HUSKERS LOSE ROUGH GAME BY SCORE OF 43-28

Sooners, Valley Leaders, Win Eighteenth Consecutive Victory Saturday

MANY FOULS ARE CALLED Grace Cops Second Honors Of Game and Is Nebraska High Score Player

(By Doug Timmerman)
In the roughest game that has been played on the Sooner court for many years, the Nebraska basketball team went down to defeat before the Oklahoma Sooners team by a 43 to 28 score Saturday night. Eighteen personal fouls were called on each team and the game was marked by rough play throughout.

Starting a scoring attack early in the game, Churchill and Drake, clever forwards on the Sooner quintet, ran the score up to six points before the Nebraskans called time out. The Sooner five kept their early advantage and with the aid of Vic Holt, lengthy pivot man, ran their lead up to 22 to 10 at the end of the initial half.

Crowd Becomes Excited
The second half proceeded under a storm of noise from the record crowd on hand. When the Sooner fans were reasonably assured late in the game that the Oklahoma team would win and run their record for consecutive victories up to eighteen, the officials found difficulty in keeping the crowd quiet.
