

FACULTY VOTES TO REJECT FOUR PROPOSED SKITS

Committee Reaches Decision On Manuscripts That Are Submitted

MAY CALL IN NEW ACTS

Lack of Merit Is Reason for Step Taken to Prevent Production

Four of the six skits accepted by the University Night committee two weeks ago were rejected Thursday afternoon by the faculty committee on student organizations. The other two skits, musical acts, were not presented in manuscript so were not considered. Committee members indicated that they would probably pass.

Wilbur Mead, chairman of the University Night committee, stated following the faculty committee's decision, that the rejection did not mean that University Night would not be held. He has called a meeting of the committee for 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Temple when plans for securing new skits will be considered. He announced that the date would probably be postponed.

Story of Grace Coppock Shows Fine Character

Have you ever wondered who Grace Coppock was and what she did? We have heard a lot about the Grace Coppock Fund and the Grace Coppock Drive but few people understand just who Grace Coppock was. Picture her as a girl with brown eyes and brown hair. She was particularly fond of the color yellow. The Chinese people with which she worked often spoke of her love of "gold," according to Miss Frances Drake, of the City Y. W. C. A., who was a school mate of Miss Coppock. We fail to picture Grace Coppock as a real person. She was a class officer in her senior year, and was on the Y. W. cabinet. She was one of the original thirteen girls to found the Black Masques which is now Mortar Board.

Graduated 1905

Grace Coppock graduated from Nebraska in 1905 and left for the foreign field in September 1906. She was city secretary at Shanghai and soon became the National Secretary in China. Miss Drake said that some of the Chinese fellow workers of Miss Coppock felt, "Grace Coppock never was a foreigner. She was one of us."

"The remarkable thing about Grace Coppock," said Miss Appleby of the University Y. W., "was that she steadily worked to place the responsibility on Chinese woman. At the time of her death there were more Chinese secretaries than American. It is in this respect that many workers make the mistake of having the responsibility on foreigners." Miss Coppock kept the idea of having Chinese as the workers and the foreigners as the helpers.

Since her death in 1921 the work has been carried on and a fund is raised as a memorial to this Nebraska woman who has given her life that Chinese women could have the advantages that Americans have.

MATMEN LEAVE FOR COLUMBIA

Coach Kellogg Declares Team Is in Perfect Shape For Valley Meet

AMES SQUAD IS STRONG

Nebraska's wrestling team departed yesterday for Columbia, Missouri, where the Missouri Valley wrestling meet is being held today and tomorrow. Every member of the squad was in perfect shape for the two-day meet, according to Coach John Kellogg, who expressed his confidence that the Cornhusker grapplers would bring home their share of wins.

Kellogg is pinning strong hopes on Toman in the 158 lb. weight, and Koehnke in the heavyweight division. Toman's work has been unusually credible this year, having won all but one of his matches this season. Koehnke sprung into prominence in the Iowa University bouts and has been performing at a fast clip since.

Reports from the Missouri city have it that crack Ames grapplers are highly favored to capture the bulk of the valley matches. Holding victories over the most formidable of the Missouri Valley teams, the Iowa State team has set a fast pace this year.

Several extra period games characterized the first round of the meet, but few upsets were in evidence. Contests in Class "A" were unusually well matched, with all favorites pulling out ahead with the exception of Lincoln high who fell before the fast McCook quintet, 19 to 16.

St. Paul Wins

St. Paul and Norfolk started action in Class "A", the St. Paul five winning in an extra period, 17 to 12. Kearney and Fairbury in the second game also were forced to play an extra period before the Kearney five could forge ahead, 19 to 17. Fairbury held the lead most of the way, but could not locate the hoop under fire. Plattsmouth spoiled the perfect record presented by Gering, far western entry by romping off with a 27 to 12 win.

Crete, one of the pre-tourney favorites played in good form to smother Havelock, 24 to 6. "Steve" Hokuf, stellar guard on the Crete five held the Havelock offense powerless while his teammates were establishing a comfortable lead. Hastings also stayed in the running by trimming the speedy University Place aggregate (Continued on Page 3.)

BURT IS APPOINTED TO NEW COMMITTEE

Article in Pharmacy Journal on Ten Per Cent Solution Places Nebraska Instructor

Professor Joseph B. Burt, chairman of the department of pharmacy, has been appointed by the Association of Colleges of Pharmacy to serve on a committee for recommendations governing the percentage solutions, as a result of an article, "What Is a Ten Per Cent Solution?" which appeared in the December 1927 Journal of the American Pharmaceutical association.

As author of this article, Mr. Burt has not tried to solve the problem of percentage solutions but rather has endeavored to offer some suggestions that may aid in the ultimate decision. His intentions were to stimulate discussion in this direction which may have some influence in clarifying the question in hand.

The committee that has been appointed is required to formulate some plan for standardizing the manner of teaching pharmacy courses in this respect. Recommendations made by them are to be submitted at the next joint session of the association and the various state pharmacy boards.

Other members of this committee are E. Fullerton Cook, chairman, who is head of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and also chairman of the revision committee of the United States Pharmacopoeia, and Clyde M. Snow, head of the School of Pharmacy, University of Illinois, which is located at Chicago.

Brick-Yard Blondes Will Have Their Day Monday at Orpheum Theatre

(By Bill McCreery)

All red haired girls are dated for next Monday afternoon according to statistics compiled by a Sigma Chi freshman who asked them all for dates. This condition is very fortunate; most of the red-headed girls have gone all year without any dates.

The occasion for the dating of the red-tops is that all red haired University students get to go to the Orpheum free Monday afternoon to see Clara Bow in "Red Hair." (Guests of The Daily Nebraskan.)

"It is all right," remarked a Daily Nebraskan official, "to have the hair died (died maybe), but the saving would be almost negligible unless the participant intended to have his hair dyed anyway." As we understand, the price of a good red hair dye is $5. The Orpheum costs only fifty cents, so it would still cost $4.50 to see it. Persons not taking analytics are cordially invited to read all this, but they probably won't understand it. There are various shades of red hair. Auburn, etc., etc., and et cetera. The reddest-headed ones get seats nearest the front. This will be carried on throughout the theater, those who don't quite have red hair will be permitted to stand on the side-walk.

We'd like to take this opportunity to inform the educated public (only the very educated read and appreciate these articles—some of them don't) that a mirror was taken from the Kappa house (Kappa Kappa Gamma—you know) sometime this week. The Sig Alphas might have taken it so that the brothers could see for themselves whether or not they have red hair. The new mirror hasn't come yet.

Just a word of warning—we notice a lot of Scotch red-heads working for fear the free show won't materialize. Don't get grey-haired over it—it really isn't worth it.
