

LEAGUE GRIDSTERS LINE UP FOR ACTION

First of Freshman Tournament Games Scheduled For This eWeek

EIGHT TEAMS ENTERED

The first of the freshman league football games will be held this week when eight teams will get into action. The games will be played Wednesday, Thursday and Friday but the exact schedule has not been announced.

The games for this week are Western Nebraska versus Kansas, Omaha versus Lincoln, Southeastern Nebraska versus Outstate and the Agricultural College versus "Choppy" Rhodes' coaching class. Three of these teams have been selected to represent different portions of the state.

Each squad has twenty men and it is planned to play a round robin schedule. Any team may challenge the team immediately above it in the standing. The Agricultural upperclassmen are not in the league but will play one team in the league each week. The freshmen at the College of Agriculture will organize a team which will be in the league.

Each Team Plays

It is planned to permit each team in the league to play the freshman squad, and if any men show well in the intra-mural games they will be promoted to the freshman team. Some of the intra-mural teams may have a chance to scrimmage against the Varsity later in the year.

Each team will use a different system of play. The Rockne, Zuppke, Jones and Warner systems will be tried out.

Freshman numerals will be given to all men who play in the league games for the entire season. In addition, they will be admitted to all varsity games free. In these games men will have a better chance to show up well than if they were all on the freshman team. The squads are organized and working on plays now, but it is not too late for additional material. More teams will be organized if enough material appears.

The team coaches are as follows: H. B. "Jess" Willard, Lincoln and Omaha; Victor Beck, Southeast; Mel Collins, Western; Ralph Andrews, Agricultural College freshmen; "Choppy" Rhodes, coaching class, and Wilbur Knight, Agricultural College.

Officials will be wanted for these games. Any student wishing to officiate may sign up at the athletic office. Officials will be paid $1.50 per game.
