

BURSAR SAYS FEES NOT TO BE INCREASED

Rumor Unfounded as to Probable Advance in Second Semester Registrations

ACTION IS YET UNDECIDED Board Considers Advisability Of Raising Fees 1928 Summer Session

"Contrary to the rumor which I understand is prevalent on the campus, there will be no increase of registration fees this coming semester," announced L. E. Gunderson, bursar of the board of regents, late yesterday.

"The finance board has considered the advisability of raising fees at the beginning of the first summer session of 1928," Mr. Gunderson stated, "but as yet nothing specific has been decided about the matter. There will, however, be no increase of fees next semester."

The board of regents announced in October that students' fees must be raised, and that Acting Chancellor Burnett declared at that time that the university was going bankrupt.

A committee appointed in October to investigate the question of student fees with the intention of increasing them to help the university meet its pressing need of additional finances, discovered that fees at the University of Nebraska were comparatively low.

Mr. Gunderson's statement is intended to answer the question in the minds of many university students, as to whether or not the increase of fees would likely become effective next semester.

TWO SCHOOLS ARE SLATED

Both the affirmative and the negative debating team will begin work on the question, "This house deprecates the tendency of the government to interfere in the rights of individuals" immediately after the close of Christmas vacation, Prof. H. A. White, debate coach, announced.

Six men for the two teams and two alternates were chosen in the tryouts held Monday afternoon. The men who won in the tryouts have not yet been placed on teams, and will probably be placed according to their belief on the subject, or in a way to better proportion the teams, Professor White pointed out.

At present two schools are on the Nebraska slate, and it is probable that several others will be added before the close of the season. The question which will be debated, however, is not the regular Valley question, and results will not be included in the Valley standings.

Debate February 15 Nebraska's affirmative team will meet the Kansas Aggie negative team at Beatrice, Nebraska, on February 15. 'Dumb Dora' is Ready to Take Place In Morrill Hall Museum Exhibition

By Beulah Montgomery

"Dumb Dora" is about ready to take her place among the exhibits in the museum. "Dora," as her creator, Miss LaVada Zutter has christened her, because she looks so dumb, is a baby rhinoceros. She and her parents will form a group in one of the cases on the northeast corner of the first floor of Morrill Hall.

"Dora" is a full form figure, but her parents are made in relief. The work of modelling these animals has been done by Miss Zutter. A clay model is first made. From this a plaster of paris negative is taken. A positive cast of plaster of paris or papier-mache is made from this negative. The figures are then painted in life colors.

The rhinoceros group is being assembled by Mr. Edwin H. Colbert, a senior in the University. The male rhinoceros stands back from the front of the case. The fossil remains of a male rhinoceros are set up in front of the cast and fastened to it. These bones come from the excavations at Agate, Sioux County, Nebraska. This type of rhinoceros is known by the

Children Will Be Given Party By Elks Club

The University Coliseum will be the scene of excitement Christmas morning when the Elks of Lincoln, continuing a custom begun more than twenty years ago, will provide Christmas entertainment and treats for the children of Lincoln.

In the past, with the exception of the first two or three years, the city auditorium has been used for this purpose, but as the building is no longer available or suitable, the Coliseum on the University campus has been secured. Due to the size of the auditorium, it has been necessary in the past to limit the affair to children. There will be, however, plenty of seats in the balcony of the Coliseum for any adults who care to attend.

The doors of the Coliseum will be open at 8:00 o'clock and the entertainment will begin an hour later. The Elk band will be present and contribute several numbers. There will be several acts of a character to be especially pleasing to children, and at the close Santa Claus will appear and disclose the Christmas tree. Treats will then be distributed.

All 10 and 11 o'clock classes will be excused this morning to enable all students to attend the presentation of the Messiah, announced Dean Thompson, dean of student affairs. The program will begin at 10:30 o'clock and will last until 12 o'clock.
