ALL UNIVERSITY PARTY IS GREAT SOCIAL SUCCESS

Nine Hundred People Visit Coliseum Saturday for Function.

VAUDEVILLE IS FEATURE

'Cut In' Dances Are Popular At Affair Sponsored by Barb Council.

Nine hundred persons attended the Homecoming all university party given by the Barb Council in the coliseum last Saturday evening. This was the largest university party held in recent years.

A short and snappy vaudeville program was held between dances. Miss Grace Katham sang and played her ukelele and guitar and was repeatedly encored. Arden Berquist played four numbers on his marimba. Music for dancing was furnished by the Nebraska orchestra.

The cut in dances, a feature of the evening, proved to be very popular both to those who came alone and to those who had dates," remarked Alan Williams, president of the Barb Council.

The favors, chocolate footballs tied with the Kansas and Nebraska colors and the cigaret whistles were well received by all present," continued Williams.

Chaperons for the affair were Prof. and Mrs. W. D. Strong and Prof. and Mrs. R. L. Reynolds.

WORK PROGRESSES

ON 1930 YEARBOOK

Deadline for Junior, Senior and Class Pictures Is Saturday.

The 1930 Cornhusker is rapidly taking shape, and will come out about a month earlier than last year, according to Arthur Bailey, editor. Work on the football and administration sections is begun and progress is being made on the whole book.

As the deadline for junior, senior and fraternity pictures, set for Nov. 9, draws near, the students are being overtaken by the last minute rush of students who have failed to have their pictures taken. However, they will be able to accommodate all those who wish to have their pictures in the year book.

There are yet about eight hundred pictures to be taken and the editor urges that those who have not had their pictures taken make appointments for early in the week and avoid a last minute rush that cannot be properly handled.

Road Graders Find Fossilized Tusk Of Mammoth While Building Highway

"Nine feet long and nine inches in diameter."

These were the specifications for the fossilized mammoth tusk that was found in the southeast corner of Hamilton county last week by road graders, according to Henry F. Reider and Paul McGrew who returned to Lincoln Thursday from the site of the buried tusk, where they had carried on further investigation of the tusk in the interests of the Morrill hall collection at the University of Nebraska.

Reider and McGrew were sent to Hamilton county to excavate about the tusk to determine whether the fossilized skull of the prehistoric monster was still preserved near the unearthed tusk. They found no signs of other fossilized bones, but did not complete a thorough search.

County Commissioner L. E. Ende

derle of Hamilton county and two members of a road gang discovered the tusk last Saturday, while they were grading a new road five miles east of Stockham and a little south. The grader scraped across the big bone. It was first thought to be the bone of a mastodon, but Reider and McGrew pronounced the find as a mammoth tusk, since it was buried in the Pleistocene bed and larger than a mastodon tusk.

The tusk will be left in the ground over the winter, until spring when more extensive excavation can be carried out. The site of the fossilized tusk will be fenced off on the new highway to prevent any damage that might be done by the traffic on the road, since the tusk lies at only about a six inch depth now.

TESTS INDICATE HIGH MENTALITY IN ARTS COLLEGE

At a recent meeting of Phi Tau Theta a test was given on the "Life and Teachings of Jesus." The test consisted of fifty questions, each one having four possibilities, published by Northwestern university. After the tests were graded it was found that the average of the group was over eighty percent. The highest grade scored was one hundred percent and the lowest was forty-six percent.

The grades were averaged according to the colleges in which the men were registered and also it was found that the arts and sciences students ranked high with an average of eighty-two percent and business organization students low with an average of sixty-six percent.

The group proposes to follow this test with others on ethical comprehension, student problems, and student interests. From the results of these tests the program committee proposes to work out programs which will meet the direct need.

GREEKS VOTE MONDAY

After perfecting a constitution, the Fraternal Cooperative association, an organization of fraternities to effect a savings in food buying thru cooperative action, decided to meet this evening at 7:30 p. m. in Morrill hall, room 9, and take definite action.

At the special meeting held Sunday afternoon at the Phi Kappa Psi house, copies of the constitution were made available for distribution to the fraternities, where they were discussed Monday night. Although a number of the fraternities were expected to act upon the question before the next meeting of the association, it is not absolutely essential that the groups take definite action at once. The time limit will be extended for several days, according to James Elliott, temporarily in charge of the organization work.

New officers and a permanent organization will be effected at tonight's meeting. Professor Schramm is expected to address the group, according to Elliott. Much interest was shown at the last discussion, he said, and the individual groups seemed to favor the plan for cooperative buying of foodstuffs.

THETA NU EPSILON RETURNS TO CAMPUS

Stencils of Banned Club Appear in City During Week End.

SYMBOLS CAUSE TALK

Bringing back memories of a past marked by political battles, secret drinking feasts, and eventually by an outlawing upon the Nebraska campus, Theta Nu Epsilon symbols have appeared in several places on and about the university premises. The skull and cross keys with the superimposed Greek letters were stenciled Friday night upon the walk before Social Sciences hall, upon the stadium and the coliseum, and in front of several fraternity and sorority houses.

A fraternity with a checkered past, Theta Nu Epsilon began originally as a drinking club and secret political organization. Not recognized by other national organizations and outlawed by colleges and universities, the group continued to exist in secret, usually controlling the political destinies of the campuses upon which it was represented.

Today the organization is recognized by several universities, but is still an outlaw at the University of Nebraska, and is still banned by most national fraternities. The appearance of the symbols Friday night is the first tangible proof of the existence of the group that the university has had for several years, although an occasional lullum has, after leaving school, put on the T. N. E. pin.
