MISS HURLBURT IS VESPERS SPEAKER

'School Girls in China' Is Subject Of Woman Who Taught in Chinese Schools

"School Girls in China" was the topic of a short talk given by Miss Floy Hurlburt at the regular Vesper service held Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock in Ellen Smith Hall.

"We who taught in the schools knew the pupils from the time they entered kindergarten, through the primary, junior and senior high schools, usually at least during the first year of their teaching experience," stated Miss Hurlburt.

"The children in the Y. W. C. A. school are happy and full of pranks as any children in American schools, and they are so different from the children in the streets that one's heart aches for the others whose faces are seamed with worry and care, and who carry heavy loads when they are still very young."

Graduates Are Christians

"The pupils all are dark, with black hair and black brown eyes and dark skins. Nearly all of them wear short coats and trousers until they are past the junior high seasons." (Continued on Page 2.)

Co-Eds Took Meager Part in Class Elections of Officers Yesterday

(By Bill McCleery)

More cut-throat political sessions were enacted in Social Sciences yesterday than have been witnessed by anyone since the days of Tammany Hall, (we don't know who this fellow Tammany was, but they named a hall after him.)

You probably haven't read the rest of the paper (so many people read this column first—yeah!) or you would know all about the class elections. They were scheduled for 5 o'clock yesterday and somebody pulled a wheeler and got there on time and elected vice-president before anyone else got there. This

Mrs. Senning stated yesterday that she believed that if a woman leads a professional career before her marriage, she should continue it after marriage, if it appeals to her. She also voiced the opinion that a woman can help her husband financially too, if she desires to help him in his professional career. It is her conviction, however, that the place for the woman, who before marriage was not interested in any profession, is at home. There, she can find many (Continued on Page 2.)

In the Kansas City Athletic Club meet during the heat of a 660-yard race Johnson was spiked, lost his shoe and was forced to drop out of the race. Last year Johnson won the 660-yard Shannon cup race at Kansas City. But Johnson was not on hand for competition in the Nebraska College Conference meet at Lincoln recently.

Prejudices Should Be Left Behind When Viewing Pictures in Gallery

(By Clifford Smith)

To properly appreciate the beauty of paintings one must go to the exhibit with an open mind. One cannot be prejudiced and get all that he should from the pictures.

Professor Grummann recommends that one go alone to see the paintings and try to get from the pictures what the artist want you to get. That is one reason why gallery talks have been done away with to a large extent, for many people are mere imitators, they hear that a certain picture is supposed to be good and they accept that opinion without question.

Good advice was given by a woman to her son as they were going in to view the thirty-eighth annual exhibition of the Nebraska Art Association in Morrill Hall. She told him that he should drop all prejudice at the door and go into the gallery to find the beauty which the artist intended for him to see, not that which he thought a picture should contain.

Narrow-mindedness is Fault

Another fault in viewing paintings is narrow-mindedness. Some people think that only modernistic paintings are beautiful, other people think that only the older style of paintings are beautiful. The foolishness of such a conception is obvious, for beauty is (Continued on Page 2.)

'BUSINESS' WILL BE SUBJECT OF RYONS' LECTURE

Vice-President of Lincoln Bank Will Speak Tonight in Social Sciences

TALK IS SECOND OF SERIES

'Vocations' Are Discussed on Wednesdays; Four More Are on Schedule

This is the second of a series of lectures being given on the subject of "Vocations" under the auspices of the Federation of Church Workers on the campus.

A resident of Lincoln for the past forty-eight years, Mr. Ryons has been in the banking business for thirty-seven years. Up until last year he served in the capacity of cashier, at which time he was promoted to the position of the vice-president, which position he now holds.

Will Discuss Salary

The attractions of the business world to the student who intends to make it a career will be taken up by the speaker. He will especially emphasize the need of patience on the part of the aspirant, especially in regard to salary.

Business administration students especially have been urged to attend this meeting, according to Dr. J. E. LeRossignol, dean of the College of Business Administration, who has sent out notices to all classes in the college to that effect.

Four more lectures have been scheduled in as many weeks. On March 14, E. W. Lantz, associate professor of secondary education, will speak on the "Teaching Profession." Dr. J. Stanley Welch, Lincoln physician and surgeon, will give an address on "Medicine As a Profession" on March 21.

"The Ministry" will be presented by the Rev. Clifton H. Wolcott, pastor of the First Baptist church, on (Continued on Page 4.)
