C. C. DEBATERS MEET NEBRASKA TEAM SATURDAY

Colorado College Squad Will Discuss Negative Side Of Question

HUSKERS HAVE NEW MAN

Marold, Morrison, Ginsburg Represent Nebraska in Next Contest

Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock Nebraska meets Colorado College in a debate in the Social Sciences auditorium. The University of Nebraska will take the affirmative of the question, "Resolved, that Secretary Kellogg's policy in regard to Central America should be discontinued."

Carl J. Marold, '30, Saguache, Colorado; Frank B. Morrison, Law 1, Manhattan, Kansas; and Joseph Ginsburg, Law 1, Ponca; will represent Nebraska in the debate. Carl Marold is a new Nebraska debater with a reputation as a high school orator. Morrison and Ginsburg have debated for Nebraska this year and are well known in collegiate forensic circles.

Letters Are Sent Out

"Audiences do not favor us with large crowds at our debates," states a letter sent out by the forensic department. "Perhaps they wish us to move our mountain of logic and fact to them." The letter, sent to many persons in the city, goes on to explain the new open forum type of debate which gives any individual in the audience an opportunity to express his views on the subject of debate after the speakers from the contesting college have given their arguments.

Twenty-five cents admission will be charged at the door for the Colorado College debate. The date of the debate against Iowa Agricultural College has been changed from March 9 to March 22. The Pittsburgh debate will be held on April 5 in Lincoln and the debate against North Dakota, scheduled for March 31 will be held at Grand Island.

C. F. Hansen, former University student, who is now an instructor of dramatics and debating in Grand Island high school has arranged the debate at Grand Island against North Dakota.

THIRD VOCATION SPEECH IS GIVEN

Lantz Talks on 'Teaching As A Profession' Before Group of Students

'MEDICINE' IS NEXT TOPIC

To be successful in the teaching profession it is necessary that an individual be possessed with a pleasing personality and a sound temperament, is the opinion of E. W. Lantz, assistant professor of secondary education, who spoke before a group of students last evening in Social Sciences auditorium.

His lecture was on "Teaching as a Profession" and was the third of a series of "Vocations" being sponsored by the Federation of Church Workers. The object of these addresses is to help the students decide a field of endeavor if they have not already done so.

Speaking of professions in general, Mr. Lantz enumerated a number of the factors that go to determine whether or not an individual should enter therein. "Is the field crowded or not—is there any opportunity left in the field?" is a common question (Continued on Page 2.)

Hi-Y Club Organized; Officers Are Elected

Teachers College High School Starts Organization; Steinbaugh Is Faculty Advisor

A Hi-Y club was organized this week at the Teachers College high school with Everett W. Thatcher, graduate assistant in the University department of physics, in charge. A number of high school boys have already joined the group.

Election of officers for the coming year took place at a meeting on Tuesday. The following were elected: Logan E. Larson, University Place, president; Roland Lockwood, Lincoln, vice-president; William Schraim, Lincoln, secretary-treasurer; and W. H. Steinbaugh, supervisor of mathematics, Teachers College high school, faculty advisor.

The newly organized body is a branch of the University and city Christian associations. It will be operated under the supervision of these two organizations. Luncheons will be held every Friday noon at which time matters of interest to the high school students will be discussed.

Senior Class Will Hold Meeting Today

A senior class meeting has been called for this afternoon at 5 o'clock in Social Sciences auditorium. Election of class officers will be held at this time.

The meeting called last week by class president Ray Randels, was postponed when the basketball tournament conflicted.

BALLOTING WILL CONTINUE TODAY

A. W. S. Voting Is Heavy First Day; President, Members Are To Be Elected

LARGE VOTE IS EXPECTED

Nearly four hundred and fifty votes were cast Wednesday for president and membership on the Associated Women Student Board. The voting will continue today at the polls, which are in Social Science, opening at 9 o'clock and closing at 5 o'clock. The result of the election will be announced in Friday's Daily Nebraskan.

"Judging from the number that voted Wednesday there will probably be one thousand votes cast by closing time Thursday," stated Helen Anderson, president of the Associated Women Student Board in commenting on the election. About six hundred women voted last year. Every woman registered in the University may vote.

Two Run for President

SIGMA XI WILL HEAR STAKMAN LECTURE

Minnesota Professor Will Talk on 'Fungi' at Regular Meeting of Honorary Society

Sigma Xi, Nebraska chapter, will hold its regular monthly meeting in Bessey Hall auditorium Tuesday evening, March 20, at 8 o'clock.

"Physiologic Specialization in Fungi" will be the topic for discussion by Elvin Charles Stakman, Ph.D., professor of plant pathology at the University of Minnesota.

"Dr. Stakman and his associates have found the phenomenon of physiologic specialization in several genera of fungi to be of economic importance. These researches have materially changed the methods of plant breeders working for disease resistance," Miss Emma N. Anderson, professor of biology and secretary of Sigma Xi, stated yesterday.

The meeting Tuesday evening will be open to the public.

COPY IS REQUESTED FOR SPRING NUMBER

Awgwan Editor Sets March 23 as Deadline for All Material To Be Published

In order to insure publication, all cartoons and copy for the Spring number of the Awgwan should be in the office by the last of next week, according to Alan C. McIntosh, editor. No material will be accepted after March 23.

Staff members have started work on the third issue of this semester. A number of features have been planned and because of the success of the Automobile number, the Spring number will be patterned somewhat after the second issue, Mr. McIntosh stated.

Copy and cartoons for the Spring number should be played up to portray situations centering on this season of the year, the editor stated. However, material of sufficient merit that does not particularly depict Spring, will be given careful consideration.

Presidential Possibilities of Dawes, Al Smith, Donahey Are Reviewed for University Students

Editor's Note: Condensation of three more articles from The Independent written by Charles Merz analyzing likely presidential candidates appear below. Reviews of presidential candidates will be run daily until The Daily Nebraskan poll which will be taken Wednesday, March 21.

CHARLES G. DAWES

The great American public knows four things indisputably of Charles Gates Dawes. He smokes an under-slung pipe. He immortalized hell and Maria. He had a row with the Senate. He went to sleep one afternoon when his vote was badly needed to break a famous tie.

Certainly no more colorful figure has lent his lustre to the drab scene of American politics in a decade than this same Charles Gates Dawes of Illinois. Bryan was probably as rich and creamy a character as ever appeared in Washington. Cannon was one of those whalebone-and-iron figures around whom legends will go on clustering for years. But Bryan was never general purchasing agent of an army, and Cannon did not play a violin. Dawes is not only Vice President of the United States; he is the composer of a "Melody in A Major," played by Kreisler. He is not only a distinguished politician, despite his

AL SMITH

If there is anyone left who has never whistled "The Sidewalks of New York" he must live on a remote corner of the country. The tune has gone everywhere. The legend of Al Smith has kept it company. The man is a ogre, a hero, a menace, a great statesman, or an unmannered hoodlum who would give this country the best Government or the worst Government in its history, to its lasting credit or discredit, all according to one's point of view. But he is at least a definite personality, and of all political possibilities in 1928 none at this moment is more nearly in the center of the public's eye.

It is a healthy thing for the American public to wish to know where its Presidential candidates stand on national issues, even though the wish is not always gratified. Presidential possibilities seldom talk for publication after they have become possibilities. In Smith's case, however, this much is true: this man has been governor of the most populous state in the Union for eight of the last ten years. And no one can fill that office for the better part of a decade without encountering at least a few issues which are national as well as local.

Smith's Record Tells Story

With everybody asking Smith where he stands on national issues, the fact is that Smith's own record tells at least part of the story.

1. Tax reduction. New York has a State income tax. Smith spent the

A governor, a successful governor, and a governor twice elected to succeed himself, Donahey is pictured as a dry Al Smith.

Three times in a row this man has succeeded in carrying a State that is normally Republican by 200,000 votes, and one of these three times includes the year of the Coolidge landslide, when every other candidate on the Democratic ticket in Ohio met defeat.

Ohio is a useful State. Next to New York, it is by all odds the largest state which the Democratic party has a ghost of a chance of carrying in 1928. Here is a man who has had experience in carrying it.

Donahey was educated in the public schools of his own county, left school and became a printer. There is something about the combination of Patrice Nickols, regular pianist for the Girls' Octette, will act as accompanist for the performance as well as for the rehearsals which are already underway.

Miss Ballance Leads Practices in Clogging Dances Shown Co-Eds

W. A. A. clogging is attracting a large number of University co-eds this season. Under the instruction of Miss B. Ballance, practices are held every Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 3 and 5 o'clock. Approximately 163 co-eds are completing their necessary ten practices for points.

A review of all the clog dances learned so far this season will be made at this week's practices. Most of the dances and steps have been very well mastered by the cloggers. Girls are urged to do as much outside practice as possible so that a greater number of dances and steps may be learned this season.

Fraternity Council Will Meet Tonight

First meeting of the Inter-fraternity Council under its new rules putting a five dollar penalty on absences will be held in Morrill Hall auditorium at 7 o'clock this evening. Professor E. F. Schramm, chairman of the Council announced Wednesday

Is Round Table Speaker

Dr. Sears F. Riepma, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Lincoln, who will talk to the Round Table meeting at the Grand Hotel Friday noon. His topic will be "Wanted—Faith in Something."

ROUND TABLE IS TO HEAR RIEPMA

Presbyterian Minister Will Speak on 'Faith' Before Religious Group

TALK IS SECOND IN SERIES

"Wanted—Faith in Something" is the subject of the second lecture of the Religious Round Table series to be given by Dr. Sears F. Riepma, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Lincoln, Friday noon at the Grand hotel.

The luncheons, which are sponsored by the University pastors, are held every Friday noon during Lent. They begin at 12 and end at 12:50 o'clock, affording students time to get to their classes. Tickets are available for twenty-five cents from any student pastor.

Friday's speaker, Dr. Riepma, who is a native of Holland, is one of the leading pastors of the Presbyterian faith, according to Dr. Dean R. Leland, Presbyterian student pastor. Dr. Riepma received his university education in Holland and was later affiliated with the Dutch Reform church for some time.

Since coming to Lincoln from Kansas City last fall, the pastor has taken an active part in university affairs. "Not only is he interested in religion," said Dr. Leland, "but also in education and for that reason understands the university field."

R. B. WILCOX TALKS TO FORUM MEETING

'Is Modern Literature Immoral?' Is Topic Discussed Yesterday At Weekly Luncheon

"The outstanding difference between the writers of yesterday and those of today lies in the fact that the writers of yesterday were altogether too arbitrary," declared Rowse B. Wilcox, of the department of English yesterday noon at the World Forum luncheon. "Dickens' writings represent the worst of yesterday's literature."

In his discussion on the subject, "Is Modern Literature Immoral?" he continued, "the characters playing in the hero, heroine, and villain type which filled the novels of the last century. If interested in education in relation to literature a person may derive a great deal of good and can obtain valuable information from reading Kilpatrick's book on the subject."

Faculty Is Old

Mr. Wilcox spoke of the errors of many of our great thinkers, notably Aristotle, who misjudged and advocated some unsound theories concerning the spots on the sun and the speed that light travels. In the same ancient way, Mr. Wilcox stated, we are being taught by a faculty that was educated two and three generations ago, who do not realize that they are teaching a new and different generation.

Volley-Ball Tourney Will Be Held April 2

W. A. A. volleyball season will last three weeks longer. According to volley-ball manager, Genevieve Carroll, five practices will be required for points and for eligibility for teams. As the season only permits six practices, all those who wish points should plan to get their five practices in as early as possible.

Practices are held Tuesday and Thursday at 5 o'clock. The tournament will be held the week of April 2, and color teams will probably be chosen.

P. B. K., SIGMA XI BRING WENDT HERE FOR TALK

'Creative Artist in Research' Is Topic of Lecture to Be Given Monday

MEETING IS TO BE OPEN

Honorary Societies Sponsor Annual Speech; Held in Morrill Hall

Dr. G. L. Wendt, director of the Battelle Memorial Institute at Columbus, Ohio, will speak on "The Creative Artist in Research" at the annual lecture sponsored by the University of Nebraska honorary societies, Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi, next Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Morrill Hall auditorium. The meeting is open to the public.

Dr. Wendt has just resigned his position as dean of the School of Chemistry and Physics at the Pennsylvania State College to assume the position of director of the Battelle Memorial Institute, which was founded under the will of Gordon Battell of Columbus for scientific and industrial research. The Institute is devoted especially to pure research in chemistry, physics, and problems of American industry.

Editor of the Chemistry Review, Dr. Wendt is also connected with several other magazines and periodicals. He organized and directed the first session of the Institute of Chemistry, the American Chemical Society, which was held at Pennsylvania State College in the summer of 1927. He was previously in charge of scientific work for the Standard Oil company at Whiting, Indiana, and during the war was in the chemical warfare service research at the American university.

A dinner will be given in honor of Mr. Wendt and Dr. E. C. Stakman, who will speak at the Sigma Xi meeting Tuesday, March 20, at the University Club at 5:45 o'clock, preceding the lecture.

MEETS ARE NEARLY OVER

Jimmy Lewis, director of intramural sports, has announced a schedule of horseshoe and handball contests to be played this afternoon at the coliseum. These tournaments are almost completed and Lewis is trying to get these contests out of the way so that the points may be added to the respective organizations totals as soon as possible.

Washburn Has Article In Chemistry Journal

Instructor Writes on Subject of Surface Tensions in March Issue of Paper

"Variations in the Surface Tensions of Solutions" was the discussion offered by Mr. E. R. Washburn, instructor of Chemistry, in the March issue of the Journal of Physical Chemistry.

The purpose of the research was to study the capillary rise method of studying surface tension more than it had been before," said Mr. Washburn.

"In the course of my study," he continued, "I ran across several new phenomena in connection with the properties of surfaces. These were described and explanations were advanced which, to my own satisfaction were correct."

The work gives an explanation for the great variations in previously published values for surface tensions of solutions and prescribes methods by which concordant results may be obtained.
