

IN THE VALLEY
By JACK ELLIOTT

Besides the Missouri-Iowa State game in the Valley this week football fans in the conference will watch with interest the Oklahoma-Kansas clash at Norman. The Sooners have been going great this season in intersectional clashes but lost their first Valley encounter of the season at Manhattan when Coach Bachman's Aggie aggregation took the long end of the count. At Norman last week the southern school easily disposed of the Washington eleven and now for the third Valley game—Kansas.

The Tiger-Cyclone game at Ames will be played this afternoon and critics are looking for a great battle between the two schools. The Cyclones have lost but one Valley game and that was the season opener to the Nebraska Huskers. Nebraska took the game with a 6 to 0 score, barely able to eke out the victory from Noel Workman's griders.

The Kansas aerial game looked plenty good against Nebraska last week and the Jayhawk eleven put the oval across the Husker goal line twice during the game to score more points than any other team has done this season. The Huskers have held their opponents down to a low margin all season and the Jayhawk passing game enabled them to score 13 points on Bear's Scarlet eleven.

Coach Gwinn Henry will have a powerful gridiron eleven to pit against the Iowa Staters this afternoon. Henry has his two backfield stars back in the game, Captain Flammank and Bert Clark. Both men have been suffering from injuries all season but were able to get into games now and then for a few minutes. The two stellar Missouri backs are completely recovered and will start the battle at Ames today. Another addition to the Mizou eleven is Glenn Smith, veteran center of the Tiger line. Smith has been out of the game since the Kansas Aggie battle at Columbia early in the season. He is in shape for the Cyclones and will start today.

Captain George Flammank will be playing with a cast on his hand as a result of a broken bone in his hand received in the last game with West Virginia. Reports from Columbia say that the Tiger captain handles the ball very easily even with this hindrance.

Games in the Valley this week will be Kansas at Oklahoma, Missouri at Iowa State, and Grinnell at Washington. The out of the conference games will be Nebraska at Pittsburgh, Kansas Aggies at Texas, Drake at Minnesota, and Oklahoma Aggies at Arkansas. The Iowa-State Missouri game is the only Valley game that will affect Nebraska's standing in the conference. Should the Cyclones win, Nebraska and Ames would be tied with Missouri for first place. But if the Tiger eleven continues their winning streak, Nebraska will remain in second place.

Valley Football Standings

Oklahoma Aggies, erstwhile Missouri Valley football champions of 1926 are now reposing in ninth place in the conference football race this year. The Stillwater Aggies have failed to turn in a win this season. Doesn't listen so well for a championship team even if they have played but one game this season in the Valley. Nebraska leads the Valley in scoring power, the Husker eleven having turned in a total of 117 points in four conference encounters and a total of 138 for the five games including Syracuse.

This morning the Scarlet clad Husker eleven from away back at Nebraska will be working out on the oval at Pittsburg university in the final practice session before the hardest game on the schedule and one of the biggest intersectional clashes of this week. The Panther eleven has not been stopped this season and Nebraska gets its second chance to stop an eastern team. Yesterday the Nebraska eleven took a light workout and limbering up exercise on Dyke stadium field at Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill.

TIGERS OUTWEIGH CYCLONES ON LINE

Bengal Forward Wall Has Weight Handicap of 12 Pounds Per Man Over Ames

Ames, Iowa, Nov. 9.—(Special)—To be again outweighed 12 pound to the man on the line is the fate of the Iowa State forward wall as it lines up opposite Missouri for the Dad's Day game Friday on State field. The championship-bound Bengals average 185 pounds at the ends, 217 pounds at tackle, 188 pounds at guard, and with Morgan at center weighing 187 pounds, the whole line averages 192 pounds. The biggest man on the field is Lucas, 225-pound Missouri tackle.

The Cyclones have had only light workouts for the last two days and will have gone through no scrimmage. Tag scrimmage, with the reserves using supposed Missouri plays, took up most of the practice session Tuesday. Emphasis was laid on a defense to stop the famous Bengal aerial attack, which defeated Iowa State last year, 7 to 3.

No injuries. Both teams boast full strength today for the first time this season. Clark, star Tiger half, and Flammank, pass heaving 198-pounder, are again back in uniform and will be in the starting lineup. Tuttle, another Missouri veteran, is also off the injured list and is in reserve. The probable starting backfield for Missouri is stars at quarterback Clark and Mehrele at halfback and Captain Flammank at fullback.

Iowa State has all of its injured players back in harness. L. L. L. L., injured in the opening game with Nebraska and Kern, a victim of the 12 to 2 tie with Illinois can be used, while Purton, and injured against the Kansas Aggies, is also in shape. Rudi, a former fullback, and Krekka will start at end. Fred Lujens, 215-pound tackle, looks far. Previous to last spring he had never played football, and the championship go with Missouri will be a first full game.

Line Pilot

Ray Randels, captain of the forward wall of the Nebraska Husker eleven is listed on the injury column since the Jayhawk battle homecoming day. Randels is considered one of the best tackles in the Valley and the team physicians are giving him a rest from the practice sessions before the Pitt-Husker game this week.

PRESENTATION IS WELL RECEIVED

(Continued from Page 1) first to the last was well accomplished by Miss Gellatly. The story of the production centered around Liliom and Julie. Liliom was the idol of the girls of Budapest who frequented the carnival, where the "tough" worked intermittently as bouncer. Julie, the servant girl, met and fell in love with Liliom at the carnival. They were married, but Liliom made a very poor husband, never working, and at times losing his temper and striking the patient and faithful Julie. When informed by Julie that he is to become a father Liliom is desperate, and decides to help a thug friend to make a hold-up. He feels that perhaps this may give him a chance to make up to Julie what he has neglected, and failed give her. The hold-up is unsuccessful and Liliom is caught. At this point, rather than go to prison, he commits suicide, stabbing himself with the knife that was to have ended the life of the payroll guard. He is taken to a Magistrate's court in the Great Beyond, and here is sentenced to fifteen years in purgatory. At the end of this time he is allowed to go back and see his wife and daughter, who do not recognize him. He returns to the Magistrate's Court, where in all probability he is rewarded.

Tryouts Held to Decide Sixth Man Of Team to Represent Nebraska At Valley Harrier Contest

Battie won second and Janniewicz was third in the tryouts which were held yesterday for the purpose of choosing the sixth member of the team.

Nebraska's past record this season shows two victories and two defeats. The Cornhusker team trounced Missouri, and won a decisive victory over Drake with the entire team finishing ahead of the Drake team. The team was defeated by Kansas university by one point and lost to Kansas Aggie in a race run in extreme heat.

NEBRASKA ORATORS AT NORTHWESTERN

Numerous Students, Known for Forensic Ability Study At Illinois School

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 10.—A survey at Northwestern university reveals the fact that the Nebraska State Forensic association, composed of Nebraska colleges, is well represented on the Purple campus this fall. Winners of last year's Old Line, state Peace, and the Province of the Platte oratorical contests, the state extemporaneous speaking champion, and all three members of Nebraska Wesleyan university's undefeated affirmative debate team, which tied with Midland college for the state title, are doing graduate work here.

Two members of the Wesleyan debate team, John Casteel and James Carrell, are in the school of speech. Mark McCallum, the third member of the trio, is studying at Garrett Biblical Institute. Casteel, who won last year's state peace oratorical, also is an instructor in public speaking.

Carrell won the state Old Line and the Province of the Platte oratorical contests, and was champion extempore speaker in 1927. Miss B. G. Champ, former head of the School of Expression and assistant coach of oratory at Nebraska Wesleyan also is attending the School of Speech.
