ALICE HOWELL HAS LEAD ROLE OF NEXT PLAY

University Players' Director Will Appear in "Sun Up" This Week End

SETTING IS IN CAROLINA Plot Centers About Isolated Regions and Illiterates Of Mountains

Miss H. Alice Howell, director of the University Players, will play the principal role, Widow Cagle, in "Sun Up," Lula Vollmer's play of the Carolina mountain region, which will be presented by the University Players this week end.

Ray Ramsey as Rufe Cagle, the widow's son, and Beatrice Hullett as Emmy, are the leads. The rest of the cast is:

- Pap Todd.....Robert Reade
Bud.....Elwood Ramay
Sheriff Weeks.....Thad Cone
Preacher.....Jack Rank
The Stranger.....Herbert Yenne
Bob.....Zolley Lerner

Play Is Universal

The play is a powerful study of life among the illiterate and ignorant people of that mountain region. Although the action, settings and dialect are local, the plot and appeal of the play is universal.

The World War takes Rufe, the widows son, away to France, to Rufe, is, "A place about forty miles 'tother' side of Asheville," which illustrates the restricted knowledge and simplicity of the mountain folk.

The play is a combination of the humorous and the tragic. It will be portrayed in the dialect of the Carolina region. Evening performances, which start at 8:20 o'clock, are Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

TOURNEY SCHEDULE SHIFTED BY LEWIS

Handball and Horseshoe Contests Will Be Held after High School Tournament

Competition in the handball and horseshoe tournaments, on the interfraternity athletic program, will not start until after the state high school basketball tourney, it has been decided by James C. Lewis, director of intramural sports.

The high school cage tourney will require the unceasing attention of athletic officials, and it would be entirely impossible to conduct the interfraternity games either in the week preceding the meet or during the week when the teams are actually competing.

PIONEERS FALL BEFORE ATTACK OF NEBRASKANS

Husker Basketeers Win Last Game of Home Season By 35-16 Score

GRACE LEADS IN POINTS

Captain Elliott and Brown Tie For Second Honors in Last Appearance

(By Doug Timmerman)

Completing the 1928 home cage season, the Nebraska basketeers decisively won from the Grinnell Pioneer team 35 to 16 on the Coliseum court Tuesday evening.

No scoring was made until five minutes of the initial half had gone by. Both Brown and Grace missed several attempts at the basket and it remained for Krall to furnish the first marker by counting on a free toss.

Lead Changes at First The lead varied during the first half and Grinnell was out in front 8 to 7 as the end of the half approached.

Starting the second period with a rush, the Huskers forged ahead of the Iowa opponent and baskets by Elliott, Brown and Grace gave their team a lead which the Pioneers tried in vain to overcome.

Elliott Plays Well Tom Elliott turned in an excellent game at the center and forward position.

Another session, not included in the original list of lectures, has been planned for April 4, according to F. W. Leavitt, president of the federation.
