

EASTERN JAUNT IS HANDICAP TO GRID WARRIORS

Huskies Work Out on Home Sod After Eight Days of Absence

PREPARE FOR LAST GAME

Bearg Takes Out Kinks for Tussle With Kaggies Turkey Day

Nebraska's Cornhusker football team arrived from its long trip to the east yesterday morning and were first workout on the home field in eight days. The long trip to West Point handicaps the Huskers in their preparation for the Thanksgiving classic with the Kansas Aggies tomorrow. Only two days of practice at home before the grid-iron final.

The Cornhuskers stopped Monday afternoon in Chicago where a short workout was held on Soldier field. Taking out the kinks from the long trip and limbering up exercises were the only numbers on deck as Coach Bearg prepared his muleskin warriors for the last game on the 1928 grid schedule. At present the Nebraska Cornhuskers are leading the Big Six conference and have one more game to clinch the title.

Aggies Are Fighters

Coach A. N. "Bo" McMillin is bringing a fighting team of Aggies to Lincoln tomorrow for the Turkey day game. McMillin has hopes to down the Huskers and the team spirit and morale after a poor season, has risen to lofty heights since the two reversals put on Nebraska by Pitt and the Army Cadets. Nebraska came through the Army game in good shape, with the exception of a few minor bumps and bruises.

Tomorrow's game with the Kansas Aggies will be hard fought. The Nebraska coaching staff is looking forward to that. Kansas Aggies have never beaten Nebraska since the two eleven's started playing back in the dim days of the past. Only once has the Aggie eleven come close to defeating Nebraska and that was a scoreless tie turned in two years ago. Some students on the Aggie campus are even optimistic enough to predict a Wildcat victory—the first conference victory of the year.

But Coach Bearg's mighty Cornhusker "powerhouse" will probably

WORLD FORUM WILL CONTINUE MEETINGS

Next Luncheon Speakers Plan Series of Foreign Problem Talks

World Forum luncheons will be continued a week from today when a series of three lectures on the general subject of international relations will be given.

Prof. F. M. Fling will be one of the speakers and will talk on the Kellogg Peace pact. A native Egyptian will speak at one meeting and will tell of his country. Because of President-Elect Herbert Hoover's trip to South America, it was thought important to include one talk on Latin America in the series.

This will be the second series of talks put on by the World Forum committee this year. The first which, ended a few weeks ago dealt with the political situation. The plan of the World Forum meetings this year has been to arrange several series of talks related together, rather than have each meeting independent of the rest.

So far a large attendance has been noticed at the forum luncheons, according to those in charge. All students and faculty members are invited. The price of the lunch is thirty-five cents.

News Gatherers Will Work This Afternoon

Reporters will report for news assignments this afternoon at the regular office hours. There will be an issue of The Daily Nebraskan Thanksgiving morning, which necessitates working this afternoon.

Campus Social Successes Will View Elaborate Ceremony at Military Ball

Last readers forget, an Honorary Colonel has been elected and will be presented at the all-important Military Ball. Her identity, of course, will be a secret until the hour of her arrival at the ball. Sounds very much like Cinderella, doesn't it?

Rumor has it that the ceremony attending her presentation will be very elaborate. Judging from the amount of cold cash the committee is putting out for decorative effects her introduction should be a knock-out.

Imagine for one moment the dramatic value of the instant when the Honorary Colonel is announced and appears in formal array be-

Corn Cobs Will Stage Final Rally Tonight

Corn Cobs will meet tonight at 5 o'clock in front of the football stadium. Every member is urged to be present and the house-to-house sorority rally will get underway at 5:15 o'clock and will precede the final rally in the Coliseum.

LAST PEP EXHIBITION IS SET FOR TONIGHT

Coliseum Will Be Scene of Concluding Rally of Grid Season

GAME HOLDS INTEREST

Tonight will mark the last chance for Nebraska fans to gather in support of the great Cornhusker football squad, when Husker students will gather for the final giant rally at the Coliseum, starting at 7 o'clock. Supporters will join in venting their enthusiasm preliminary to the Kansas Aggie-Nebraska game scheduled for Thanksgiving day.

Closing the 1928 season and definitely deciding the Big Six championship, tomorrow's game holds a special interest for those who have followed the Cornhuskers in their rise to the position of the only undefeated team in the conference.

Kaggies Are Prepared

Speeches by Co-Captains Howell and Holm, and Coach Bearg, will give a final word of appreciation for the support given the team during their 1928 season. Members of the squad playing their last game will be presented to rally attendees.

With no game last week, the Kaggies, under their coach, "Bo" McMillin, have taken advantage of the extra opportunity for preparation and face the Nebraska aggregation with a firm determination to drag the Huskers from their position of undefeated conference champions.

RIEPMAN GIVES TALK AT TUESDAY VESPERS

Speaker Points Out Biblical Doctrine of Giving And Receiving

"It is more like God to give than to receive," declared Dr. Sears Riepmann at the regular Vespers meeting Tuesday evening at Ellen Smith hall. "The time has come when we congratulate God and compliment him on Thanksgiving, and make ourselves believe that we must be very good because God gives us so many gifts."

Dr. Riepmann pointed out two kinds of giving. Kindly, courteous giving that never injures the recipient is one and the other is like throwing a bone to a dog. "All of us would rather be in a position which enables us to give than be in a position in which we would have to receive all the time."

Poverty Is Prose
"Poverty is rather prose, although it may have its good qualities. Poets are scarecrows of men. They have always been at the receiving end; they have over-exercised their acquisitive faculties. They go to almost any extreme to receive food and clothing."

"Although Jesus said it was more blessed to give than to receive, he did not mean that it was wrong to receive. He knew the joys and pleasures of receiving as he had to live with Jesus weighed down by his livelihood. Jesus weighed and found the balance to be on the side of giving. We never find a lovely person who is not generous."

Special music was a vocal duet, given by Inez Geschwender and Lois Styer.

HASTINGS WINS MONDAY DEBATE

In the debate at Hastings Monday evening between Hastings college and the University of Australia, the Hastings debating team defeated the Australians.

The subject was "Resolved, that this house disapproves of nationalism." Dr. C. H. Woolbert of the University of Iowa was judge.

According to Dr. Woolbert the Australian team fits in with the American system of forensics, but the Hastings debaters overcame the early lead taken by the Australians later in the debate.

Colonel Gets New Uniform

Who will be the lucky, fortunate, popular girl? Perhaps those students who were game enough to vote for Al Smith in the recent election will take a chance on election of the Honorary Colonel from the list of candidates.

Many of the seats were purchased in blocks by fraternities, fraternities and other campus organizations, who had representatives in line before the sales opened Tuesday morning. Numerous calls for pairs as well as individual tickets were filled during the day.

Retired Major Lauds Huskers Before Cadets

Major Cogill, formerly of West Point, was one of the fans who sat in Michie stadium last Saturday for the Army-Nebraska intercollegiate football game. Major Cogill is retired from the Army and coming back to Lincoln on the train, he revealed many things to the Nebraska men.

Sunday morning Major Cogill was a speaker in chapel and numerous questions were asked the cadets on the outcome of the Nebraska game and Major Cogill has recorded a number of these to the Nebraska men. They are as follows:

Band Made Hit

"The last touchdown should not really be counted in determining the relative strength of the teams because of the darkness. Nebraska played a good clean game."

"The Nebraska band made a real hit with the cadets. It was a total surprise when they came over in front of our stands and played 'Fight Army.'"

"The Nebraska band make an excellent appearance and were better than any student band I have ever seen."

"Nebraska's football team is the largest team that I have ever seen."

"Nebraska played a much cleaner game than Harvard."

"Best football game we have had at Michie stadium this year. In fact the best I have ever seen except perhaps the Notre Dame last year."

"Who was that large Nebraska tackle?"

"The last touchdown was purely a matter of luck on account of the darkness. Nebraska might have made it if they had had the ball as it was very hard to see."

"Sloan was certainly great and much better than Howell who was so well advertised."

"The best team we have ever had at the Michie stadium in West Point."

NEBRASKA FIGHTS!

Nebraska Fights! Those two words carry the spirit of Cornhusker football teams from the first football game in the Missouri Valley. One of those great Cornhusker aggregations went down to defeat last week in the East.

Thousands of students, with hundreds of thousands of Nebraska followers, listened to reports on the great at West Point, thrilled by the gallant fight of two magnificent teams. A loyal Nebraska student body, inspired by the terrific battle shown by the representatives of the Scarlet and the Cream.

Crushed by their failure to achieve premier national honors, Nebraska players arrived in Lincoln yesterday morning. The hearts of the six thousand Nebraska students were with them. But the personal thrill of seeing those six thousand at the train, to welcome them as the worthy defenders of Nebraska's long-maintained football honor, was not accorded one of the best coached, hardest fighting teams ever to take the field for the Cornhuskers.

That team, one of the most worthy teams Nebraska has had, with a record of but a single defeat after a grueling schedule of eight hard games, takes the field for the last time tomorrow. Its fondest hopes shattered by the Army win, it needs to know and to feel the sincerity of student confidence in its ability.

Tonight, Nebraska's student body rallies for the last time. Tonight, Nebraska students have a chance to pay homage to the squad which has won recognition this fall as one of the nation's outstanding elevens. Tonight, Nebraska students have their chance to show that they are for the Husker eleven, win or lose.

Tonight, Nebraska students may show that the Huskers can go on the field against a rejuvenated Kansas Aggie eleven with a student support which must bode ill for the rising hopes of the Kaggies. Tonight, Nebraska students have their last opportunity to accord honor to a great team, and to a team, that win or lose, is—

NEBRASKA'S TEAM.

Bandmen Have Varying Experiences During Two-Night Stay in New York

Nebraskans Return Home With Different View on Life After Making Rounds of Midnight Shows

With the fighting Cornhusker football team on its return from New York City Tuesday morning was the spirited University of Nebraska band, carrying personal delights on the Army-Nebraska game, sore throats and tales of big city night life.

The campus has heard all it cares—and more—about that game, but the activities and experiences of the bandmen during their one-day and two-night stay in New York have yet to be chronicled.

After parading the streets of Albion, Mich., Thursday afternoon and spending a restless Thursday night, the fifty Cornhusker musicians rolled into Weehawken, N. J., just across the Hudson river from New York City, at noon Friday.

With their scarlet and cream Nebraska streamers draped across their shoulders—innocent fashion—they crossed on a ferry and boarded a bus for the Commodore hotel, Nebraska headquarters over the week end and the second largest hostelry in New York City.

Then came a tomb-busting ride up Broadway, New York's canyon of thirty, forty and fifty story skyscrapers.

PLANS FOR FRESHMAN DEBATE ARE FORMED

Professor White Notifies Fifteen Prospective Team Members

Notices to all freshmen who have announced their intention of entering the freshman debate contest, have been sent out by Prof. H. A. White, debate coach. A bibliography has been posted in the library, and all books may be secured at the desk.

Fifteen freshmen have headed in their names to Professor White and have begun work. Law enforcement has been selected as the topic for debate, and judging will be based on presentation, thought, knowledge and handling of the subject.

Deadline Is December 1

The name of the winner will be inscribed on the cup, which is being donated by E. H. "Red" Long, of the College Book Store. The contest is being managed by the local chapter of Delta Sigma Rho, national forensics society.

Final date for entries has been set at December 1, at which time all names must be in the hands of Professor White at Andrews hall.

LUNCHEON WILL HONOR DEBATERS

A luncheon in honor of the debaters from the University of Sydney, Australia, who met the University of Nebraska last night, will be held this noon. Prof. H. A. White, Nebraska debate coach announced. Only the debaters and a few others will attend.

Among the invited guests who will attend the luncheon is Dr. H. W. Orr, president of the English Speaking union of Lincoln.

Pi Kappa Alpha Advances To Semi-Finals in Polo

Pi Kappa Alpha defeated Kappa Sigma in its Tuesday afternoon in water polo at the Y pool. This advances Pi Kappa Alpha to the semi-finals with Lambda Chi Alpha, Beta Theta Pi and Phi Gamma Delta. The finals will be played some time next week.

STUDENTS CHEER RETURNED TEAM

Approximately 500 Cornhuskers, headed by the Innocents, Corn Cobs and Tassels, were on hand to welcome the Nebraska team at the Burlington station Tuesday morning at 7:30 o'clock.

Although the team's invasion of the east ended in a defeat, the student body expressed its loyalty by cheers as the team stepped from the football special. The band, which also made the trip, received a hand from the crowd and responded with some music.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS CHOICE OF COLONEL

Jewett Announces Identity Will Be Secret Until December 7

"I know who the new Honorary Colonel is." Such rumors as this are going about the campus as the date of the twentieth annual Military Ball draws near. Col. F. F. Jewett stated yesterday that the identity of the new Honorary Colonel will be kept secret until Friday evening, December 7, when the Military Ball opens the formal season at the university.

The presentation of the new colonel at the Military Ball this year will be something entirely different from preceding years, according to the committee in charge of the dance. Cadet officers in

EXTENSIVE PLANS MADE

Nebraska Co-Ed Choice Arouses Much Interest

"Who do you think will be Nebraska's Sweetheart? I just know (Jeb) received the most votes!" Since rush week more persons seem to be vitally interested in the selection of Nebraska's "Sweetheart" than the fact that we have a four-day vacation beginning tomorrow. And besides the football game which will determine as to whether or not our letter men will be sporting white sweaters.

Regardless of the fact that night before last the moon eclipsed and only those who had late dates could enjoy it, our authentic prophets who regularly inform us as to astronomical wonders, were supplanted by the campus prophets who have been guessing themselves into believing that so and so was elected.

According to the wild rumors floating about the academy and sorority house tables, more inside dope must have been given out by the Kosmet Klub in regard to the Nebraska "Sweetheart" than they are sponsoring than the "inside" rumor that Al Smith would carry the country by storm. The storm broke, but Al is still looking for shelter.

The Nebraska "Sweetheart" now holds a responsible position in the eyes of her student companions. She is the University of Nebraska's choice as the most popular girl on its campus. Although the male vote determined the election, we feel sure that the Nebraska men are capable of choosing their "sweetheart."

After the last week crack has lost its following in laughter, after the last dance and song have been presented by King Kosmet's Royal Entertainers, the Nebraska "Sweetheart" will be crowned. One of the few degrees conferred on any student that not wearing a black gown and balancing a mortar board.

STRUBLE DIRECTS VESPERS SINGERS

Miss Struble does not become a member of the cabinet, but she will direct the choir and plan the special music which it will present.

Work on special music for the annual Christmas Vespers service, which will be held December 18, will begin at the regular rehearsal of the choir Monday, December 3.

It is planned that the choir shall present a series of special numbers at every other Vesper service, alternating with the special programs which are presented by individual fine arts students.

Students who have seats in the cheering section of the east stadium and are planning to leave Lincoln before the game are requested to dispose of their tickets to some party who can sit in the section.

Stunts will be carried out just as they have been in previous games, and it is absolutely necessary that the section be filled. Throughout the season the cheering section stunts have been dependent upon the packed nature of the sections. A few vacant places mars an entire stunt.

'Nebraskans Looked Like Carnival Hoodlums,' Says New York Writer

The New York News, printed in "Ill old New York," had several comments to make after the Army-Nebraska clash at the Michie stadium at West Point last Saturday.

The New York writers seemed to take huge delight in commenting on the appearance of the Nebraska fans while on the-Cornhusker Special bound for the game and when the Nebraska team was on the field against the Cadets. Paul Gallico was the gentleman who pushed the typewriter keys on this article and below are a few of the comments:

LOCAL DEBATERS TAKE MARGIN OF AUDIENCE VOTES

Nebraskans Are Favored in International Forensic Contest Tuesday

GOVERNMENT IS SUBJECT

Ballot Shows Vast Majority Approves System in United States

University of Nebraska debaters secured a considerable margin of votes over the team representing the University of Sydney, Australia at the meet held last night at the Coliseum. More than six hundred people witnessed the meet, which was the second international debate in the history of the university.

Using the question, "Parliamentary government is superior to the presidential form," the Australians upheld the policy of their own country on the affirmative, while the Nebraskans argued on the negative upholding the system used in the United States.

White Opens Debate
Ballots were provided for voting before and after the discussion. On the first vote 98 were favorable, 222 neutral, and 123 opposed. At the close, a possibility of five opinions was offered. In this thirty-five were more favorable than before, forty favorable, thirty-six neutral, 145 opposed, and 114 more favorable than before, giving the Nebraskans a total of 259 as compared with the seventy-five for the Sydney team.

Prof. H. A. White opened the debate, mentioning the debate with Cambridge last year. This year the Oxford team is conducting a series of meets east of the Mississippi, while the Australians are confined to the western territory. Nebraska was the twenty-second of the leading universities which was included on their schedule. They will leave for home shortly after Christmas.

Lieutenant Governor George A. Williams, as presiding officer, introduced the topic. Australia, represented by W. S. Sheldon, Norman C. L. Nelson and H. G. Goodsell,
