INNOCENTS PLAN BONFIRE RALLY FOR PITT GAME

March to Hotel Follows Drill Field Session Friday Night.

CORN COBS TAKE PART Pep Club Will Be Present in Uniforms at All Yell Periods.

Many small pep gatherings and a bonfire rally are being planned by the Innocents society in preparation for the Pittsburgh-Nebraska football game Saturday, according to those in charge of the events.

Rallies will be held between classes Thursday and Friday in front of social sciences. All Corn Cobs will be present at these pep gatherings, together with the Tasseles.

Preparations are already under way for the bonfire and rally Friday night. Speeches will be made by Coach Bible and members of the team. The rally will continue downtown and to the hotel where the Panthers will be housed. Pittsburgh gridsters and their coach will be given a sample of the Corn-hucker spirit.

All Corn Cobs are requested by Stanley Day, president of that organization, to wear full Corn Cob uniforms from today until the time of the game. An important meeting of the Corn Cobs will be held Thursday evening promptly at 7 o'clock, according to the president. House to house rallies led by the Corn Cobs are to start at 4:45 p. m. Friday, in front of the armory. The men are to report for these rallies in complete uniform.

Last year a gigantic bonfire rally was held the night before the Missouri game.

DEBATING ASPIRANTS TRY OUT THURSDAY

Three Judges Will Decide On Team to Compete Against Oxford.

Drawings for the university debating team were announced Tuesday by Prof. H. A. White, coach of debate. Tryouts will be held Oct. 17 at 7:30 p. m. in university hall 106.

Those who will argue the affirmative side to the question, "Resolved: that the jury system is unnecessary in the administration of justice," are E. M. Hunt, Earl C. Fishbaugh, James H. Anderson, Nathan Levy, Walter H. Huber, Samuel Dietrichs, Carl J. Marold, Ted Feider and Lloyd Possibill. The negative debaters are Charles H. Hood, Bernard Ptak, Lauer Ward, Joseph Ginsburg, Russell P. McKnight, Alan G. Williams, Christian L. Larsen, Harry P. Larson and Frank B. Morrison.

These men will be introduced into the room in which they will speak in groups of four to six. The first affirmative speaker in each group will be allowed one speech of five minutes and one rebuttal of three minutes. The other speakers will each have one combined speech of eight minutes. The debaters will not know who is to oppose them until they appear. The order will be determined by lot.

Three old Nebraska debaters, whose names have not been divulged, will select the three best speakers who will form the negative team to argue against Oxford. The next two chosen will go to Des Moines to debate the University of Iowa on Nov. 8. Selection will be made without reference to sides. Any debater who will not be able to compete at the trials is requested to notify Professor White immediately. Any additional debaters will be assigned to their places by lot.

Kidwell Reports 'Business Is Good' in Military Store's Misfit Department

Business is good! At least that is the report given by John Kidwell, military department storekeeper. The fall rush is over and the task of misfitting 1,325 cadets with suits is completed.

The amount of equipment issued by this department is enormous. If the leg wrappings alone were tied end to end they would stretch over a distance of three miles. If the hats were laid one on top of the other they would (yeah, fall over) tower to a height of more than 400 feet. Believe it or try it and see! And verily, Queen Elizabeth would be quite secure against soiling her silk pumps if the cadets were to lay down their coats for her because she could skip trippingly along for nearly a mile.

Business is also pressing during the summer. For it is then that the suits are removed from their cubbyhole in the basement of Nebraska hall and sent away to the cleaners to have their wrinkles ironed out. On their return they are assorted according to size and

BENGTSON MAKES CLIMATIC RECORD ABOUT HONDURAS

A bulletin telling the climatic record of the Honduras, compiled by N. A. Bengtson of the University of Nebraska geography department, has recently been published by the weather bureau of the United States department of agriculture.

Dr. Bengtson has been gathering data concerning the climatic and economic activities of the country for the past ten years. The bulletin contains a tabulation of the rainfall and the temperature of the region for several years.

Dr. Bengtson is the first to investigate the climatic conditions of the island. He has previously published articles in the Journal of Geography and the Geographic Review concerning the climatic conditions, and other data is now being prepared for publication concerning the geography of the country.

UNIVERSITY FACULTY GETS PARKING SPACE

Provisions Will Be Made For Cars on Ground of Drill Field.

A parking space to be used exclusively for faculty cars, extending from Twelfth to Fourteenth street, just north of Social, Science and Teachers college buildings has been arranged, according to an announcement issued yesterday from the office of L. F. Seaton, university purchasing agent, and will be gravelled and ready for use in the near future.

Letters will be sent to all faculty members to determine the number of cars which will be parked on the roadway, and a positive system of identification will be used to check these cars in order that this space will not be used by others.

According to Mr. Seaton this space was created in order to relieve the parking situation around the campus. "Most universities," stated Mr. Seaton, "have restricted areas near the campus where only students and faculty members may park, but unfortunately the university is situated near the business district of the city and most of the parking space available is used by shoppers and business men, thereby depriving students of any adequate place to park their cars."

LAWS PLAN SMOKER IN ORFIELD'S HONOR

Freshmen in College Also Receive Welcome to Affair Tonight.

An all law college smoker, erroneously reported as scheduled for Oct. 23 will be given Wednesday, Oct. 16, honoring Prof. Lester B. Orfield and the freshmen of the college of law. The affair will be held at 139 North Nineteenth street at 8 p. m.

Invitations have been extended to the members of the state supreme court and of the Lancaster district court. Dean Henry H. Foster, of the college of law, will give the main address and a short talk is expected from Justice Good of the supreme court.

Russell Mattson, senior law president, is general director of the entertainment. He is assisted by Berne Spencer, Burr Davis, Palmer McGrew and Don Campbell. G. E. Price, law college librarian, is the faculty supervisor.

Freshman Council Holds Fourth Meeting of Year

The fourth meeting of the year for the Y. M. C. A. freshman council is scheduled for tonight at 7 o'clock at the Temple. Discussion groups will be in charge of William Kaplan, Ray Ramsay and C. D. Hayes, secretary of the university Y. M. C. A.

laid neatly and compactly away until fall. Then they are systematically dished out to freshmen and others in proper or improper sizes.

The university arsenal is also housed in the basement of Nebraska hall. It is here that 1,560 Springfield rifles are housed in private apartments. A very sinister affair, commonly known as a bayonet, is attached on the end of the barrel of each rifle. These, however, are quite harmless as they are muzzled very effectively by some of the cutest shells, done in pale emerald enamel.

Instruction to freshmen are "don't touch," and they don't. A fraternity of machine guns also uses this gunroom as a place for holding chapter meetings, to say nothing of a goodly number of automatics and trench guns which have permanent residence here. But the beautiful thought of the paragraph is that none of these guns are loaded. They are just good bunch of guns trying to get along with the cadets.

BLEACHERS WILL BE BUILT FOR PITT TILT

Officials Arrange Wooden Structure to Take Care Of 4,000.

SELLOUT IS PREDICTED

Construction of wooden bleachers which will seat 4,000 persons was under way at stadium field today, as University of Nebraska sports officials sought to augment the seating capacity of the stadium for the Pitt Panther-Corn-hucker grid set-to here Saturday.

With somewhere in the neighborhood of 27,000 seats for the contest already disposed of, John K. Selleck, business manager of student activities, was confident in reaffirming his prediction of a sell-out for the contest.

"There are approximately 7,000 seats for the contest still to be sold, but I'm sure that we'll dispose of them before the game," he said today. "Of the 7,000, 4,000 are in the temporary bleachers, which will be constructed at both ends of the field."

Football lovers from all parts of Nebraska and surrounding states will swarm to Lincoln Saturday. Thousands of tickets have been sold outside the city or sent to purchasers by mail. Tickets are now on sale in Omaha, as well as at the university coliseum and Lincoln stores.

The advance distribution surpasses that of any previous game, according to Mr. Selleck, who pointed out that even Notre Dame and Syracuse elevens failed to draw as much enthusiasm as the one coming here Saturday has created.

REDCOAT WILL GIVE LECTURE THURSDAY

Oldest Mounted Police in Britain Has Nebraska As Birthplace.

Maj. G. H. Schoof, "Calgary's grand old man," lecturer and traveler will give a lecture at the student activities building on the college of agriculture campus Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Major Schoof is the oldest mounted police in the British empire who still rides patrol, and has had a varied career. The major claims Nebraska as his birthplace. He began life as a cowboy and a rancher in Nebraska and South Dakota, and lived on an Indian reservation for a time and was named "White Eagle" by the Indians.

Went to Africa. In 1888 Major Schoof went to South Africa, where he enlisted in the Bechuanaland mounted police and became a sergeant-major. Later he was a squadron sergeant-major in the twenty-third Alberta mounted rangers. He also saw service as a major in the rurals, or mounted police, in Mexico.

He is at present game, fish, fire guardian and mounted constable serving the two provinces of British Columbia and Alberta. He is one of the two oldest policemen in the British empire.

Major Schoof also has a large collection of relics and souvenirs. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2.)

PORTER PRESENTS SANTA CLAUS ACT IN GISH'S OFFICE

An interesting scene was enacted in Herb Gish's office yesterday afternoon when the porter from the Rock Island strolled in. The porter was carrying a typewriter case and a large sack containing a lot of bumps sticking out on it. His smile was plenty wide and he sauntered up to the counter and asked for "Mistah" Gish. Herb came out and shook hands with the porter and asked him how all of the little porters were and then asked him what he had on his mind. The porter then began to divulge the reason for his visit.

First he pulled out Coach Bible's can of tobacco, then Clair Sloan's purple socks, then somebody's sweater, then a couple of purloined programs, then "Choppy" Rhodes' pen knife, then somebody's typewriter, and last but not least John K. Selleck's pajamas. Everybody in the office enjoyed a round of laughter and told the porter that they hoped he did as well after the Missouri game.

LITERARY MAGAZINE NEARS COMPLETION

Prairie Schooner Will Go To Press This Week, Says Wimberly.

Fall edition of the Prairie Schooner, Nebraska's literary magazine, will go to press the last part of this week, according to L. C. Wimberly, editor. More than five hundred copies will be printed and the magazine will be on sale about the first of November at Lincoln and Omaha news stands.

Several stories and articles by popular midwestern and student authors have been accepted and will be featured in this edition. One story of particular interest is that of Mrs. Guy Epencer, wife of Guy Spencer, cartoonist of the Omaha World-Herald. Her story is concerned with a number of Swedish Americans who live on a farm along the Missouri river. It is entitled "Olaf's Freedom" and has a surprising conclusion.

Thelma Sealock Writes. "The Lamp" is another short story written by Thelma Sealock, a graduate of the University of Nebraska and the daughter of Dean Sealock of the teachers college. R. T. Prescott, English instructor, also has a short story feature entitled "Reverend Flansburg."

Various articles and essays will be included in the fall issue. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 6.)

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE ANNOUNCES CONTEST

Winner in University Will Be Awarded Special Trip to Detroit.

PROFESSORS TAKE PART

A trip to Detroit with all expenses paid is offered by the Nebraska Anti-Saloon league to the winner of the essay contest which the organization is sponsoring among the students of the University of Nebraska. The title of the essays will be "Ten Years of Prohibition."

Dr. H. A. White, professor of English, chairman of the faculty committee in charge of the contest, stated that the students could take either side of the question and treat it as they saw fit. The other members of the committee are Dr. J. E. LeRoussignol, dean of the college of business administration, and Dr. Frederick A. Stuff, professor of English.

Faculty Not Responsible. Dr. White said that he wished to have it made clear that the faculty committee was not responsible for the contest but they had merely agreed to give advice and help to the students who might be interested in the contest. "Students will be compelled to write essays for the contest in any English course, the matter being purely optional," he stated.

Twenty-two representatives from the various colleges of the state will be chosen to attend the national Anti-Saloon league convention in Detroit. Two will be sent from the University of Nebraska, one of whom will be (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5.)

SPEAKER EXPRESSES DESIRES OF NEGROES

'Want More of Justice and Understanding,' Says Harriett Horton.

"The negro wants more justice and less charity, more understanding and less help," declared Harriett Horton, interracial committee chairman, in her talk before yesterday evening at Ellers Smith hall. The meeting was led by Kathryn Thompson.

"His color makes no difference to the negro except in the world of prejudice created by the whites. The negro, however, has been induced to believe in the permanency of his distorted social position. He has too often unnecessarily excused himself. The intelligent negro must know himself and be known for precisely what he is. The relationship of the master and the slave has not changed much, the negro is still a slave to prejudice, ignorance and cruelty.

"We must appreciate the sacredness of human personality. There is something essentially wrong with us to put prejudice above the person — to despise personality," stated Miss Horton. "Adversity has always been the part of the negro, but he has tried to make the best of it. He was proud of his black skin, but he has been made to understand that it is a disgrace. We must look to the negro as an individual, not as a prejudice."

OWL GETS LAST MINUTE PARDON AND KEEPS LIFE

A horned owl, brought to the museum yesterday by a resident of Jansen, Neb., took a trip through the university museum and today is none the worse for his experience.

The owl was found in an old mill at Jansen and the finder, thinking that it would be worth to the museum, brought it to Lincoln to be stuffed and mounted.

Several members of the staff saved the bird from the terrible fate of many of its brothers who are housed in that institution, and after a hurried conference, decided that the owl should be freed. The owner of the bird reluctantly put the owl back into an improvised cage on the side of his automobile and after declaring his intention of taking Mr. Owl back to his former residence in the old mill, drove off. Moral: One owl in the wild is worth two in a museum!

DR. CONDRA RETURNS FROM GEOLOGY TRIP

Nebraska Professor Goes On Lengthy Tour of Three States.

INSPECT FIELDS OF OIL

Dr. G. E. Condra of the geological department returned recently from a fourteen days tour conducted for state geologists through Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma. This tour was conducted by Dr. C. N. Gould, state geologist of Oklahoma and a graduate of the University of Nebraska, and involved a special study of the Pennsylvania or oil bearing beds.

These beds extend through Nebraska to Texas and more than fifty units have been found in this state. As a result of these discoveries with which Dr. Condra has been connected, more than $1,500,000 will be spent next year in prospecting for oil, according to statements made to Dr. Condra by representatives of oil concerns.

At the meeting of the Tulsa Geological society, which is the largest in the country, Dr. Condra made the principle address on "Correlation of Pennsylvania Beds." This subject is one on which Dr. Condra has spent much time and is considered an authority. He is chairman of the interstate committee on correlation of Pennsylvania beds between Iowa and Texas.

HIGH QUALITY MARKS AG COLLEGE HERDS

Dairy Cattle of University Furnish Best Milk for Lincoln Babies.

The University of Nebraska college of agriculture owns and cares for a herd of cattle which furnishes milk for Lincoln's babies. There are Guernseys, Ayrshires, Holsteins and Jerseys in the herd. These cows produce over 200 quarts of milk daily for the youngsters to consume.

This milk is preferred for babies because it is tested and found to be much purer than the average milk. The cows are free from tuberculosis and contagious abortion. The milk is examined daily under a microscope and a count made of all bacteria present. For the past year the count has been less than 2,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter. Ordinary milk for adults contains a much larger bacterial content. The city of Lincoln requires that milk left on the doorstep must have less than 100,000 as a bacterial content.

Every precaution is taken to keep this milk clean and pure. The cows are fed specially prepared foods that tend to give the milk an agreeable flavor which will suit the youngster's palate.

Ray Ramsay Declares It's Easier to Manipulate Airplane Than Automobile

"It's easier to drive an airplane than an automobile," declared Ray Ramsay, secretary of the Nebraska alumni association, Tuesday. Mr. Ramsay completed his tests Monday morning and is now the proud owner of a private pilot's license.

"There's really very little danger in it, either, provided you do sane flying and don't undertake stunts," he added. "Airplanes were not made for stunts and anyone who tries them is doing so at his own risk."

Decided to Learn. Mr. Ramsay first decided to learn to fly when he returned via the air from a national convention of the junior chamber of commerce held in Flint, Mich., last June. He declares that he never intends to use his knowledge commercially, but that knowing that flying is the coming means of travel, he wished to be able to discuss the matter intelligently. The only way to do this, he believed, was to learn to fly, and he needed only the example of some of his friends to Brockway, Fellman, Kezer, Pirie, Robinson Place First on List.

Winners of the University of Nebraska Rhodes scholarship selection were announced Tuesday by Chancellor E. A. Burnett.

The winners were Lawrence Brockway of Wichita, Kas.; David Fellman of Omaha; Munro Kezer, Fort Collins, Colo.; John Pirie of Lincoln and Roger Robinson of Lincoln.

Pirie is taking graduate work in the law college, while Brockway, Fellman and Kezer are engaged in graduate work in other departments of the university.

All applicants were interviewed Monday afternoon by the state committee in the office of Dean J. D. Hicks in social sciences. The five winners' names were submitted to Chancellor Burnett's office for approval.

These five men will represent the university in the state contest in which winners of local contests in other sections of the state will be entered. One man will be selected from the state to enjoy a year's school at Oxford university beginning in October, 1930. The state award will be made Dec. 7.

CRACK DRILL SQUAD HAS RECORD TRYOUT

More Than Hundred Appear At Pershing Rifles Tests Tuesday.

THURSDAY CLOSES TRIAL

One of the largest turnouts in the history of Nebraska's company of Pershing Rifles, national crack drill organization, numbering more than one hundred freshmen and sophomores, reported for the first tryout of the year Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock on the drill field.

"We were very pleased with the large number of men trying out and their aptitude in drill," said Stanley Day, captain of the unit, last night.

Tryouts are being held three nights this week. One was held Tuesday night, one will be held tonight, and the last will take place Thursday night. Tryouts are from 5 until 6 p. m.

Tryouts Are Held. Contrary to a statement made in the Daily Nebraskan yesterday, recommendations from the captains in charge of the various companies are not necessary for those who desire to try out. It is not required that men wear the regular army uniforms for the tryouts. The only requirement is that candidates be freshmen and sophomores and that they report promptly at 5 o'clock with their rifles.

Men will be chosen from the number of checks against them and from the recommendations they receive from the checkers. Announcement of the new pledges will be made in Sunday's Daily Nebraskan.

According to Stanley Day, a large and varied program has been planned for the crack company this year. A crack rifle squad will be picked within a few weeks. A number of exhibitions by the crack squad and by the entire unit are being planned for this year.

PANTHER STARS WILL FIGHT NEBRASKA

A trio of Pitt's great gridiron warriors who will meet the Scarlet and Cream of Nebraska on Memorial stadium field Saturday in the most outstanding gridiron classic of the country this week. The Golden Panthers from Pitt are rated as the mighty team of the east and are pointing for a mythical championship this season. The intersectional game this week on Memorial stadium field will draw the largest football crowd that Nebraska has seen for many years.
