

Oklahoma Daily Will Stage All-University Hog Calling Contest

Norman, Okla., Dec. 19—For those who are homesick, the Oklahoma Daily is going to stage a hog calling contest, to be held at 4 o'clock next Monday afternoon on the university oval.

Those students who have not had an opportunity to exercise their lungs with the familiar old "Poo-oo-ee" of the farm will have that opportunity this coming Monday.

No one will be barred, except possibly members of the Whirlwind staff.

Contestants will have to be eligible scholastically, this requirement being that they'll have to be passing in at least five hours of work.

Entries Must File

All entries must have filed by noon Monday. They must register in the Oklahoma Daily office, in the basement of Science Hall.

In order to make the contest close-er, it was at first thought that faculty members would be barred, but the bars have been let down and faculty members as well as students may enter.

Entrance in the contest should be made as soon as possible, and training should be begun. Suitable prizes will be given the winners of first and second places.

Dates Allowed
Dates will be allowed the spectators at the contest. Or would the spectators be auditors?

Although the judges for the contest have not yet been chosen, it is probable that the county farm agent, several members of the faculty and a student will be called upon to award the prizes in the competition. Suggested coaches for the pre-contest training in hog calling were announced Wednesday as Buck Garrett, Maynard Kennerly, and Dr. A. K. Christian, all of whom have had experience.

Petition Reinstating Uni Night Approved

The Student Council, which, sitting as a jury, will hear these charges and make recommendations to the chairman of the committee or student organization for the punishment of these individuals." These requirements have been made for the purpose of eliminating undesirable material from the program.

No definite arrangements have been made as yet concerning a prize for the best skit. In the past a cash prize has been given, but this year a cup will probably be given instead. Although plans are not yet completed, it is expected that a skit will be presented in University Night by an organization of alumni of the university. Meetings will start after the Christmas holidays, and a time will be set for the submission of skits.

System of Flashers Will Send Greetings

Vermillion, S. D., Dec. 19—"Yuletide Greetings" will be flashed across the campus of the University of South Dakota from the Christmas tree which has been erected there, by the Young Men's Christian Association. The tree is placed in the center of the campus directly in front of the administration building.

The large fir tree has been entirely wired by students of electrical engineering. The system of flashers which will send out the holiday greeting was also devised by these students under the direction of B. B. Brackett, professor of electrical engineering. The letters, flashing out one at a time, will spell the Christmas message.

Pottery Exhibits Are Added to Collection

Additions to the Indian pottery exhibit were made at the museum last week. An interesting painting, "The Treasure Jar" is now a part of the exhibit, and three fine pieces of Guadalajara earthen ware have been added. This display is on the north corridor of the lower floor, Morrill Hall.

California Editor Aims Thrust at Societies That Do Not Function

U. C. L. A., Los Angeles, Dec. 19 (P. I. P.)—Striking a telling blow to those "joiners" who infest and harm all colleges, James F. Wickizer, editor of the Daily Bruin, in his editorial column, The Stray Cat, has turned the cleansing light of publicity upon those clubs that exist only to give joiners enjoyment.

Various organizations meet often enough to "promise" to accomplish something good, and then to only decide upon organization badges, are being exposed in this column.

The articles name prominent organizations that have done nothing but run up debts with the year book, disturbed the business of the campus and annoyed the legitimate and sincere organizations.

The series of exposures began after the Press club, campus journalistic society, had decided to disband since it "accomplished nothing" and couldn't fulfill its financial obligations. In disbanding, the Press club expressed the hope that all other campus organizations in a similar predicament would follow their example.

Crill Declares Hose Made from Cornstalks May Soon Be in Vogue

Vermillion, S. D., Dec. 19—Girls may soon be wearing silk hose made from South Dakota cornstalks proposed Louis N. Crill, secretary of agriculture in speaking to a convention of students at the University of South Dakota, on "Resources of South Dakota". Artificial silk will be made from the stalks of tall corn of South Dakota, said Mr. Crill, as illustration of the possibilities of industrial development in the state.

Power, agriculture, industry, and minerals were emphasized by the speaker as the four great possibilities for development in South Dakota. The power possibilities of the proposed dam at Moberge are almost unlimited in the opinion of Mr. Crill. Thousands of factories could be supplied with the power capable of being developed at Moberge, he said. Besides the possibilities of the Missouri river, many small streams in the hills might be made to furnish industrial power.

Two Hundred Attend Mixer at Ag College

Approximately two hundred students attended the Ag Club mixer held in the Student Activities building last Saturday evening. The "Polka Dots" furnished the music for the evening. Clarence Clover, '31, entertained during intermission with several selections. Professor and Mrs. R. C. Abbott and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Yocum chaperoned the party.

EXTENSION MEET ARRANGED

Workers of Colorado Will Convene in Fort Collins in January

Extension workers from over the state will meet for their annual Extension conference in Fort Collins, January 9 to 13, 1928.

A distinctive feature of the conference will be the crops and livestock schools. The committee in charge of the program, moreover, has secured speakers from the industrial organizations for each of the four days to show the inter-dependency between agriculture and industry.

COLORADO SCHOOL GIVES NEW DEGREE

By Taking Course at Agricultural College Trade Teachers Can Attain B. Sc.

Fort Collins, Dec. 19.—Because of the insistent demand for teachers and supervisors in the trades and industries, the state board of agriculture at its annual meeting here this week, established a course for such teachers leading to the degree of bachelor of science in mechanic arts and approved the recommendations of the faculty council to confer that degree on four teachers who have completed the work.

Colleges heretofore have not trained men for teaching trade and industrial work offered by high schools and industrial organizations. It has been necessary to employ journeymen in the different trades, most of whom have had no pedagogic training and limited college training. The Colorado Agricultural College tried to help these teachers and the school boards employing them by enabling those who have sufficient training in specific trades to complete the work for a degree by taking basic courses in English, science and education.

This move on the part of the state board of agriculture is an important one for many men and women in trade and industrial education. It means that those who have mastered a trade may complete their work either during the winter or in the summer and qualify for a degree, and meet the educational requirements for high school teachers.

It may not look so, but he is referring to his friend's new Waterman's. But, unless he owns one, he doesn't know half the story. Waterman's looks good, but the real test comes in use, and that is where Waterman's truly excels.
We recommend for college work, Waterman's 01854 R.R. The holder is made of stainless ripple rubber. A metal lip-guard protects the cap from breaking; a pocket clip insures against loss, and a solid 14-carat gold nib will give service for years. It has a big ink capacity.
