

FOUR HUNDRED YOUTHS ENTER FARM CONTEST

Boys from More Than Forty Schools Take Part in Judging Contest

NEW EVENTS ARE ADDED

Winners of District Meets Come to Lincoln and North Platte

Four hundred boys from over forty different schools entered the fifteenth annual high school agriculture judging contest when it opened Thursday morning, April 24. There are two contests this year, one at Lincoln and the other at North Platte. Both of them are two-day events.

This year's contest is the largest that has ever been held, according to those in charge. More boys are entered and some new contests have been added. Several preliminary contests have been held at various places in the state. The college of agriculture is in charge of the affair.

Albion Wins Twice

Livestock and dairy cattle judging each year attract a large number of contestants. Albion high school has won two "legs" on the Nebraska Improvement Livestock breeders' association. One more win in livestock judging will give the Albion school permanent possession of this trophy.

Waverly has won the cup for two years in dairy cattle judging. One more victory will give them a permanent hold on the trophy awarded by the Nebraska State Dairy-men's association. Nearly all schools entered the livestock and dairy judging.

Tests General Skill

Judging of butter and cream have been included this year for the first time. Other contests in which the schools are competing for honors are grain grading, poultry judging, egg grading, Babcock testing, woodworking, forge, and grain judging and identification. Skill and knowledge in almost all kinds of farm work are tried out in these annual contests.

Two hundred and sixty ribbons will be awarded to the winners in the various divisions. Silver and bronze medals will be presented in some contests. Results will be released Friday evening. The student activities building on the college of agriculture campus has been turned into one huge dormitory to house the high school visitors. Cots have been set up on the first floor to provide sleeping quarters.

Banquet Ends Program

A banquet at the chamber of commerce on Friday evening will end the two-day fest. All coaches and their teams will attend. The results of the contest will be released and all awards made at the banquet. L. C. Oberlies, formerly a member of the board of control, will act as toastmaster.

The following high school teams are entered in the Lincoln contest at the college of agriculture:

- | | |
|------------|--------------|
| Albion | Lawston |
| Ashland | Madison |

"Growth of the Scout Executive." This is the first meeting of its kind in Nebraska. The idea for these originated with Harvard and Yale universities and has spread over the country. Similar gatherings are convening at Iowa City, Columbia, Denver university and at Emporia, Kansas. Teachers' college, Fred G. Davis, regional scout executive will meet with scout leaders from this region. W. J. Kent of Lincoln has been made dean of the course.

CIGARETTES

WHY CAMELS ARE THE BETTER CIGARETTE

Camels are made of the choicest tobaccos grown. The Camel blend of Domestic and Turkish tobaccos has never been equaled.

Camels are mild and mellow. They do not tire the taste. They leave no cigaretty after-taste. Camels have a delightful fragrance that is pleasing to everyone.
