

FOURTH ANNUAL FARMERS FORMAL PROVES SUCCESS

Hedlund Announces Ticket Sale Is Large Enough For Profit.

BAND PLAYS OLD TUNES

Student Activities Building Is Elaborately Dressed By Committee.

Over one hundred and eighty couples attended the largest Farmers Formal ever held at the college of agriculture Friday evening. It was the fourth annual all Ag-Home Ec festival to be staged emphasizing the farm atmosphere throughout the party.

The main floor of the student activities building, which housed the party was lavishly decorated with corn fodder woven into lattice work and suspended from the balcony. Baled hay seats were placed at intervals around the entire floor. The balcony was arranged with hay and fodder to give the effect of a hayloft while the lights were covered with black paper displaying cutouts of all varieties of farm animals.

An entrance consisting of a lengthy tunnel of baled hay led from the door to the balcony and a ladder furnished the means of getting down to the main floor after the dark tunnel was successfully traversed. A large barrel of cider and a dishpan filled with doughnuts furnished the refreshments for the gay crowd.

Agricultural Setting.

Subonnets, straw hats, cob pipes, red neckerchiefs, and all colors of aprons and overalls were to be seen in the costumes worn by the party goers. The ten piece orchestra added to the spirit of the party with an occasional old-time dance number such as "Out in the New Mown Hay" and "Red Wing," and climaxed the hilarity with the "Old Washer Woman."

Glen Hedlund, chairman of the Ag club committee for the party, stated the ticket sales were sufficient to make it a financial success and that the general comment indicates that it was one of the best parties held on the Ag campus for some years.

The Ag club committee which served as the central organization consisted of Glen Hedlund, Fred Sandeen and Howard McClean. Other committees which had charge of special preparations were as follows: decorations: Fred Dean, Robert Danielson, Georgia Wilcox, Everette Kriegerling, Forest Lee, Arthur Mauch and Marguerite Hagerman; refreshments: Ruth White, Mabel Johnson and Eston Clarke; entertainment: Clarence Clover and Charlotte Joyce; dates: Mabel Bignell and Cyril Winkler; publicity and program: Donald Facka, Merlin Matzke, Harold Marcott, Nesje Lakeman and Lidiellen Munsell; invitations: Fred Sandeen and Genevieve Brehm; tickets: Edward Juskie and Esther Boyer.

LUNCHEON FOR DADS IS BEING ARRANGED

Larson Announces Tickets For Event Go on Sale Monday Morning.

Tickets for the Dad's day luncheon at the chamber of commerce Saturday will go on sale Monday, according to Gordon Larson, chairman of the luncheon committee in charge. They will be sold at every fraternity and sorority by the fraternity steward and at the College Book store. Price of the tickets is sixty-five cents.

The luncheon will be held at 12 o'clock noon in the Chamber of Commerce dining room in honor of all fathers of university sons. Larson requested that fraternities and sororities do not plan any functions for noon Saturday but to hold their banquets and dinners in the evening instead. James Munsgraves is in charge of all ticket sales.

Event is Annual.

Dad's day is an annual event at the University of Nebraska, observed on the date of one of the season's major games each year. The Oklahoma-Nebraska classic will be the feature of the day's entertainment this year. In order that students holding tickets for the game in the student section may sit with their dads and mothers, an arrangement has been announced by John K. Selleck, student activities director, whereby student tickets may be exchanged for tickets in other sections. This does not apply to tickets in the cheering section, however.

Besides the chamber of commerce luncheon Saturday many other forms of entertainment have been planned by the different fraternities and sororities to fill in the remainder of the program of the day. It is hoped that every university student will make an effort to have his dad present Saturday. A large representation of fathers is expected.

LENER TAKES LEAD IN 'JOHN FERGUSON'

Favorites of Former Plays Will Appear in First Production

ERVINE WRITES DRAMA

W. Zedley Lerner as John Ferguson will play the lead in St. John Ervine's famous drama, "John Ferguson," which will be given for the first time by the University Players this Friday evening and will continue for one week.

Mercedes Ames as Sarah Ferguson, Joy Storm as Andrew Ferguson, Thirza Fay as Hannah Witherow, Paul Miller as "Clutie" John Magrath, Paul Thompson as Sam Mawhinney, and Maxwell Jones as Sergeant Kernaghan, R. I. C., complete the cast.

Religious Theme.

Mr. Lerner who needs little introduction to Nebraskians assumes the part of an elderly Irish farmer, John Ferguson, who is completely engrossed in his own idea of religion. He believes so firmly that everything is God's will that he even accepts the destruction of his home and the debasement of his family with resignation and faith.

The Ferguson family is further composed of Sarah; the wife, Hannah, the daughter; and Andrew, the son. Mrs. Ferguson supports her husband in his religious views, but the children have a more youthful and independent interpretation of religion.

Realistic Drama.

It was this four act drama which first put the New York Theatre Guild on the top rank in importance among the producing organizations of that city. It is pure realism which is covered with none of the sham lines of sentimentalization over in which is cast that fascinating charm of Irish wistfulness has marked the success of the play.

Mr. Ervine puts genuine human beings in his play and the audience is allowed to see weakness, strength, villainy, and faith depicted before them. They leave the theater with the feeling that they have had an intimate glimpse of real life.

In praising Mr. Ervine's production "John Ferguson," the weekly wrote, "There is strength in Mr. Ervine's idea, coherence in the action of his play, and power in the drawing of his characters."

NEBRASKA DEBATERS ENGAGE IN CONTESTS

Humber and Marold Meet Two Iowa Teams Over Past Week End.

University of Nebraska debating team, composed of Walter G. Huber and Carl J. Marold, engaged Iowa State Agricultural college at Ames and the University of Iowa at Des Moines on Nov. 7 and 8 respectively. They were debated in which no decision is given.

An interesting feature of the Ames debate was the thirty minute open forum held at its conclusion. The purpose of these discussions is to give the audience a chance to express its opinion and to ask the debaters any questions which they wish.

UNIVERSITY GETS 3 SCHOLARSHIPS FROM DONATION

Awards Honor Memory of Henry Bostwick Who Aided Students

GIFT AMOUNTS TO $300

Former Nebraska Man Is Largely Responsible For New Fund

Three scholarships of $100 each, named in honor of the late Henry C. Bostwick of Omaha, have been established at the University of Nebraska, according to an announcement made by Chancellor E. A. Burnett. Two of the scholarships were established by Mrs. Charles R. Massey of Washington, D. C., and the third was established by F. H. Menefee, professor of engineering mechanics at the University of Michigan, and a well-known engineer.

Menefee's father was a nephew of Mr. Bostwick, and Mrs. Massey is a niece of Mr. Bostwick. Mr. Bostwick, in whose honor the three scholarships are named, died April 15, 1920, when he was chairman of the board of directors of the Stock Yards National bank of Omaha. He went to Omaha in 1886 and became associated with the banking business as cashier of the newly organized South Omaha National bank. In a merger in 1911 Mr. Bostwick was named president of the Stock Yards National bank. He served in this capacity until in January, 1920, when he was promoted to chairman of the board of directors. In 1897 he organized the Cattle Feeders' Loan company and was interested in cattle concerns in Colorado, Wyoming, and Montana.

Professor Menefee, who was instrumental in securing the scholarships, received his B. Sc. degree in electrical engineering at the University of Nebraska in 1908. His wife was a member of the class of '08. According to Professor Menefee, it was largely due to Mr. Bostwick that he was able to continue his college work without White Arranges Functions For Forensic Artists From Oxford.

The Oxford debate team, which will meet the University of Nebraska debaters in Lincoln, Thursday, Nov. 21, will be entertained at a noonday luncheon on the day of the debate by the Lincoln Knife and Fork club, according to an announcement by Dr. H. A. White, coach of the Nebraska team. Richard A. Land, a member of the English team, will speak at the luncheon.

On the evening of the day of the debate the Oxford debaters will be entertained at a tea by Prof. Oliver C. Collins, a former Oxford student now teaching at the University of Nebraska.

ENGINEERS' BARBECUE BRINGS LARGE CROWD

Committee Estimates Over 200 at Annual Affair For Students.

Over two hundred students attended the largest Engineer's barbecue in the history of the university Friday night, at the armory. The barbecue is an annual affair sponsored by the engineering executive board.

The barbecue dinner was the first thing in the program. Coffee, doughnuts, and apples were served along with the barbecue beef sandwiches. Russel Lindskog acted as master of ceremonies, keeping the crowd in a continual uproar with sallies and witticisms as he introduced different speakers, following the dinner.

Dean Ferguson was the principal speaker of the evening. He presented a short talk on "Wonder." After this talk several students were called upon for speeches. One freshman was called upon to sing.

Members of the engineering board stated that they believe this year's to be the best barbecue ever held here. Joe Buzicka, chairman of the refreshments committee, and Darrell Schneider, Gerald Briggs, and Herbert Kimberly were responsible for arrangements.

Ag College Teachers Will Go to Convention

Dean W. W. Burr of the college of agriculture, Prof. W. H. Brokaw, director of agricultural college extension, and Miss Margaret Fedde, chairman of the department of home economics, will leave the first of the week for Chicago, where they will attend the meetings of the association of land grant colleges.

CADETS WILL MARCH IN PARADE MONDAY

University Dismisses All Afternoon Classes for Armistice

GRISWOLD IS SPEAKER

The entire cadet regiment led by the university band will make up a unit in the Armistice day parade, sponsored by the Lincoln American Legion Monday. This announcement was made Saturday by Lieut. Col. F. F. Jewett, commandant of the R. O. T. C. regiment.

All university classes will be dismissed Monday afternoon in observance of the day, according to T. J. Thompson, dean of student affairs. Every R. O. T. C. student who has not been properly excused will be required to take part. Band and cadets will form on the drill field at 12:40 o'clock and march to O street where they will join the Legion parade. Line of march will be west on O street, past the reviewing stand at the city hall, to Ninth street, north on Ninth to P street, east on P to Fourteenth street, and north on Fourteenth street to disband.

Legion Takes Charge.

The parade will be made up of several bands, members of the police and fire departments of Lincoln and representatives of all patriotic organizations. The American Legion, according to precedent, is taking charge of the parade and is also arranging a big Armistice day celebration.

The celebration will start Monday at 11 o'clock with a memorial service to be conducted at Thirteenth and O. American Legion drum corps will march to Thirteenth and O and render several selections. Following that a salute will be fired by the firing squad and taps will be sounded in honor of all departed comrades.

Starting at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon a patriotic program will be held at the university coliseum. Speaker of the day will be Dwight Griswold of Gordon, Neb. Mr. Griswold is state commander of the American Legion and a former state senator and newspaper editor. A patriotic program and pageant will be put on by the Lincoln public schools. Eleven hundred school children, with representatives from kindergarten to high school, will take part. One of the features of the pageant will be a living flag, composed of 500 children dressed in red, white and blue, which will form a background on the coliseum stage during the entire program.

Music between numbers of the program will be furnished by the Lincoln high school band and high school orchestra under the direction of Charles B. Righter. The celebration will come to a close in the evening with a dance at the coliseum. The dance will start at 8:30 o'clock and is free to all former service public will be ten cents and five cents per dance. Ben Ganda's Collegians will play.

FORMER SENATOR HITCHCOCK WILL SPEAK ON PEACE

Former senator Gilbert Hitchcock will speak in Lincoln on the evening of Armistice day on the subject "The Nations Made Plans for Peace." The address will be given at the First Christian church at 8 o'clock, and will be open to the public.

Mr. Hitchcock was associated with Woodrow Wilson in the work of founding the League of Nations at the time he was a United States senator from the state of Nebraska.

FIVE STUDENTS RECEIVE HONORS AT CONVOCATION

Honorary Business Groups Announce New Members At Assembly.

MANY GET RECOGNITION

Bullock Tells of Criticisms Made About University Graduates.

Five men and one woman received recognition for superior scholarship at the college of business administration convocation in Social Sciences auditorium Friday. Students and faculty of the college attended the assembly at which members of the professional and honorary societies were announced.

Miss Catherine Brown of Deadwood, S. D., was the only student elected to membership in Gamma Epsilon Pi and Beta Atkins. Kimball Raymond C. Deins, Powell; Earl C. Hald, Boelus; Alfred Hook, Omaha; and Merrill A. Johnson, Fremont, were announced members of Beta Gamma Sigma.

Scholarship is Basis. Gamma Epsilon Pi and Beta Gamma Sigma elect membership in a manner similar to that of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholarship fraternity.

Recognition was given to three scholars, whose names have previously been announced. They were James E. Bartley of Lincoln, winner of the George W. Holmes scholarship; Oscar E. Osterlund of Upland, Neb., winner of the Miller and Paine scholarship, and Miss Martha C. Weaver of Falls City, winner of the C. M. Rudge memorial scholarship.

These three scholars are at present working under the direction of Professor T. E. Robb in the business research department. They are making studies which will be published by the university in bulletin form for which they will receive their masters degree.

WOMEN JOURNALISTS PLAN SCHOOL DINNER

Theta Sigma Phi Sponsors Banquet; 'News' Will Be Subject.

The annual school of journalism banquet sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalism sorority will be held Thursday, Nov. 21, at the Annex cafe.

The general plan of the banquet will be "News." Those attending the banquet last year will remember that the general theme of it was "Elections."

Tickets will go on sale Monday, Nov. 11. All students of the school of journalism are invited. Tickets may be obtained from the Temple building or members of Theta Sigma Phi.

Admission to the banquet will be seventy-cents a plate.

BLUE PRINT CONTAINS ENGINEER'S FEATURES

November Issue Will Come Out This Week With Modern Cover.

November issue of the Nebraska Blue Print, which will be out the latter part of this week, contains many feature articles by both student and alumni engineers. E. B. Sawyer, electrical engineer '98, has contributed an article on "Some Interesting Facts Regarding Electric Power Used in Mines." Ralph S. Mueller, electrical engineering '98, gives an impression of the engineer in business in his article, "Business as a Career."

Dean Ferguson has written a general discussion of traffic problems and comments on the various traffic improvements to make travel at higher speeds safe. Willard Dann gives a second report on the Hudson river bridge.

The appearance of the magazine has been greatly improved by the changing to a modernistic paper in the cover, according to staff members.

CHERRINGTON SPEAKS ABOUT WORLD PEACE

Denver University Director Thinks Consolidation Must Be Made.

KELLOGG PACT IS BASIS

Not until the two great international peace policies now existing, those of the league of nations and the Kellogg peace pact, can be coordinated and consolidated, can there be any definite forward step toward securing world peace in the future, is the opinion of Ben M. Cherrington, director of international relations at Denver university. Mr. Cherrington spoke to a group of more than 300 students and faculty members at the international fellowship dinner at the First Christian church Friday night.

"The Kellogg peace pact, known in Europe as the Paris pact, is the keynote of the American foreign policy," continued Mr. Cherrington. "It and the league are working to the same end but with different methods, since the league has a definite policy and the pact does not."

Should United Policies. The job confronting the United States today is to unite these two policies into one great world policy. In Mr. Cherrington's opinion, this may be done in either of two ways. America might join the league of nations, thus directly consolidating the two systems, but it is doubtful if this plan would prove practicable because of the opposition to the league which has long existed in this country. The other possibility would be in the development of a plan by the United States whereby America would always be represented at world peace conferences and committees of international arbitration. This would, the speaker feels, be acting in concert with nations whose standards are our own, and would not mean a sacrifice on our own part.

Praises Arbitration. In connection with international arbitration, Mr. Cherrington quoted from the speech delivered by Mr. Brand to the league recently, in which he reminded his hearers that a nation lost no prestige by submitting a dispute to arbitration. "May we be spared talk of prestige," quotes Mr. Cherrington, "because every time a nation thus saves a war, it may be said to have won a victory, even if it loses its case."

The speaker also quoted from Premier Macdonald's speech, which he heard at the same time, and which he considers one of the greatest speeches delivered since the war. Said Macdonald, "And so, sir, we are going to take our risk in peace. The nation who takes a risk in the cause of peace is likely to get peace, while the nation who doubts its power to bring peace will likely get war."

Mr. Cherrington was in charge of a group of students from twenty-one nations, including sixteen selected from the United States, who studied the possibilities of world peace in Geneva, Switzerland, last summer. He is a graduate of Nebraska with the class of 1911, and was active in student affairs during his career.

Many Races Present. Representatives from more than a dozen races were present at the dinner. Claude H. Gordon of Jamaica, Shun Che Myung of Korea, Emilio Del Rosario of the Philippines and Anatole Moser of Russia spoke briefly concerning aspects of world peace and race equality with which they are familiar.

Chancellor E. A. Burnett greeted the students in a short address. Rev. L. W. McMillan of the University Episcopal church was chairman. During the dinner, and after the speeches, music was furnished by the Grace M. E. church orchestra, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Mason.

Uniforms for Junior R.O.T.C. Men Here

Junior R. O. T. C. students who were measured for their uniforms some time ago, may obtain them at Magee's Monday morning. The uniforms did not arrive until Saturday evening, and Lieut. Col. F. F. Jewett is anxious that they be checked out in time for the parade.

Line Is Effective.

Nebraska's line, although light was powerful, and they stopped the Missouri backs consistently. The Missouri backs only made 61 yards by rushing during the whole game. Ossowski was passing very well at the center post, not once was it the fault of the passing, when fumbles were made.

Ely, an offensive tackle, and a defensive center was stopping everything that came his way. When it comes to calling the other team plays, he is about as good as anyone. Witt displayed plenty of fight, and his interference was plenty good. Several of the long gains that the backs made were due to his ability to block. Nebraska's forwards were a bit too over anxious to smear the other team plays. Several times they were penalized for offense.
