Lowry C.
