Graduates In Business Face Bright Future

Dean LeRossignol Sees Many Opportunities And Big Field

Editor's note: The article following is the second in a series that will cover all the colleges of the University. The theme of the series is based upon the conditions in various fields that college graduates must face their first year out of school.

The average salary of a student just graduated from the College of Business Administration is $125 a month, according to Dr. J. E. LeRossignol, dean of the college. The salary scale, however, runs from $100 to $175.

This is a very substantial salary in comparison to that paid recent graduates of other colleges. Every one knows that business pays better than any other profession and that there is no limit to opportunities there, declared Dr. LeRossignol in commenting on the salary scale. Dr. LeRossignol said that it was sometimes better to accept a hundred dollar a month of pay instead of a hundred and seventy-five dollar position because of the future promise the lower priced position held.

Possibilities Are Great

The possibilities for a young man who is a graduate of the College of Business Administration are very great, declared Dr. LeRossignol. "In fact, the demand for men is greater than the supply. A student's success, however, naturally rests on his character."

PREP ATHLETES CONVENE TODAY AT STATE MEET

Cinder Men From 106 High Schools Enter Tourney At Memorial Oval

TEAM TOTAL IS LARGE

Officials Expect Records to Fall in Final Heats on Track Saturday

University of Nebraska athletic department will be host to some thousand Husker high school athletes today and tomorrow when budding prep school cinder men, wearing the colors of a hundred and six Nebraska high schools, gather for the twenty-seventh annual Nebraska interscholastic track and field championships, scheduled for Friday and Saturday on Memorial Stadium cinders.

With the announcement Thursday morning of Secretary Walter Black of the Nebraska High School Athletic association that the team total had amounted to six above the hundred mark, the first record of the 1929 affair was written on the books, surpassing the high mark of last year by a total of eighteen teams.

Track Is Good

Coach Schulte pronounced the cinders in excellent condition Thursday and stated that with good weather, several records were doomed to fall. The past season has revealed several outstanding prepsters who have been turning in exceptional marks all during the season.

Chief among these are Baby, Nelson, Higgins or Harvard,

Adams of North High, Omaha, Wythers of Geneva, and Snow of McCook, all sprinters, the Carroll twins and Coverdale of Cambridge, hurdlers, E. Davis of St.

Arts Registration Slow

In the college of Arts and Sciences, Monday's total number of registrants was only nineteen, as compared with forty-four last year, according to the statement of Dean Candy. Tuesday's list included ninety-seven, as compared with 111 last year. On Wednesday 139 registered, as compared with 149 on the Wednesday of registration week last year. Thursday's total was about the same as that of the year before.

Dean LeRossignol of the College of Business Administration, reported a total of only eight Monday, forty-five Tuesday, eighty-seven Wednesday and 167 Thursday. The number of registrants by Thursday afternoon was only 247, as compared with 376 last year. Other colleges reported a like tardy start in registration this year.

Dean Returns From NEW YORK MEETINGS

Dr. J. E. LeRossignol, dean of the College of Business Administration, returned this week from the eleventh annual meeting of the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, which was held in New York, May 24.

National Association Elects J. E. LeRossignol to Executive Board

Dr. J. E. LeRossignol, dean of the College of Business Administration, returned this week from the eleventh annual meeting of the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, which was held in New York, May 24.

The chief conference subjects of the session were: "The Relationship and Cooperation of the School of Business and the School of Engineering," and "The Cooperative Relationships of the School of Business and the School of Education."

Dean LeRossignol gave a talk Friday evening at a complimentary dinner to the association at Columbia university, reviewing the work of the association.

Cambridge Produces Track Stars Who Consistently Clip Seconds From Time

Special interest among the thousand or more athletes, entered in the twenty-seventh annual Nebraska interscholastic track and field tournaments, scheduled for Friday and Saturday at the Memorial Stadium, will be concentrated on Cambridge high school and its group of hurdlers.

Always noted for the high class of cinder men, Cambridge has produced in the past several champions of the Nebraska High School Athletic association, the bearers of the Cambridge Orange and Black have again assembled some real talent in the way of hurdlers, to take their place among the best the state has ever offered.

Twins—They Are!

Added interest is growing because two of the four hurdlers representing Cambridge, are twins, who look alike, run alike and act alike. Last season they competed in Group Two championships, one of them placing third, while the other was eliminated when he fell down.

Without a doubt, the Carroll twins and Coverdale, the three

Cambridge hurdlers, reign supreme in Husker hurdler circles. They have alternated winning first places in the several meets they have competed in this year. Linus Carroll, who appears to be the best of the three, clipping the barriers in 15.7 seconds at the Hastings meet last week end.

Family Rivalry

Coverdale not only devotes his time to the hurdles but is quite a sprinter and is one of the leading candidates for quarter mile honors this Friday and Saturday.

Family rivalry is found in the Carroll family and the twins. Both played football and basketball, at the 1928 season, and with a previous victory over the Kaggies on the indoor boards, bid fair to close the dual schedule with a clean sheet.

Coach Schulte announced yesterday.

DR. ERNST A. BESSEY TALKS TO BOTANISTS

Son of Eminent Professor Speaks Before Class At University

Dr. Ernst A. Bessey, who is in Lincoln for a few days, spoke to the class in flowering plants and other interested listeners yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. He discussed the serum method of classification of plants.

He related that his father published this system in this country ten years before Haller adopted this system in Europe. These like systems were in vogue against the old established method of Engler and Prantl. The Besseyan system is in use at Nebraska and throughout the United States and England.

Mex Carries Out System

The serum method was begun and has been carried out by Max of Germany. His system parallels the Besseyan system with a few exceptions. Doctor Bessey expressed the belief that the serum method may have to be adopted as an additional way of classification. As yet there is no certainty as to its authenticity but everything points to its correctness.

Doctor Bessey is the son of the late Dr. Charles E. Bessey, in memory of whom the building which now houses the department of botany—Bessey hall—is named. He has been in the city for past few days because of serious illness of his mother.
