STAKMAN TALKS TUESDAY
Honorary Societies Will Act As Hosts at Dinner for Two Lecturers

"The Creative Artist in Research" is the subject of the annual Phi Beta Kappa-Sigma Xi lecture to be given by Dr. Gerald A. Wendt, director of Battelle Memorial Institute at Columbus, Ohio, Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Morrill hall auditorium.

LINDSEY AND FOX DEBATE MARRIAGE

Former Juvenile Judge Develops Companionate Idea in Public Argument

Former Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver and Rev. H. P. Fox of University Place debated on the subject "Shall Companionate Marriage Become Legalized?" Saturday night at the Playhouse. Each utilized thirty minutes for constructive argument, Rev. Fox having one fifteen minute rebuttal while Lindsey had two rebuttals of ten and five minutes.

Judge Lindsey explained the meaning of companionate marriage as a "proposed legalization, stabilization and direction of certain customs, privileges and practices of modern marriage, to-wit, (1) birth control, (2) divorce by mutual consent after court had failed in a humane and scientific effort to reconcile the couple, (3) no alimony to childless couples (4) the state shall undertake the education of youth and married couples in the laws of love, sex, and life to fit them for the duties of marriage and parenthood."

Rev. Fox contended that the idea was individualistic and not socialistic. "It is physiologically unsound, it is not ethically sound, it is not sociologically sound," he stated.

The purpose of the debate was to give people an understanding of companionate marriage and the arguments for and against. There was no decision drawn.

Phi Delts Hold U Hall Bell in Hotel Tumult

Have you heard of that famous Delta Tau Delta-Phi Delta game? They call it "Button, Button, who's got the U Hall Bell." You never have? Well, thereby hangs a tale.

Back in the years of the big winds, when the school had a fence around it, and weeds grew in the front yard, U Hall had a bell in its tower to remind tardy students that 8 o'clock were in session.

The Phi Delts and Delts took U Hall's prized possession one dark night. As long as they lived together everything was all right. But the split came, and they moved out, leaving nothing but old clothes.

But who was to get the bell? Both lodges built a pedestal in their houses for it, and this "Button, button" game originated. The bell was plotted for, yearned for, fought for and has shuttled back and forth between the houses with a speed as fast as a Phi Gam making an 8 o'clock. How many men have lost their lives protecting this treasure will never be known!

Delts Lose Bell
But now the plot thickens! On the night of the Delta Tau formal, the Phi Delts spirited away the bell from its pedestal in the Delt house and trundled it down to its home on (Continued on Page 4)

STUDENTS WILL MARK BALLOTS FOR PRESIDENT

Daily Nebraskan and Political Science Department Have First Straw Vote

MANY 9 O'CLOCK CLASSES

Editor of Independent Aids Colleges in Determining Campus Choice

University students will be given an opportunity to vote for their preference for president of the United States in 9 o'clock classes Wednesday. Ballots have been printed for the poll, which is being sponsored by The Daily Nebraskan assisted by the department of political science, and will be delivered to all instructors in the University.

More than sixty University classes meet at 9 o'clock on Wednesday. It was found by the Nebraskan that the largest number of students were in class at that hour than at any other. Persons not having classes may vote in any class room, or at some designated poll.

Accounts Published
A resume is being run in The Daily Nebraskan of fifteen candidates for the presidency. These articles have been selected from The Independent, and The Christian Science Monitor, or have been compiled by faculty of the department of political science. The purpose of the resume is to give students an opportunity to study briefly each man, and thus to vote intelligently. A list of the possibilities was run in last Wednesday's issue of the Nebraskan, and from that time on certain men have been reviewed in each issue.

Results of the poll will be forwarded to The Independent as part of a national college and university poll.

E. T. MEREDITH

By ALBION SEBOR
Editor, Successful Farming

By what chain of events, or achievements in life, has Edwin T. Meredith come into such prominence that he is discussed as a possible candidate on the Democrat ticket for President of the United States? He flatly refused to be considered a candidate in the 1924 campaign, and refused to be slated as Vice-President. With Mr. McAdoo out of the race for 1928, Mr. Meredith is in the public mind as a western Democratic opponent of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, who is candidate of the East and of the wet. Mr. Meredith is a pronounced dry, and advocate of equality for agriculture.

SENIOR WRITES FARMERS' FAIR PAGEANT SCENE

Maxine Churchill, Palisade, Is Author of 'Master Of Miracles'

CHARACTERS ARE CHOSEN

Development of Girl Through College Education Is Central Theme

Pageant, "Master of Miracles," which will be presented by the home economics department during Farmers' Fair, was written by Miss Maxine Churchill, of Palisade, who is a senior in the department.

This is a symbolic pageant and represents the development of a girl through her college education. In a very delightful manner Miss Churchill attempts to show how arts and sciences broaden the character of a young girl, and how essential they are to the complete education of any young woman.

The story shows Princess Elesia who has been struck deaf, dumb and lifeless by the pestilence of ignorance. By his herbs and juices, the Master of Sciences does all within his power to restore life to the princess. The "Arts" show her how to play, dance, and sing again. Princess Elesia's garments seem more unbecoming and uglier when the brownies and wood sprites dance around her and jeer at her. The Princess' restoration is complete when Prince Renie claims her for his own.

Spanish Think Americans Are Too Expeditious

(By Clifford Smith)

"Americans are always worrying about getting somewhere, with getting something; they are not satisfied with being where they are or doing what they are doing at the present. But in Spain and Portugal time is valued lightly," Professor Alexis said in his talk before the Spanish club Friday afternoon.

"Travelers through Spain complain to the conductor about the train being late. But he merely shrugs his shoulders and makes the explanation that if the train does not arrive at five, it will at least reach its destination by six, and if it does not make the trip today it will complete it by the next day, and then he asks, 'What difference does it make anyway?'"

Professor Alexis continued his discussion with a description of various cities he visited during his travels through Portugal and Spain. San Sebastian he called the summer resort of royalty. Burgos is noted for its cathedral, and Toledo is known as the museum of old Spanish architecture. Cordoba is the center of the old Moorish culture.

STUDENTS HAVE CHANCE

General admission seats to the university appearance of the Chicago Civic Opera company's performance of "Il Trovatore" will be placed on sale Monday morning, according to announcement made Saturday by John K. Selleck. The tickets will be on sale at the student activity office in the coliseum and the price is $1.

"The low price for the general admission ticket is made to place the opera performance here within the reach of every student. The University of Nebraska is bringing to the campus the greatest traveling operatic organization in the world and we are anxious that students will avail themselves of this opportunity," says Mr. Selleck.

"The general admission tickets are being placed on sale to students before townspeople, giving the university people a chance to purchase tickets before the section is filled. The section is limited and will be closed as soon as the quota is filled."

Lindsey Avers Marriages In College Good

(By Vernon V. Ketring)

"The majority of college marriages are a good thing," said Judge Ben B. Lindsey, former judge of the juvenile court, over the breakfast table Saturday morning when he was interviewed on the subject of college marriages. Judge Lindsey, founder of the companionate marriage idea, has literally shaken the world with his theory. It is based on twenty years of experience in child welfare work. In Denver, he is known as a friend and confidant to every boy or girl who has been in trouble.

"I do not advocate college marriage just because companionate marriage would make it possible," said Judge Lindsey. He went on to explain that every case was different. (Continued on Page 4)

'SPRING FROLIC' WILL BE HELD AT AG COLLEGE

Varsity Party Chairman, Eddy, Introduces New Idea to University People

PLANS SET FOR MARCH 24

Collegians Orchestra Booked For Affair; Working Up Novelty Hits

Annual Varsity "Spring Frolic" will be given at the Activities building on the Ag college campus Saturday night March 24, according to reports from the committee who have been working for some time on the annual Varsity spring party.

"Bennie" Gadd and his Collegians are booked for the party and are busy working up several novelty numbers for the Frolic. Arch Eddy, chairman of the committee, has inaugurated a new idea in Varsity parties by offering the spring number on the Ag campus instead of at the Coliseum where it is usually held.

Good Floor
The Activities building has one of the best dance floors at Nebraska and is spacious enough to accommodate the large crowd that is expected to attend the "Spring Frolic." Decorations for the party will be in accordance with the spring season and the size of the building will not hinder the decoration committee as the Coliseum has in the past.

University night, the annual fun-fest that has been a tradition at Nebraska, will not be given this year and the Varsity "Spring Frolic" on the date set for University night will offer the students a suitable substitution for the University affair.

One more party will be given by the committee before the close of the school year. It has not been decided where the farewell party will be held but plans are being made already for the event and it will probably be one of the largest all-university parties of the season.

WESEEN IS AUTHOR OF CROWELL BOOK

Nebraska English Instructor Writes Dictionary of Grammatical Terms and Usages

Professor Maurice H. Wesen, of the department of English, is the author of "Crowell's Dictionary of English Grammar and Handbook of American Usage," recently published by the Crowell Company.

Contained in the book is a list of stumbling blocks in English grammar and usage that haunt everyone who seeks to write and speak correctly. Among the principal subjects treated in the book are grammatical terms, rules of grammar, principles of composition, figures of speech, irregular verbs, sentence construction, punctuation, idiomatic usages, and prepositional usages. Space is given to college cant and slang, westernisms, foreign words and phrases, coined words, hackneyed expressions, and words that need watching.

The Crowell Company says of the book, "It is a usable compendium of grammatical and rhetorical terms and rules, of words frequently misused, and of common errors. It is a tool rather than an ornament. The material has been selected from the point of view of its usefulness, and is arranged alphabetically by subjects, taking up separately the doubtful words and expressions in common usage."

Chemists Will Study Explosives in Meeting

An open meeting of the Chemical Engineers will be held Tuesday in Room 206 of the Mechanical Engineering building. Prof. C. J. Frankforter will lecture on the manufacture and use of high explosives, and will demonstrate the properties of several. The lecture will be accompanied by an exhibit of thirty or forty high explosives and a film on their manufacture and use.
