

INTER-RACIAL TALKS WILL HEAD VESPERS

Misses Horton and Hill Will Discuss Pro and Con of Colored Question

"Along the Color Line" will be the general topic, different phases of which will be discussed at the Vespers service which will be held this afternoon in Ellen Smith hall at 5 o'clock. The meeting is in charge of the inter-racial staff of the Y. W. C. A., a group which is made up of all the colored girls on the campus, and interested white girls.

FIRST BLOOD IS DRAWN IN CAGE TOURNAMENT

Alpha Theta, Sig Alpha, Phi Sig and Pi Kappa Alpha Win

The class "A" inter-fraternity basketball tournament swung into the first round yesterday afternoon in the Coliseum. Four games were played.

Phi Kappa Loses

Phi Kappa Alpha doubled the score on Phi Kappa, and won 12-6. High scorers were Manley, with seven points for the winners, and Campbell, with six points for the losers.

The most clear-cut defeat of the afternoon was handed to the Sigma Phi Sigma basketball team by the Phi Sigma Kappa team. Kimball tallied eleven points, while his team-mate, Suter, scored nine. Rutledge sank the lone basket for the losers.

The first round games continue today with the following teams scheduled to see action:

League I:
Alpha Tau Omega vs. Tau Kappa Epsilon, floor 2, 4 o'clock; Delta Theta Phi vs. Beta Theta Pi, floor 3, 8:35 o'clock.

League II:
Kappa Psi vs. Lambda Chi Alpha,

Sixty-Six Cents Per Day Buys Meals For Average Student at Cafeteria

The average cost of meals for those who eat at the Temple cafeteria is 22 cents, according to Mrs. Louise Vining, manager. This is an average for each of the three meals a day and would therefore make a total of 66 cents for all three meals.

The Temple cafeteria is run by the University for the benefit of the students. The purpose of the regents in establishing it was to make it possible for the students to get good meals at reasonable prices. "Our food is cheap," said Mrs. Vining, "but we do not serve cheap food."

The cafeteria charges just enough to pay for the operating expenses. The number of students served each day varies considerably but it averages from 750 to 1000. The largest numbers are served at noon lunch.

Contrary to original plans, it has been decided that fraternity athletic managers shall choose officials themselves. However, in case there is difficulty in selecting a referee, the athletic office will be prepared to offer assistance in the form of a list of possible officials.

GROUND IS BROKEN FOR BUILDING AT COLORADO

Brigadier General Bowley Is Honored Guest at The Ceremony

Fort Collins, Nov. 20.—Brig. Gen. Albert L. Bowley, commanding general of the eighth army corps area, who made an inspection of the Colorado Argie cadets here today, also broke ground for the excavation for the new college military classroom building.

Construction of the first story of the new building was formally begun by this act. Contract for the work was awarded to the C. E. Walker Construction company of Denver, on its bid of $10,625. It was announced by President Chas. A. Lory, of the college.

Ultimately the structure will be two stories high, but it cannot be completed with present funds. Its dimensions are 48 by 132 feet. Construction of the inclosure, which will consist of the foundations, walls, steel and brick framework and a temporary flat roof, will be financed by money received from the state insurance fund as a result of the fire which destroyed two military barracks buildings two years ago. The college has been paid the $80,000 in the state insurance fund at the time of the fire, all of which has been used for replacement of buildings and equipment.

The new building will be located just west of the new dairy and meat laboratory building, which will be completed about December 1, by which time the laboratory machinery ordered is expected to be installed.

The military building will provide six classrooms and offices for the commandant and his staff. It will be built of white manganese brick and steel, in conformity with the other new buildings on the campus. Floor joists for the second story will be placed during the construction of the building so that it may be completed with as little difficulty as possible when funds are available.

GREGG SENDS NEW ART PRODUCTIONS

Word has been received by Prof. Paul H. Grumann, director of the School of Fine Arts, from Will C. Gregg of Hackensack, New Jersey, former student of the University of Nebraska and donor of the Gregg collection of etchings to the School of Fine Arts, to the effect that Mr. Gregg is sending seven new pictures to add to this collection. When Professor Grumann goes east for the Army-Nbraska game this week end, he will be the guest of Mr. Gregg.

According to the letter received, the pictures Mr. Gregg is sending are:

- Study, by Carle Michel Boeg;
- Winter Evening, by Harold T. Denison;
- Osunquilt Fish Houses, by C. Jac. Young;
- Rotunda, U. of Va., by M. Paul Roche;
- Britany Peasant, by William Averbach-Levy;
- The Builder of Little Ships, by Gordon Grant;
- Bourg, by John Taylor Arm.

The University band and football team cars will be locked on the Cornhusker schedule enroute to New York. The occupants of the cars will be urged to do some studying.

FEDDE WILL ATTEND SOUTHERN MEETINGS

Trip Will Include Atlantic City and National Capital

Prof. Margaret Fedde, chairman of the Home Economics department at the University of Nebraska, has left for a two weeks trip to the south and to the national capital city. At Atlantic City she will attend the National Council of Parental Education.

From Atlantic City, Miss Fedde will go to Washington, D. C., where she expects to attend the convention of the Land Grant colleges.

Miss Fedde will spend a day with Miss Elizabeth Shannon in Baltimore before attending the Land Grant colleges convention. Miss Shannon was formerly an instructor in the department of Home Economics at the University of Nebraska, and is now director of the art school in the Baltimore Art Museum.

FAILURE OF NEW ENGLISH STUDENTS CAUSES NEW METHODS OF TEACHING

ing, parts of speech, case of pronouns, analysis of simple sentences, clauses and phrases—these are the things which Nebraska freshmen are drilled in upon registration for English 1. Fully ten percent of the freshmen entering the university cannot distinguish a noun from a verb. It is estimated. And one tenth fail to pass the semester examination over English 1 work.

The 660 freshmen who registered for English 1 this fall, were required to take the Cross English test in the beginning. The test dealt with spelling, recognition of simple sentences, punctuation, principal parts of verbs, and use of pronouns.

Twenty percent of those taking the initial entrance test failed to make a satisfactory grade. These went immediately to English zero classes, which courses carry no credit hours. At the end of the semester these same students will be given an opportunity to take the regular semester examination which is being offered to English 1 students. If that is passed, credit hours are given the same as if they had been in English 1 classes.

"Only those who are habitually lazy—those who have failed in high school," are in great danger of falling down in this second test, states Professor Scott.

Five years ago this entrance examination system was introduced at Nebraska. Numerous universities have a system that is very similar. High school students who obtain the so-called "eight points" in high school English are required to register for English 2. Here likewise, inadequate preparation results in removal back to English zero classes.

"The results are astounding," declares Professor Scott, after five years of experience with the system. "The department is by no means ashamed of the students
