In order that representatives of the southern school may be assured of their welcome on the occasion of their first game here, according to members of the Innocents society, who are in charge of the welcome, the formal extending of greetings was planned.

REGENT ASKS AID OF BOARD ON ZONE RULE

Seymour Urges Limitation of Building in Area For New Campus.

The development of the University of Nebraska campus into the most beautiful academic property in the United States became the issue in a hearing before the city zone board of appeals Thursday when Regent George L. Seymour made objection to the granting of that legal precedent classification of a piece of property located within the proposed university campus.

Regent Seymour described the resolution adopted in 1925 by the board contemplating adequate framework and landscaping and of the determination to purchase all property within such territory as rapidly as the money is available.

"The purpose," he said, "is to develop as fine a campus as exists in the United States and possibly the finest one."

He went on to say, "We will treat it as a catastrophe if any of the property within this area is zoned as industrial. Properties in this area, in my opinion, are worth vastly more for university usage than for any other purpose."

The land in question is located on the corner of Sixteenth and W streets and is owned by J. P. Dalley. Counsel for Dalley has stated that legal precedents condemned zoning action in such a case as interference with his client's natural Folsom, board member.

No action was taken on the matter due to the absence of E. C. use of his own property.

McKELVIE DIRECTS ORGANIZATION TO AID WORLD PEACE

Samuel R. McKelvie, former governor of Nebraska and one-time student at the university, has been appointed a member of the board of directors of the American peace society, a national organization working for world peace, according to an announcement made this week by William Fortune, president of the society. The high esteem in which the Nebraska is held is indicated by Mr. Fortune's statement.

"The acceptance of this office by the former Nebraska governor is a further guarantee to the people of the United States that this century-old organization will continue to work for policies that are consistent with our federal constitution and true to American ideals," he said.

Unique Campus Organization Known As Knot Hole Club Has Many Members

One of the most unique organizations in existence is the Knot-hole club, its membership is composed of little boys and girls who lease knot holes or other vantage viewpoints for the university football games.
Regulations of the club are extremely stiff and members must be careful of their conduct in order to retain their red or green membership cards. The ten cents fee for each game attended must be paid, too, in order to remain in good standing. Boys and girls below ten and sixteen years old are eligible. They obtain application blanks and have them filled in by their parents and teacher, sign their names and give their

Such meetings will be held every three weeks until twenty to twenty-five students will get together in an informal discussion. Dr. Hattie Plumb Williams, professor of sociology, will address the first meeting on the inter-racial question.

These meetings will differ from the Cosmopolitan club in that there will be no organization, but a public meeting open to students of all races who are interested in making a closer study of inter-racial problems.

CORN COBS ARRANGE S.M.U. PEP RALLIES

Fraternity Will Conduct House to House Tour For Songs, Yells.

Headed by the decision to meet the S. M. U. Mustang players at the Missouri Pacific depot this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, the Corn Cobs formulated plans for the rally during the Friday and Saturday. James Lewis of the athletic department also explained the method of handling the program sales in the stadium Saturday afternoon.

Corn Cobs will conduct a house to house rally at sororities during the dinner hour this evening to aid the cheerleaders at the all-university rally planned for 7 o'clock spirit and to introduce the new field song, "Fight, Nebraska, Fight." The organization will also still the traditional Cornhusker tonight in the coliseum.

All members of Corn Cobs are to appear in full uniform for the rally during the dinner hour and to meet in front of the armory tonight at 5 o'clock. The new field song has been published by the Innocents society and will be distributed to students during the rally at the coliseum.

At the meeting of Corn Cobs the society decided to let the active bars now in the organization pick the six pledges for the pep organization. It was also decided that the bars now active in the fraternity who have pledged a social fraternity shall remain active but will not be entitled to a vote.

COUNCIL ANNOUNCES CANDIDATE SCARCITY

Small Number of Filings For Elective Posts Unprecedented.

THREE FACTIONS ENTER

Surprise and consternation reigned in the Student Council when it was found out that only one application had been made for the position of honorary colonel when the student activities office closed yesterday evening. The scarcity of applications for most of the offices to be filled at the election Oct. 8, is raising much comment since the deadline for applications is 5 p. m. Friday, Oct. 4.

The office of president of the student body was the only office for which a sufficient number of applications had been received yesterday. Three applications were made for this position.

So far, only two names have been submitted for senior woman-at-large, one for junior class president, and none for sophomore or freshman president.

In contrast to the last election of last year there will be three groups participating in the fight rather than two. Last year, due to the sudden organization of the nonfraternity men a coalition of the two fraternity factions, the yellow jackets and the blue shirts was effected. The fact that each of the two factions and the barbs all have nominees for senior president verifies the fact that the two parties are not working together.

According to Ralph Raikes, president of the student council, applications will absolutely not be received after 5 p. m. tomorrow. Applications are to be made at the student activities office in the university coliseum. Applicants must present their identification cards before their names will be accepted.

The student council is in charge of all university elections. The committee selected for the Oct. 8 election is composed of Fred Grau, chairman, Robert Kelly, Mabel Heyne, Robert Young, and Joyce Ayres.

AG STUDENTS EAT HOME-COOKING IN LARGE CAFETERIA

If the present business of the cafeteria at the agricultural college of the university is any criterion of what is to come there will be a demand for a larger cafeteria building in the near future.

Right now, in a building that was originally intended to take care of one hundred and fifty people, the cafeteria is daily feeding over six hundred, declared Miss S. Bernice Elwell, assistant professor in institution management and manager of the cafeteria.

During one month the cafeteria has prepared and sold over two tons of meat, one and one-half tons of potatoes, and fifteen hundred loaves of bread. Dairy products are purchased entirely from the agricultural college dairy, and the amount expended for these products comes close to equalling the amount spent for meat.

Home Cooking.
All baked goods are prepared at the college. The cooking is done by hired women.

Contrary to a popular belief, the majority of the food prepared is not done by the students of the course. The kitchen is used for a laboratory where their prime duty is to observe. Students are employed for counter-help and dishwashing. They are also allowed to acquire experience in downtown restaurants.

The cafeteria is not operated for profit, said Miss Elwell. It was created to fill a demand for tastefully-prepared food and practical experiment in institution management.

"That it has gone a long way toward succeeding in its purpose is testified by the crowd that throngs it daily, and the fact that there were twice too many registrants for the course," Miss Elwell stated.

STECKLEBERG PLANS ORCHESTRAL SEASON

Aggregation Is Enlarged by Director Because of Future Concerts.

Pine Arts orchestra boasts a membership of seventy musicians, and has a larger and more varied instrumentation this year than ever before, according to Prof. Carl E. Steckleberg, director.

The clarinet section is large as are the brass and stringed sections, and the entire amount of instruments in the music which has been selected for study, Prof. Steckleberg stated.
The orchestra will play for a series of four convocations to be given in the Temple this year. The exact dates of which have not been decided. According to plans the orchestra is still in need of a tympani, French horn, and oboe player. Those interested in trying to fill these vacancies may see Prof. Steckleberg in room 6 of the school of music building.

CORNHUSKER PEP DEMANDS OUTLET

Rallies Will Be Held at 10:50 and 11:50 O'clock This Morning. Led by Corn Cobs; R.O.T.C. Band to Play Nebraska Tunes.

WILLIAMS AND WEYMULLER WRITE NEW SONG

Mammoth Exhibition Planned for Parade Grounds at 7:00 O'clock; S.M.U. Team and Rooters to Be Welcomed by Huge Ovation.

First fans of the Cornhusker pep rally in anticipation of the Southern Methodist-Nebraska football game Saturday will spring forth from the steps of Social Sciences hall this morning. Ten-minute rallies will be held between 10 and 11 o'clock and 11 and 12 o'clock under supervision of the Corn Cobs, male pep organization of the university. Music will be furnished by the R. O. T. C. band.

These ten-minute rallies will reach their grand climax in a mammoth exhibition on the parade grounds tonight followed by a parade to the Lincoln hotel. Members of the S. M. U. team there will be greeted with a real Nebraska ovation.

Featuring the new Nebraska field song the Corn Cobs will start a house to house rally at 5 o'clock to increase enthusiasm for the 7 o'clock rally on the parade grounds. The new song was written by Page Williams and Ernest "Dutch" Weymuller, medical students in the university at Omaha, to fill Nebraska's need of a fight song. It has been compared to such stirring tunes as "On Wisconsin" and "Washington and Lee Swing." Words of the song appear in another part of this issue.

"Mike" Charters, Nebraska's new yell king, will lead a program of songs and yells at the student rally held on the parade grounds at 7 o'clock. Short talks will be made by Coach Bible and other members of the coaching staff, and Capt. George Farley will introduce the 1929 football team. Following this the band will lead a parade to the Lincoln hotel where the S. M. U. team will be welcomed.

The evening program will not be concluded by the welcoming of the S. M. U. team, however. Three hundred rooters will lead Texas buses Thursday will arrive sometime around 10 o'clock Friday night and the result will be more yells, more music, more welcome.

Seven hundred more Texas rooters will arrive on three special trains Saturday at 10:30 o'clock. They, too, will be greeted by the band and a throng from Cornhuskerland. The S. M. U. team will be met by the Innocents upon its arrival Friday afternoon and will be conducted to the stadium field for practice.

A.W.S. BOARD FILLS VACANCIES IN RANKS
Helen Struble and Lois Erickson have been selected to fill the vacancies in the A. W. S. board for the coming year. Failure of two members to return to school this fall brought about the vacancies.

Member of Constitutional Convention Of 1875 Tells of Early Experiences
"I am glad that I was able to help Lincoln keep the capitol and the university back in the days when Grand Island, Columbus and other towns wanted the capitol and when the university seemed ready to fall."

This spoke Chaplain C. H. Frady, one of the three living members of the Nebraska constitutional convention of 1875. In an interview granted a reporter from The Daily Nebraskan, during Mr. Frady's recent visit in Lincoln.

The Rev. M. Frady was born near Cedar Rapids, Ia., July 24, 1847, and lived there until his father died about seven years later. He then went to Minnesota and later back to Iowa with his relatives. His ancestry can be traced back to the Mayflower. Abraham Lincoln married his aunt, Mary Todd.

After serving as a private in the Ninth Iowa cavalry during the Civil war, he received his academic degree and engaged in surveying in Pierce county, Nebraska. One incident that occurred when he lived near what is now Pierce, Neb., is very interesting. He was eighteen miles from home surveying when he heard that eleven Sioux Indians were plundering and robbing their way in the direction of his home, which was a number of miles west of the village of Pierce and the last home west of that village until Billings, Mont. He ran those eighteen miles in two hours barefooted and found that the Indians had been there but had merely asked for water.

While a member of the house of representatives in 1876 he was on the education committee and was often called into conference by the chancellor of the university and the board of regents in their fight for continuance of the university which was housed in University hall, with six or seven professors and about a hundred students. Omaha wanted the university but an appropriation was finally gotten through which saved the school for Lincoln.

Rev. Mr. Frady is an ordained Methodist minister and from 1881 to 1905 served as a missionary for the American Sunday School union in England.

While in Pierce county he was

Many Libraries Are Available for Student Use in Reference Reading

Many students are being confronted with the problem of outside reference reading in their courses. Freshmen, especially, are puzzled as to the location of the numerous libraries on the campus and the method of checking out the books needed. The importance of the library to the university can not be overestimated and the intelligent use of its resources is necessary to good work in any course.

The general library is located in Library hall. It is open during the college year from 7:50 a. m. to 10:00 p. m., except Friday and Saturday when the hours are 7:50 a. m. to 6:00 p. m. All books and periodicals of a general nature are to be found in the general library. Many instructors reserve special books for the use of certain classes. These books are withdrawn from circulation and kept in the reserve room, which is located on the third floor of the library in room 305. The books in this library are known as reserve books.

The general library is supplemented by five departmental libraries on this campus, each with an assistant in charge. There are also five departmental libraries maintained without a special assistant.

The agricultural library is located in Agricultural hall. This library contains about 19,000 volumes of standard technical and general works for the departments of the agricultural college.

On the top floor of the Law building is to be found the law library. A good working collection of legal references is contained in this library. Duplicate copies of the principal textbooks used are also found in the collection and are loaned to students.

Books relating to the various phases of engineering and to mathematics have been united to form the engineering library found in Mechanic Arts hall. Supplementing the text books are complete files of using technical journals and treatises on mathematical and technical subjects.

The botany and zoology libraries have been united and located in Bessey hall.

The Social Sciences reference library is located on the second floor of the Social Sciences building.

Other libraries maintained without assistants, are Chemistry hall; Entomology, Plant Industry hall; Meteorology, Astronomy observatory; Physics, Brace laboratory; and Journalism, University hall, 104.

The method used in finding a book in the library follows: Look in the card catalog for the book desired and if it is listed there, fill out a yellow call slip, writing legibly, the call number, the author and short title. The call number is in the upper left hand corner of the catalog card. Then sign the slip and take it to the loan desk. The above is an excerpt from the Library handbook.

New students interested in knowing more about the libraries of the university will find a Library handbook available at the general library in Library hall.
