Phi Delt's Hold U Hall Bell

South Seventeenth street, where they could smile and gaze upon its rustic beauty. Meanwhile the Delt's gnashed their teeth, and planned dark secrets.

It took nearly three months to perfect a plan, and complete preparations were finished yesterday.

Now it happened that the Phi Delt's had planned their annual banquet and spring party last night—the night of all nights to leave the bell unprotected. But the Phi Delt's were wise and took the bell with them to the banquet.

Delts consulted among themselves, and decided that after all the bell plan to get the bell would be to go to the Lincoln Hotel, walk into the banquet room, carry out the bell and very little would be said.

Accordingly, the Delta Tau huskies drew in a deep breath and bore down upon the peaceful Phi Delt banquet where also sat solemn alumni and their more solemn wives.

The story ends there, except for some few minor details about numerous plates and glasses being slammed to the floor, youthful athletes being pushed, trampled and mauled, table-cloths hung on chandeliers, the solemn alumni standing wide-eyed and awed with backs to the wall. Then the management called the police and spoiled all the fun. The riot squad pulled up and entered the festive room, bringing with them a very quiet atmosphere. The party was all over then.

Lindsey Avers Marriages Good

ent, but that there are many many cases where it is desirable. If the couple are earnest and sincere, and wish to be married, and if their parents are willing that they should, then it will do much to improve the morality of our colleges and would help to do away with many abnormal and unhealthy cases.

Eliminates Unrest College marriages, he said, if of the proper kind, does much to add to the happiness and efficiency of the couple. At least they are enabled to live a healthy normal life. They are properly mated, unrest and dissatisfaction are eliminated.

College marriages, of a necessity, except in rare cases, would have to be on the companionate basis. "I know that a great majority of companionate marriages eventually turn out to be family couples," said the judge. By family couples is meant having one or more children.

At the present time, marriage is undertaken only when the economic condition of the couple allows. Marriage is a thing that should be governed by the biological condition of the couple, rather than the economic, he went on. Economic conditions of college students should not deprive them of normal relationship if they biologically fitted for marriage. It is this condition that causes immorality and dissatisfaction.

"It should be realized," said Judge Lindsey, "that the youth of the country need the financial aid of their parents just as much the first few years of their married life as they do during their school life." He went on to explain, however, that this was a condition that varied with the financial ability of the parents to help their children. "It would be much more wholesome and honest if society would recognize their right to get married this side of economic independence even if financial aid is necessary." As soon as this custom is established, he went on, the better it will be for the family life.
