What Other College Men Have Done With Kresge

"Graduating from Western Reserve University in 1921, I began business life with an idea that I was fitted for mana-gerial work. I left my comfortable desk work and started in the stockroom. Then I worked successively as floor manager, assistant manager, and manager.

I then received my biggest promotion, and today I am happily located in an ex-ecutive position, with increased respon-sibilities.

The financial return that has come to use exceeds all that I had expected."

Colby B. S. 15—Wesleyan M. S. 1917

—A Phi Beta Kappa man became an instructor until 1920, then assistant head chemist for an Eastern manufacturer until 1922 when he entered the Kreege organization to take the training course. organization to take the training course. He is now a manager of a Kreage store and claims: "Today I find myself receiving a greater income than the teachers and industrial acquaintances who sought to discourage me for making such a radical change of occupation."

A Missouri University graduate enthu-missically relates the following: "In June of 1923, just after I had been 'In June of 1923, just after I had been presented with my much treasured sheep skin, a gray haired gentlemen with years of experience said to me: Just what the luture holds for you will depend largely on the seeds you sow during the next few years. Take my advice and tales, some good company, begin at the bottom and work your way to the top.'

I followed his advice by starting in the I followed his advice by starting in the stackroom of a Kreege store on Decem-ber 8, 1923.

Today I am managing my first store, happy in the thought that I am on the send to occose."

AFTER the years of college then there comes to many men the most trying period of their careers. What place does the world have for them? For what niche has their training best suited them? Where do they fit?

It is to these seniors who have not yet fully decided on their future that this advertisement is addressed.

The S. S. Kresge Company has an opportunity for college men who are ambitious enough and capable enough to reach the top - yet who are willing to start at the bottom. These men we train to be store managers and to occupy other executive positions-well paid positions involving a share in the Kresge profits. The men selected are given intensive preparation for their future executive positions, they are instructed in every detail of store management and they are advanced as rapidly as they become familiar with the Kresge policy and the Kresge methods of merchandising. The work is not easy but the reward is not small-an executive position in the Kreege organization which operates 510 stores with an annual volume of business close to $150,000,000.

If a career such as those described here appeals to you, write our Personnel Department and a Kresge representative will be sent to give you a personal interview.

What Others Have Done You Can Do

A Bucknell College graduate writes "After graduating from college with the degree of B. S. and M. A. I accepted a position as Chemistry instructor in a small college. After two years as an instructor, I became dissatisfied and decided to enter the business world.

I became acquainted with an enthusi I became acquainted with an enthusi-actic Kreege manager, who gladly ex-plained their system of training men to become store managers. Shortly after that I started in the stockroom, received pro-motions according to my ability to earn them, and today although a successful store manager I am in line for still greater responsibilities.

I know of no other organization where a man's efforts will be better repaid than with the Kreege Company."

An alumnus of the University of Michigan class of 1922 says: "The most suportant problem confronting me the last sumester in school was choosing the Job' that would begin when campus days were over. To make the right sent in the business world was my ambition. I turned down several soft map jobs, the kind that paid fairly well to sant but held no future, for a stockroom job with the Known of the paid that paid the paid the paid that paid the pai the Kresga Company which paid listle to start but offered a definite future.
