Council Decides to Retain Old Custom; Definite Program To Be Followed

PENALTY FOR VIOLATIONS
Special Committee to Examine Rule Breakers; Rush Week Dates Are Set

A definite probation week program, to supplant the one recently abolished, was accepted by the Interfraternity Council at its regular meeting Thursday evening, as submitted by the committee appointed to present a new plan. The action on the part of the council came after a great deal of adverse criticism had been brought against the pre-initiation ceremonies of Nebraska fraternities.

The motion accepted is as follows: (1) The period known as probation week or informal initiation week shall start on the second Thursday after the week of registration for the second semester of the school year. (2) That it shall not start until 10:00 P. M. on that day and shall not last longer than midnight on the following day.

SECOND FLOOR WORK GOES ON

Concrete Is Poured for Next Story of Andrews Hall; Is Assuming Form

DIGGING HEAT TUNNELS

Concrete is being poured for the second story floor of Andrews Hall this week, following a week of work by brick layers in getting the partition walls on the second floor in. Wire reinforcements are put down in the cement before it sets.

With the warmer weather of the past few days the work has speeded up considerably on the new structure. Before another month is over the building ought to be nearing the final stages in the general brick laying and putting in of the Bedford trimmings. The interior of the building has not been worked on as yet.

Some Supports Removed
Some of the temporary supports on the first floor have been removed, but outside of that the structure is still in the rough. A general notion of the arrangement of the first floor rooms can be obtained, however. The corridor extends throughout the entire length of the building, from east to west, with class rooms on both sides of the hall.

A portion of the heat tunnel has been completed, extending from the west end of the building. The tunnel is constructed of reinforced concrete. The giant crane shovel is now being used to excavate a tunnel extending north and south, joining the newly made heat passage from Andrews Hall to the main passage lying west of Morrill Hall.

Fencing Class Revives Times Of Knighthood

"Thrust, parry, guard." Not to gain skill in self-defense with an umbrella, as was once urged by a certain eastern woman's college when it offered a class in fencing, but rather to get some first class exercise—and an hour's credit, do fifteen girls gather every Monday and Wednesday night at 5 o'clock for Dr. R. G. Clapp's beginning class in fencing.

At first fencing was one of the sponsored arts of early chivalry and therefore one of the rudiments in the education of every youth of gentle birth. It then passed to a military requirement and this made a number of well qualified teachers available for private lessons and club teaching. In the early days of gymnastics the ex-drill sergeant, or maitre d'armes, was the family and school physical director and naturally introduced the foils and sabres along with the setting-up exercises.

Kept in Demand
The habit of duelling on the continent lingered on so long after the need for it had vanished that maitre d'armes and salle d'armes where one could keep in training were in demand. For this reason, particularly, the art of fencing is much better known in Europe than it is in America. There are at least three of four fencing clubs in every leading European city.

During the last twenty years abundant opportunity for women to enter meets and tournaments has been made, with the result that in Europe a great many good women fencers (Continued on Page 3.)

HERBERT HOOVER

Herbert Clark Hoover, the authentic Horatio Alger hero of a modern industrial America, now stands in the first row of the candidates for a Presidential nomination. Thanks to that fact and to the interest it arouses, plus the efforts of as devoted a corps of professional and amateur biographers as ever undertook to write columns of copy about the same man, he is easily one of the most famous figures of his generation.

A. room in the Temple Thursday evening.

"If you want to associate with corpses, make buddies of policemen, embrace unwed mothers, console murderers, and be high-batted by Fifth Avenue butlers—by all means go into newspaper work."

This is the advice tendered aspiring journalists by Miss Grace Robinson, well-known New York newspaper woman and graduate of the University of Nebraska, in the opening paragraph of an article "Situation Wanted—Female," which appears in March 17 issue of the Liberty magazine.

Lived in Omaha
In her article she gives an account of her early life in Omaha, followed by her university career here.

"At the University of Nebraska," she writes in the article, "I studied under a young professor named Gass. I was preparing to become a teacher of English, and in the semi-cloistered confines of campus life I would be content to pass my whole existence in the uni's musty old department of rhetoric.

"You should go into newspaper work," Professor Gass said one day. "You are always late with your themes, but on a newspaper you would be forced to turn in your work on time."

Began on Lincoln Paper
"So determined was he to see me start that he persuaded a friend of his, the editor of a Lincoln paper, to give me some assignments," continues the story. "They were small stuff—mostly society notes and in writing my copy I was so fearful of the exact wording that I adhered slavishly to the exact wording I saw in similar paragraphs in the paper." Miss Robinson then relates a series of experiences (Continued on Page 4)
