

Gordon
V LINE

WHAT AN ARTIST SEES IN A BEAUTIFUL ANKLE

In the perfectly-formed bare ankle of his model, the eye of the artist sees two graceful, contour-revealing shadows, tapering softly from heel to rounded calf.

It is these lovely natural shadows that Gordon has woven into the famous V-line heel. A new thing in hosiery—and yet so beautifully, inevitably right that smart women will always wear it.

Exclusive Gordon colors to harmonize with the season's fabric tones and smart new shoes. In chiffon or semi-service weight, the V-line is $2.50.

Yetter Wins Finals Of Net Tournament

Durisch and Ables, Lincoln, Take Doubles in State High School Contest

Yetter, of University Place, won from Hoag, Wesleyan high, in the final round of the state high school singles tennis tournament, 6-3, 6-4, Saturday afternoon, on the University courts.

In the doubles competition, Durisch and Ables, of Lincoln, defeated Yetter and Anderson, University Place, 8-10, 6-2, 9-7, in the final round. The tournament, held in conjunction with track and field meet, was played Friday and Saturday on the University courts.

This Week Is Set Aside for Registration

(Continued from Page 1) student must appear before the dean of the college who will approve the courses. Women may consult Dean Amanda Heppner, but her signature is not required.

The registrar urges all students to register as early in the week as possible, thereby avoiding congestion during the closing days, and eliminating the inconvenience of registering for a closed class.

Statements for next semester's fees will be mailed in August, so students are requested to be sure to include their summer address on their schedule slips, and to notify the registrar's office if any change is made.

Cornhusker Is Due Wednesday

New Features
Workers on University publications are very enthusiastic about it, according to rumors that have reached The Daily Nebraskan office. Except for a few staff members, the book will be a mystery until its release. The cover of this year's Cornhusker is entirely new and very attractive. A color combination involving maroon, gray, and gold is displayed on the cover of the book. "The students have supported the Cornhusker very well this year," stated Charles Bruce. "To date more books have been ordered than at this time last year, and as fewer books are being printed, it is thought that they will all be gone soon after distribution starts."

Office Teems as Applicants Await Decision

Present editors and business managers were especially popular. Why? It was the one day that they might enjoy such popularity (deserved or not.) Recalling former times, these executives would touch on the "old days" when the bulletin board out in front of the school would broadcast the news of the elections as they were made.

One of our own last lines came from the well-known Beta feature story writer in voicing the subtle remark that he believed the appointments would fall way short in number with the disappointments.

Well, here's how—and may the best men win (if there are such things existing other than at weddings.)

Phi Sigma Kappa Nine Defeats A. G. R.'s, 18-1

Phi Sigma Kappa took the measure of Alpha Gamma Rho in a baseball game yesterday, 18 to 1. The Alpha Gamma Rho's, who were considered strong, were let down with only two hits, while the Phi Sigs came through for fifteen.

Woods and Tobin were batteries for Phi Sigma Kappa, while Roddy, Hartman and Stone performed on the mound and behind the bat for Alpha Gamma Rho.

The Phi Sigs victory brings league five of the interfraternity tourney into a three-way tangle for first place between Alpha Gamma Rho, Phi Sigma Kappa and Theta Xi.

Wesley Players Will Perform at Beatrice

Wesley Players, Methodist dramatic organization, will present "The Rock," three act religious play, at Beatrice, Sunday evening. This is the sixteenth production of this drama by the Players during the year and their final out-of-town appearance for the season.

One more production will be given in Lincoln before the close of the school year. This will be at Elm Park Methodist church, Sunday evening, May 27.

Blackman Will Study Ruins Near Franklin

E. E. Blackman, curator of the Nebraska State Historical society museum, left Lincoln May 10 for a trip to Franklin county, where workmen have unearthed some ancient ruins, not far from the town of Franklin.

The ruins are evidently from the time before the Indians had contact with the whites, and Mr. Blackman desires to study these ruins in order to settle, if possible, some problems in the archeology of the Republican Pawnees, who occupied that area in pre-historic days.
