BISHOP F. B. FISHER GIVES TALK ON INDIA

Customs and Problems of Asiatic Country Are Presented at Convocation

"America has the greatest open mindedness now that she has ever had," declared Bishop Fred B. Fisher of Calcutta, India, in his lecture entitled "Christ and the Races of Men," given Monday morning at university convocation, held at the Temple theater.

Bishop Fisher commented on Katherine Mayo's "Mother India" as being unfair to India. He said that India needs kindly criticism just as does America to draw each other towards peace and understanding rather than hatred.

Situation Changed

"India once looked to America as a land of freedom, opportunity, and literary accomplishment," he declared, "but Mayo's book has tended to change this condition, and it has been at least partly responsible for the legislation by the Indian legislature which permits the levying of a tariff on American goods."

The social problems of India are tremendous, Bishop Fisher stated. The economic conditions are in an equally bad position. He pointed out how the Indians have had to face problems and conditions that people in the temperate regions have not had to consider.

"The climatic conditions of India are a very large factor in the backwardness of the people of India," continued the bishop, "and they have (Continued on Page 2.)

"A Knight at Sea," a story by "Bill" McCleery concerning "one who loved and lost and then went on another picnic," and "Ida Juanta" are the two leading stories in the May issue of the Awgwan, which was released yesterday afternoon. The issue had been named the "farewell" number, and the entire magazine is developed around this idea.

INNOCENTS WILL GIVE TROPHY TO GRIDIRON VICTOR

Winner of Nebraska-Missouri Annual Game Will Get Large Bronze Bell

AWARD WILL HAVE 'M', 'N'

First Presentation Will Be Next Fall Following Grid Contest

Winner of the Missouri-Nebraska football game next fall will be presented by the Innocents society of the University with a large bronze bell. From that time on this victory trophy will be presented each year to the victorious team of the combination.

Missouri and Nebraska have been considered the keenest and closest competitors and rivals for football honors in the Missouri Valley in recent years. The Innocents society has started this custom of offering the "victory bell" to the winner between these schools to add to the enthusiasm. In case of a tie the bell will remain in the possession of the university that won it the preceding year, making it a true victory trophy.

The bell will be mounted on a standard so that it may be carried out on the field during each Missouri-Nebraska grid tilt. It may also be used by the school in whose possession it is for rallies. On one side of the bell a large "M" will stand out while the opposite side will present an "N".

The presentation of this new custom by the Innocents society of 1927-28 resembles the tradition of the "brown jug" between Minnesota and Wisconsin. The past actions of Missouri and Nebraska prove them keen and friendly rivals and worthy of the "victory bell" in the opinion of the society.

STUDENTS CONTINUE PARKING DISCUSSION

Howell, Mentzer, Triveli, Express Disapproval of Present Parallel System

That parallel parking around the University is a disadvantage and a useless change is still the opinion of many of the students on the campus. William Mentzer, '29, Cheyenne, Wyo., said yesterday that the university area should be regulated to the best advantage of the students. He stated, "parking space near the University is limited and should be used as advantageously as possible. I think city officials should give some consideration to the opinions of the student body of the school."
