

MIZZOU VICTORY GIVES HUSKERS BOOST UPWARDS

Supremacy Over Big Six Is Shown in Contest With Tigers

MEET JAYHAWKERS NEXT

Kansas, Oklahoma, Aggie Crews Are Threats in Husker Path

(By Jack Elliott)

Nebraska's Cornhusker football team is ruling supreme over the Big Six conference by virtue of its 24 to 0 victory over the Missouri Tigers on Memorial Stadium field last Saturday. There were no doubts left in the minds of the 24,000 football fans who witnessed the classic Homecoming day as to who was dictator in Missouri-Nebraska football circles.

Big Six Standing

Team	W	L	T	Pct.
Nebraska	2	0	0	1.000
Kansas	1	0	1	1.000
Oklahoma	1	0	0	1.000
Missouri	1	1	0	.500
Iowa State	0	2	1	.000
Kansas Aggies	0	2	0	.000

Two victories in the conference have been marked up by the Scarlet and Cream Cornhuskers and two victories with non-conference teams. So far this season this is the best record among the conference teams. Kansas and Oklahoma have not turned in a conference defeat as yet but the Sooners went down before the Indiana eleven and Kansas failed to eke out a victory over the Washington crew, being the Bears, 7 to 7.

Was Decisive Victory

The Homecoming day game on Memorial Stadium field last week may have a great deal to do in determining the championship of the conference. The Sooners and Jayhawkers are next on the Husker schedule and if Nebraska can put those two eleven out of the way, Kansas Aggie will be the sole remaining barrier to victory and championship in the first football season of Big Six playing. None of the conference opponents left on the Husker schedule are to be snapped at.

Kansas has always given a hard battle for Nebraska and the Jayhawkers are pointing for a victory over Coach Bear's scarlet clad warriors. Last year Nebraska humbled the men from the Kaw in a Homecoming classic on the home field. And this year the mighty Huskers journey to Lawrence to

SWANSON IS ELECTED TO ATHLETIC BOARD

Holtz Is Named Again As Secretary-Treasurer By Alumni

Clarence E. Swanson, former Cornhusker football captain and All-American gridster, was elected alumni representative on the athletic board at a meeting of the executive committee of the University Alumni association Saturday morning.

Swanson succeeds Max Towle of Lincoln, another former Nebraska football star. Harold F. Holtz was re-elected secretary and treasurer of the association. The executive committee is composed of five members. Arthur Dobson of Lincoln is president of the alumni body.

TIGER GAME DRAWS CROWD OF 34,000

A preliminary checkup by the Student Activities office showed that there were 32,000 spectators who paid admission to the Missouri game. The Knoolie club brought the total attendance of the game to approximately 34,000.

Ticket sales for the Pittsburgh game have been brisk, and a very nearly full house is expected for the big intersectional game. Plenty of good tickets are still available for those wishing them.

Huskies Are Well Represented in The Field of Professional Football

Former Cornhusker football players are making names for themselves in professional gridiron circles this year. A large number of them are playing now while some of them have retired from football because of business interests.

Verne Lewellen and Edwin Weir, both former football captains at Nebraska, are two of the most outstanding professional football players in the country. Lewellen is playing for the Green Bay Packers and is probably the outstanding man on the team. He still sends his punts high and 70 yards in distance. "Pit" Purdy, Nebraska high school star, played for that aggregation last year.

Weir, who was almost unanimously accorded a position on All-American teams in his senior year at Nebraska, is captain and manager of the Frankford, Pennsylvania, Yellowjacket team. He succeeded Guy Chamberlain, another

JAYHAWKER

Hargis came to Kansas from Emporia where his fame on the gridiron spread throughout the Kansas conference. Saturday afternoon Hargis will send his charges against the Nebraska Cornhuskers in a Big Six conference game at Lawrence.

History Gives Huskers Edge On Jayhawkers

When the Nebraska eleven meets the Kansas team at Lawrence, Saturday, it will attempt to continue the long record of Nebraska conquests over Kansas.

The two teams have played thirty-four games. Of these, Nebraska has won twenty-three, Kansas has annexed nine, and two have been tied.

During the period of football relations between the two schools, the Cornhuskers have piled up a total of 515 points. The Jayhawks were forced to be satisfied with 211. Nebraska has not lost a battle on the Jayhawk gridiron since 1895.

Nebraska has seemingly increased in superiority in the last three years. In 1925, the margin of victory was comparatively narrow, the score being 14-0.

In 1926, the tally was 20-3. In spite of the seemingly uneven

AUTHOR SENDS MONEY FOR ROYALTIES BACK

University Players Receive Money From Rose Palmer In Interest of Art

FIRST TIME IN HISTORY

"A million for education but not one cent for war" must in some measure be a slogan of Rose A. Palmer, school teacher and co-author of "Caponaschi," the play dramatization of Browning's "Ring and the Book."

Proof of Miss Palmer's attitude toward educational projects and the presentation of good drama was the fact that she returned yesterday to Ray Ramsay, business manager of the University Players, her share of the royalty on the play "Caponaschi," which was presented last spring.

According to Ramsay, all the plays enacted by the University Players are royalty plays, the royalty of which is from fifty to three hundred dollars, depending upon the length of the run. This is the first time in the history of the Players that such a request has been made from the author of the play.

Author Has Difficulty.

When Browning's long and unwieldy poem, "The Ring and the Book" was first dramatized by Miss Palmer, a school teacher of Washington, D. C., it was brought before the attention of Walter Hampden, one of New York's foremost play producers. Although thought favorable for presentation by Mr. Hampden, "Caponaschi" was not given much attention, until Arthur Goodrich, brother-in-law of Mr. Hampden, and noted playwright, requested that he help Miss Palmer in revising the play for production.

"Caponaschi" was the first serious play that Arthur Goodrich ever attempted to deal with, his talent having been placed along farcical lines, as his big London and New York success, "So This is London." After being rewritten, "Caponaschi" was presented for production by its co-authors, Miss Palmer and Mr. Goodrich.

It was accepted by Walter Hampden for production in his own theater in New York City, and he

A discussion of the southern "you all" is continued in this issue by Estelle Rees Morrison, a graduate of Nebraska. Brief comments in the miscellany column were made by Mamie Meredith, a graduate student at the University of Nebraska, and by Wilbur Gaffney who received his A.M. degree here last spring.

More Than 150 Students Entered in the Contest For Two Prizes

The sales campaign for the 1929 Cornhusker started yesterday morning and is well under way, according to Bruce H. Thomas, business manager. It is not yet too late for individuals and organizations to enter the competition for prizes offered by the Nebraska year-book's business staff.

MANY CONTRIBUTORS WRITE FOR AWGWAN

November 'Futuristic' Issue Promises to Be Best Number So Far

ISSUE NOVEMBER TENTH

With a large staff at work on the publication, and some outstanding contributions on hand, the "Mod-ernistic" number of the Awgwan is being rounded into shape in readiness for its appearance on the campus Nov. 10. It was announced Monday by Kenneth G. Anderson, editor.

The cover will again be one of those popular and clever three-color drawings by James Pickering and Margaret Keating has drawn an attractive frontispiece for the November issue of the magazine. Some of the best cartoon work that has yet appeared in the Nebraska year-book will be included in the "Mod-ernistic" issue. From the pens of the bushes of Helen Chase, Gay Williams, Margaret Keating, Frank Roehl, James Pickering, A. C. Powell, Ray Crabtree and H. D. Van Natta.

Twenty Thousand Legs Under the Sea" is the title of Bill T. McCleery's feature story for the "Mod-ernistic" number and is one of those popular stories that only the Awgwan's perennial story writer can produce. Virginia Faulkner's book review section will be another highlight of the magazine. A style section displaying the latest fads in men's wear will also have a place in the paper.

It is in the short jokes and poems that determine the success of a college humor magazine, according to Anderson, and with the wealth of material of this nature on hand the November number promises to meet with extended popularity. Fourteen students have contributed to this department of the magazine and include: Evelyn Simpson, Virginia Faulkner, R. W. Laing, George Thomas, Cliff Sandahl, Ann Rothenberg, Lee Daniels, Marguerite Danielson, Elmont Waite, Warren Childs, Elsie Brofey, Dorothy Proffit, and Douglas Zimmerman, the latter furnishing a great share of the short jokes and quips.

A number of students have given general assistance to the staff and additional aid of this nature is solicited by those in charge of the publications. Anyone desiring to assist in the publication of the "Mod-ernistic" and other numbers of the Awgwan office in the basement of University hall as soon as possible.

Students Lose Eggs, Milk in Morrill Hall

"Don't believe it when you hear that artists aren't domestically inclined," comes word from the School of Fine Arts.

Several eggs in a small paper bag were left in one of the classrooms of the school a few days ago. Other edibles were found from time to time. Two bottles of milk were found in a student's locker by one of the assistants not long ago.

So far no agitation for a cooking class in Morrill hall has been heard of, but that, too, may come.

Prof. A. A. Reed, director of the university extension division, spoke Wednesday of last week in Omaha to the conference on the department of citizenship of the Nebraska Federation Women's Clubs.

'Goodwill Ambassador' From Japan Takes Lodging in University Museum

One of Fifty-Eight Dolls of Oriental Birth Ends Long Travels and Is Given Permanent Home at Nebraska

A "Goodwill Ambassador" from Japan has ended her travels in the University of Nebraska museum.

Fifty-eight dolls were sent by Japanese children to America to return the expression of friendship initiated by American children who sent dolls to Japan last year. One of these, "Miss Miyako," after being exhibited in many cities of the United States, has been permanently placed in the University of Nebraska museum.

Doll is 32 Inches Tall

"Miss Miyako" is thirty-two inches tall and represents a Japanese child. She brings with her accessories which a Japanese girl would have on the day she leaves the home of her parents for that of her husband. She was sent by children and the people of the prefecture of Miye.

"Miss Miyako" was one of the escorts of "Miss Japan," the doll sent to America by the Empress of Japan and now in the National museum at Washington, D. C. Dolls were sent from each of the prefectures of Japan and six of the principal cities, and, are being placed now in the largest museums in the country.

Brings Accessories

The accessories which come with "Miss Miyako" include a hand-painted silk-bamboo parasol, two pairs of shoes, one brocaded pair as the Japanese wear in the house and a loquacious pair for outdoor wear, and a complete formal tea set in miniature.

"The naturalness of the eyes and the real appearance of the hair alone make the doll worth seeing," said Miss Marjorie Shanefelt, of the university museum, who is preparing the doll for display. She also complimented on the obi, an article of clothing worn by Japanese which is tied in the back with a knot that is practically impossible for other peoples to learn.

Display Pictures of Helpers.

Photographs and letters from from children who helped to send the doll will be put on display with "Miss Miyako." The letters are being translated into English by Jadao Nishikawa, a Japanese student at the university.

The number of Japanese children who worked to send the dolls to America was more than 2,610,000. The goodwill messengers sent from America are now on display in Japanese cities. "Miss America" is in the Imperial Educational museum at Tokyo. The movement was initiated by the Committee on World Friendship among Children instituted by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

FARMERS' FORMAL IS SET FOR NOVEMBER 9

Third Annual Event for Ag Students Promises Novel Features

Friday night, November 9, has been set as the date for the Farmers' Formal, feature of the program of Agriculture and Home Economics students, to be held in the Student Activities building on the College of Agriculture campus. It is the third annual event of this kind.

Ormand Benedict, 29, is in charge of the executive committee this year, with Fred Grau '30, handling the decorations. Elaborate plans for a real out-of-doors atmosphere have been made.

Although preceding the Military Ball, this affair has full formal rank, as evidenced by the overalls and calico of the farmers and farm-ettes.

Hayricks, reminiscent of the good old days, will cover a scheduled route over the city, going to various sorority and fraternity houses in search of victims.

Plans Not Definite.

No real low-down can be obtained of the character of the music, whether it will feature old-time waltzes, or be confined to more modern time, according to the chairman of arrangements.

Lincoln's first real official-date bureau will burst into action for the formal. Everyone is urged to leave his or her name with Robin Spence, chairman, who promises to

DEBATERS GET READY FOR POLITICAL TILT

Al Smith and Hoover Men Are Busy Compiling Addresses

IS CAMPUS INNOVATION

Both teams who will take part in the political debate to be started Thursday night, November 1, have made definite progress in their work. The republican team chosen by the Hoover-Curtis club is composed of Evert Hunt, George Johnson, and W. F. Mateschullat. This team will start the debate and try to prove that the republican policies and candidates are the best in the coming election.

The democratic team, composed of David Fellman, John Skiles, and Leon Sprague, will try to tear down the republican arguments and replace them with their own. Much interest is expected in the debate because each team will be given a wide field, limited only to the party candidates or policies in their work. The Hoover-Curtis club, headed by W. F. Mateschullat challenged the Al Smith club to a debate on the question of politics. James Cody, president of the Al Smith club accepted the challenge, and both clubs have been diligently working on the question ever since. The place of the debate is unknown as yet, but will be announced probably tomorrow.

Each debater will be allowed ten minutes for his talk. Members of both political clubs on the campus express complete confidence in their respective teams. That the debate will be close and interesting is unquestioned.

The idea of a political debate between students on the University of Nebraska campus is entirely new. The members of the political clubs have introduced the idea on the campus, and if it is a success, there will probably be more in later years.

HUSKER ROOTERS WILL SEE KANSAS TILT VIA SPECIAL

Train Bearing Nebraskans Will Leave Saturday Morning at 6

FARE IS FOUR DOLLARS

Hopes for Big Delegation at Game Is Materially Aided by Plan

Definite announcement was received from the Nebraska athletic office, Monday, that a special train would be run from Lincoln to Lawrence, Kas., for the Nebraska-Kansas football game scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 3. The special will leave Lincoln Saturday morning at 6 o'clock, arriving in Lawrence at 12 noon, returning from Lawrence at 11:59 Saturday evening and arriving back in Lincoln at 7:30 Sunday morning.

The change of the departing schedule from Friday evening to Saturday morning will eliminate one night ride on the train and will enable the athletic board to send a larger delegation of freshmen football players as well as increase the total of the board. It is also hoped that eliminating one night ride on the train will be more conducive to a larger delegation of Nebraska students.

May Buy Pullman.

Round trip fares from Lincoln to Lawrence and back on the special will be sold for $4. This does not include a Pullman berth as the special will not carry Pullman cars on the trip from Lincoln. If students desire to have a Pullman ticket for the Saturday night return trip they must buy their tickets before leaving. Pullman tickets will be sold for $6.70 round trip, which does not include the cost of their berth. Lower berths will cost $1.28 and upper $1.50. The special will carry Pullmans to the return trip from Lawrence.

The full university board will make the trip as well as the freshman squad as has been the custom. They will make the trip on the special.
