GREEK COUNCIL STARTS ACTION TO CHECK CARS

Interfraternity Body Names Committee to Suggest Control Methods

SCHRAMM HEADS GROUP

Action Comes As Result of Recent Announcement by Board of Regents

Definite action concerning the use of cars by students may be taken if plans formed by the Interfraternity council at their regular meeting Thursday evening are carried out. A committee composed of Professor Schramm, Dr. Adams, Richard Brown, Paul Matthews and Wendell Cameron was appointed to work on suggestions that will aid in curbing the overflow of automobiles on the campus.

It was suggested that cars should not be parked on streets adjoining the campus, thereby relieving the congested traffic prevalent at the intersection of 12th and R streets before and after classes. At present the great number of automobiles parked on 12th and R streets makes it nearly impossible for instructors to make themselves heard.

It was also suggested that men living in houses further than one mile from the campus be the only ones allowed to use cars for transportation to and from school. A plan used successfully in eastern schools of prohibiting freshmen and upperclassmen down in hours the use of cars is also receiving consideration. The committee appointed will draw up a set of rules to be observed (Continued on Page 2)

AWGWAN WILL OFFER PRIZES

Magazine Awaits Guesses on Scientific Subject of December Cover

ANSWERS LIMITED TO TWO

Guesses as to the scientific subject to be treated in the cover of the December Awgwan may be turned in at the Awgwan office in the basement of U Hall any time up until Thursday noon December 8, Munro Kezer, Awgwan editor announced yesterday afternoon. The first four students guessing the correct scientific subject will be given free subscriptions for the rest of the year which may be taken for themselves or sent to friends anywhere in the country.

"There is no hoax to this," stated the editor when questioned Thursday. "It isn't just a publicity stunt. We have one of the most unique covers we've ever had submitted. It treats of a science or a pseudo-science with which the bulk of the student body is familiar. It's just up to the guessers in the student body. We want to see how many can hit the proper subject before it appears. And we're going to give five free subscriptions to the first ones that guess right."

Guesses from each student have been limited to two so that students will really make a serious guess for the title rather than turn in a long list of scientific subjects. Guesses, according to the rules of the contest, are to be accompanied by the name, address, and phone number of the guessers and placed in a sealed envelope. They are to be left in the Awgwan office. Two subscriptions will be given to the first student guessing the subject of the scientific cover and one subscription to each of the next three making the correct guess.

Nebraska Coaches Grow Beards On Trip But Shoot Few Ducks

Monday morning at the wee hour of dawn six men rolled into Lincoln in a Packard six. The man at the wheel was unshaven and was humped over the steering wheel in an exhausted manner. A sheepskin coat collar hid his identity from the few early morning stragglers on the streets. The man beside him was sitting far down in the seat in a dazed condition.

The big blue Packard car was besmirched with mud and flecks of straw and looked as if it had traveled many a mile during the night. It wheeled down the main thoroughfare of Lincoln and was seen no more.

That same morning a muscular gentleman strode down O street during the traffic's busiest hour. A heavy growth of beard attracted many a person's attention for this man presented an unusual sight. He had not gone far until a loud laugh was heard and someone said, "Hello Coach," what the jokers, have you gone on a strike? Yes, it was none other than Coach Ernest E. Bearg.

Foster, has worked strenuously for the last month in laying and carrying out plans for the Military Ball, is setting back, awaiting the opening curtain. The ticket sale, under the direction of Cadet Captain Ira Brinkerhoff, has moved along at a rapid rate during the last week. Reports indicate that most of the seven hundred tickets have been sold.

All of yesterday afternoon the decoration committee was busy hauling sandbags, rifles, machine guns, sabres, and flags into the Coliseum preparatory to giving the building the appearance and atmosphere of an arsenal.

The committee under Gordon Cross is being directed by a professional decorator from Lincoln. The motif will feature a huge fortress on the stage, flanked with fernery and flags, from which the Honorary (Continued on Page 3)
