TRI-COLORS ENGAGE IN MEET THIS AFTERNOON

Today's Contest May Mark Close of Season on Indoor Boards

Freshmen and novice track men are scheduled to take part in the fourth scheduled tri-color track meets this afternoon when both junior and senior divisions vie for honors. Today's meet will probably be the last one on indoor boards, as present weather conditions indicate that the cinder artists will be out on the outdoor oval soon.

All the indoor events will be included in this afternoon's roster, which includes the 50 yard dash, 100, 200, 400, 800, mile, pole vault, high jump, broad jump and shot put. Members of the track coaching department are very anxious to have every member of the tri-color teams on hand for the meet this afternoon. The first event is scheduled to start at 4 o'clock.

Saturday Coach Henry "Indian" Schulte will take some of his Nebraska track performers to Champaign where Nebraska as well as seventy other universities in the country, will compete in the twelfth annual indoor relay carnival of the University of Illinois. The entry list is the largest ever received and includes athletes from every school in the Big Ten, Big Six and Missouri Valley conferences. Coach Schulte does not know who will make the trip to the Illinois meet as the track coaching staff is planning on making the Texas relay on March 29, 30. The shuttle race, a new event in the relays, is attracting a great amount of attention and Schulte may enter a team in this event. Nebraska tracksters who are performing at this event are Lamson, Augerbright, Fleming and Tomson.

Nebraska placed three men in the Big Six wrestling meet held at Norman Friday and Saturday, taking one first, one third and one second. Simic, Husker grappler in the 155-pound class, won the championship of the division for the only Nebraska first place. Joe Tomson, captain of the Nebraska team, placed second in his class and Harold Ecklund won third in the 125-pound class. Oklahoma and Kansas took individual honors in the individual championship tournament with two wrestlers from each school taking first. Iowa State college is the Big Six champion on the mat on the basis of dual meets during the season. The tournament at Norman was to decide the individual conference championships and not the team champion. Simic, who has been one of the outstanding grapplers in the Big Six all season, was doped to win his class as he has not been defeated during the season and took most of his matches by the fall route.

Dana X. Bible, Nebraska's new football coach, was the guest of honor at a farewell feast at Fort Worth, Texas, Saturday night. The banquet was sponsored by the Fort Worth Athletic Club and 450 former Texas Aggie students gathered to pay their farewell tribute to Coach Bible who has been at the Aggie school for eleven years. Coach Bible will leave Texas this month for his home in Lincoln where he will take charge of the Cornhusker spring football practice.

Down at Kansas City this week basketball quietness all over the country are fighting it out for national A. A. U. honors. There are forty-six teams entered in the meet which probably represent the best cage players in the nation. The journey started Monday morning and Saturday night a champion

IOWA STATE ATHLETES ANNEX SPORT HONORS

Cyclones Win Championship And Place Positions in Big Six Meet

AMES, Ia.—With two Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Athletics Association championships, two second places and two fourth places chalked up since the beginning of the conference last fall, the Iowa State varsity athletic teams have made the best showing of any school in the Big Six conference.

The bright spots in the winter season just passed were the championship Cyclone swimming team, led by Captain Ivar D. Butler and coached by C. E. Dauber; and the championship wrestling team captained by Arthur Holding and coached by Hugo Ottopalik.

Iowa On Top

By scoring the schools in the Big Six, five, three, two and one points respectively for first, second, third and fourth places in the various sports of the fall and winter season, Iowa State ranks on top with a total of eighteen points. Nebraska ranks second with a total of twelve points, and Oklahoma third with eleven points. Missouri and Kansas tied with seven each and Kansas Aggies held down the bottom with a total of four points.

Coach Menze initiated his coaching career at Iowa State by grabbing off fourth place in basketball in the face of a small allotment of material and against the best competition for several seasons. The Cyclone trackmen were barely nosed out of the Big Six track championship by the University of Oklahoma stars and a matter of three points. Coach Bob Simpson's charges managed a second place in the cross-country competition of last fall and the Workman-coached football eleven rated fourth in the conference standing.

Forester of Extension Service Says Soil Fine for Spring Tree Planting

Soil conditions are the best for tree planting this spring than they have been since the forestry program started in the state four years ago, Clayton W. Watkins, extension service forester, says on his return to the College of Agriculture from a series of meetings over the state.

Fall rains and winter snows with severe freezes have put the ground in almost perfect condition. If the season is reasonably favorable the chances to make trees grow should be excellent this spring he believes. Nearly 5,000 application blanks for trees have been mailed out to date from Mr. Watkins' office. Almost a million seedling trees will be available this spring at the cost of counting and packing them, under provisions of the Clarke-McNary act of congress. These trees are primarily for farm plantings.

The extremely cold weather has tended to freeze up the enthusiasm of those who have the application blanks, however, and many have put off sending them back. When a warm spell does come, the mail for the next day or so is full of requests for trees. If spring should open up suddenly, Mr. Watkins predicts a wild scramble to get the orders in before the favorite kinds of trees are gone. Those who are late will have to take their second choice of varieties or wait until 1930.

During the last two weeks railroads have made definite plans for beautifying station grounds and for planting trees along their right of ways for snow protection. This example may be followed by other organizations in the state.

At a recent forestry meeting called by Governor Weaver a Nebraska forestation committee was appointed with Dean G. E. Condra as general chairman. Two meetings have been held by the committee. Subcommittees are at work to encourage the planting and caring for trees by every individual and group

Economics department of the University on Thursday, March 14, in the Home Economics building on the College of Agriculture campus. Plans have been made to visit the new nursery school building in which much interest has been manifested. Exhibits and demonstrations of various kinds will be held. Miss Evelyn Metzger, assistant professor of design, will discuss and demonstrate "Making the Home Attractive."
