Railroad Executive Believes Many Scientific Attitudes Are Developed

TRAINED SPECIALISTS NEEDED IN BUSINESS

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles The Daily Nebraskan will publish in which business executives discuss the problem faced by the college graduate in the business world. Today's article was written for The Nebraskan by Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy railroad company.

A college course, of itself, cannot be expected to endow the graduate with the knowledge and judgment needed to guide him in a business career. The best it can do is to develop in him a scientific habit of mind—a capacity of logical process that will help him in the future to analyze and solve his problems.

As an immediate result of college the average student shows little beyond a general acquaintance with several subjects and more or less definite signs of mental discipline—a miscellaneous collection of tools which only experience can teach him to use. If as an undergraduate he has chosen his vocation and directed his studies accordingly, so much the better, but I am speaking of the general average.

College Provides Basis

What I mean to say is that in the nature of things the learning gained at college cannot be profound, but can only provide a base on which to erect the main structure of education. If the individual is to go far it seems to me that he must not fail to take thought of the innumerable divisions and subdivisions in the o-

United States Leads Nations in Number of University Students

Washington, D. C.—(IP)—That there are more college students in America than in all other countries combined is the estimate made recently by the Federal Bureau of Education here.

Figures given out by the bureau place the number of students in colleges and universities in the United States at one million, and in the rest of the world 950,000.

Many Are in High School

The bureau also estimated that there are in American high schools today 4,200,000 students, against 5,700,000 for all the rest of the world. In schools of all kinds, according to the figures, America has a total of 29,000,000 students, or practically one-fourth of the total population of the country.

Report Shows Island of Faoon Has Reappeared

Washington, D. C.—(IP)—The Smithsonian Institute has received a report from Dr. Andrew Thompson of the Apia Observatory in Western Samoa, of the reappearance of the island of Faoon, in the Goro sea. The island has been submerged for over a quarter of a century.

Preceding the reappearance of the island, Dr. Thompson reported there was a violent earthquake and volcanic eruption in the vicinity.

Daily Nebraskan Staff Is Not Yet Appointed

No announcements were issued by the Student Publication board after the meeting held last night, the board apparently remaining deadlocked after its second meeting of this spring. The Publication board will meet for the third time next Monday to consider applicants for positions on The Daily Nebraskan.

The attendance has ranged from three to thirty, with alumni and people outside of the university included in the group.

Sororities Will Be Given Chance to Secure Block Tickets for Dance Presentation

Excerpts from the dance drama, "Once Upon a Time," to be given the evening of May 23 by Orchesis, honorary dancing group, will appear this week on the screen at the Lincoln theater.

Sororities will be given an opportunity to secure blocks in the reserved or bleachers sections before the tickets are placed on public sale. KOSMET KLUB BALL WILL BE GIVEN MAY 25

Farewell Party Will Replace Annual Dance Sponsored By Alumni Group

PLANS PROGRESS RAPIDLY

Proceeds from Get-Together Will Go to Playhouse Fire Debt Fund

Date of Kosmet Klub's "Farewell Ball" has been changed from Wednesday May 23 to Friday evening May 25. The final dance in the Coliseum will replace the annual alumni party sponsored by the alumni association. The association has given over their alumni dance to the Kosmet Klub who will combine the last University party and the alumni get-together.

Plans are progressing very favorably for the "Farewell Ball," according to Wendell Cameron, business manager of the Klub. "This dance at the Coliseum will give students an opportunity to stage a final get-together," remarked another member of the Klub, "and will permit alumni to join with the present students in a last party."

Will Apply Proceeds on Debt

Proceeds from the "Farewell Party" will be used on the debt contracted by Kosmet Klub in the playhouse fire. A record crowd is expected for the party, for fraternity and sorority parties are not being scheduled for that evening. The "Farewell-Ball" will give everyone a chance to say "goodbye" until next year, according to plans of Kosmet Klub.

The get-together party was planned from the idea used in the University of Kansas. Each fraternity and sorority on the Kansas campus will be invited. (Continued on Page 2.)

Government Examination of Cadet Regiment Will Be Continued Today

R. C. BAIRD REVIEWS UNIT

Annual inspection of Nebraska's R. O. T. C. unit, headed by Major Raymond C. Baird, inspecting officer of the seventh corps area, started Monday afternoon. The main part of the inspection was completed, but companies drilling at their regular hours today will be inspected by the government officers.

Close order drill, pitching tents, calisthenics, guard mounting, military sketching and machine gun drill were reviewed by the visiting officers. During the parade and inspection a slow rain fell over the thirteen companies of Nebraska's R. O. T. C. A number of persons gathered around the drill field to view the 1928 inspection.

Inspection Progresses

"The inspection is progressing very satisfactorily," stated Colonel F. F. Jewett last evening. "The inspecting staff is rushing the inspection as much as possible in order to get through." BUSINESS DAY IS FOUND SUCCESSFUL

South Dakota Commercial Men Show Interest in Annual Affair of New School

Vermillion, S. D., May 14.—The impression made on the minds of the business men of the state by the first Business Day held recently at the University of South Dakota by the newly organized school of business seems to indicate that the idea of holding an annual statewide exhibit and convention of business men from throughout the state has fulfilled a definite need, according to Dean E. S. Sparks, of the College of Arts and Sciences.

"With the lapse of a week or ten days I still find that occasionally I get inquiries concerning the Business Day and much interest is shown," writes a prominent chamber of commerce secretary in the state. The same writer in his letter prophesied much greater interest in the affair next year.

Another writer, a prominent business man of Sioux Falls, has written the dean expressing his pleasure in attending the program, and his belief that the idea of a Business Day for the state should be pushed as the first convention was already doing a great deal of good in the state. Still another writer states that "it was a big undertaking, carried through to a splendid close."

MRS. A. E. SHELDON GIVES TALK ON WAR

International Relations Institute Ends Series of Addresses Monday Evening

Mrs. A. E. Sheldon gave the final address in a series of six promoted by the Institute of International Relations, Monday evening at the First Christian church. The topic of the talk was "The Cause and Cure of War."

In her introductory remarks, Mrs. Sheldon pointed out some of the ways in which Nebraska has played a large part in the history of the country. Nebraska has always been in the route for transcontinental travel from the time of the first explorers, to the present air mail routes. Nebraska was the center of the dispute regarding slavery.

Is In Strategic Position

The rivalry of the two factions in Nebraska and Kansas did much to bring about the final crisis before the Civil War. Later Nebraska was a leader in the agricultural problems agitation, which has not yet come to an end.

Nebraska, although it is an inland territory, has a very good slant on the international problem. She has a very diversified population, including representatives from nearly every country in Europe. The rivalry and friction between these races in Nebraska has been negligible.

Mrs. Sheldon pointed out the fact (Continued on Page 2.)

English Department Commends Students

Six High School Participants in Recent Academic Contests Receive Praise

The work was of a far higher quality than it has been previously, the judges said, and great difficulty was experienced in determining the prize winners. Finally ten papers of almost equal excellence were selected (Continued on Page 2.)
